TRIUMPH FOR PEARY AT LONDON LECTURE

Hall Packed with 10,000 Persons—20,000 More Vainly Try to Get Seats.

HAILED AS POLE DISCOVERER

Gold Medal Presented to Him by Royal Geographical Society—Bartlett Also Cheered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 4.—"I stand here to-night, as representative of the Royal Geographical Society and armed with the full authority of its council, to welcome you, Commander Peary, as the first and only human being who has ever led a party of his fellow-creatures to a pole of the earth."

Tremendous cheering from 10,000 persons who filled the Albert Hall to-night followed this announcement by Major Leonard Darwin, President of the Royal Geographical Society.

"I am glad to have heard such cheers," added Major Darwin, "because they are a spontaneous tribute to the man who has accomplished what had long been the dream of arctic explorers."

Later in the proceedings, when presenting the special gold medal of the society to Commander Peary, Major Darwin said:

"On the very day on which we heard of Commander Peary's safe return I sent him a telegram of the warmest congratulation in the name of this society. To-night I should like to send, in your name and through the channel of the press, a message to the people of the United States to tell them that we hold they may well be proud to claim Commander Peary as a fellow-citizen of the United States, for he has taught the world a great lesson."

Culmination of Triumphs.

To-night's proceedings may, in a sense, be regarded as the culmination of Commander Peary's triumphs. From the first, scientific London accepted his statements as to the results of his expedition, and when, as Major Darwin said to-night, "an exceptionally capable committee of his fellow-countrymen, appointed by the National Geographical Society at Washington, examined his original records and emphatically indorsed his claim," there could be no possible room for doubt.

It has been suggested that the fact that the inscription on the gold medal of the Royal Geographical Society omitted any mention of the north pole and simply ran, "for arctic exploration," indicated the existence of ulterior doubt on the part of the society. There is absolutely no basis for such a suggestion. As a scientific body the Royal Geographical Society is not concerned with the actual quest of the pole, but only with arctic research and the scientific work which has been done by the explorers who have been dragged northward by the loadstone of the pole.

On the authority of several officials of the society it may be added that there is not the flimsiest foundation for the reports circulated in America to the effect that Mrs. Scott, wife of Capt. Scott, who designed the medal, received instructions to alter the inscription, which had at one time been drawn up with a reference to the north pole.

As for the report that Queen Alexandra's belief or disbelief in Commander Peary had any influence upon the society, it is too ridiculous to discuss seriously. That estimable royal lady when in Copenhagen believed in Dr. Cook. So did many others, but none of them, nor all of them, could ever influence the Royal Geographical Society one iota.

The enthusiasm which marked the Albert Hall meeting was of a whole-souled character calculated to make glad the heart of its object. Commander Peary, ordinarily so cool and composed, a man of steel and iron, was visibly moved.

The Albert Hall, which seats 8,000 persons, was not a quarter large enough to accommodate those who wished to be present. Thirty thousand applications for seats had been received by the Royal Geographical Society direct, and every nook and corner was crowded. Persons were standing in the gangways, while there was a huge crowd outside. It is estimated that nearly 10,000 persons managed to get into the hall.

As early as 4 o'clock this afternoon a crowd began to assemble outside the doors. A large force of police was present to direct the traffic and keep things orderly.

Great Crowd Outside Hall.

By the time the doors were opened the crowd had reached enormous proportions. Many who had not the faintest chance of getting inside wished to see and cheer the man who had reached the north pole. They cheered lustily when he drove up to the hall, accompanied by Dr. Scott Keltie, the Secretary of the Royal Geographical Society.

Inside the hall a magnificent spectacle presented itself. As Commander Peary came forward to his seat on the platform the audience rose en masse and cheered the explorer, shouting his name and waving hats and handkerchiefs in the air. On the platform itself were a hundred of Great Britain's most distinguished men, many of whom wore orders and decorations, while the naval representatives, who were much in evidence, had in some cases rows of medals pinned across their breasts.

Queenie Had Seized One a Few Nights Before—Shot in Master's Yard.

Queenie, a three-year-old brindle bulldog belonging to Bert Weiss, a manufacturer of barbers' supplies, had bow legs and a face ugly enough to curdle milk, but she kept burglars away from the Weiss home at 259 East 122d Street, when they unwisely entered there about two weeks ago. When the family rushed upstairs from the supper table to where she sat growling on the fire escape by an open second-floor window a few minutes later, they found a nice large piece of coat between her teeth.

Each night since then Queenie has made a complete round of all the rooms in the house from cellar to attic at hourly intervals, hunting for toothsome morsels of unbidden guests. In daytime she was kept safely tied in the kitchen with a leash. She was a great pet of the family, and Weiss says that $500 had been offered for her. The good people of the neighborhood did not esteem her quite so highly and the bad ones didn't esteem her at all.

Last evening Miss Carrie Weiss, a sister of Queenie's master, took her into the rear yard. Suddenly, just as she was leading Queenie back to the kitchen, Miss Weiss heard two successive shots. A moment later a bullet buried itself in the door a few inches from the dog. A second bullet sang past Miss Weiss, and Queenie leaped in the air with an angry yelp, then fell over, with blood flowing from her side. Despite hastily administered restoratives the dog died in the girl's lap a few minutes later.

Neighbors, hearing the shots, crowded the windows and fire escapes of the nearby houses, but neither they nor Miss Weiss caught a glimpse of the person who had fired. Both bullets came from a .32 calibre rifle. Weiss reported the shooting to the East 126th Street police and detectives were duly assigned to the case and discovered nothing. Both Weiss and the police believe the shooting was done by burglars, past or prospective, to whom Queenie was an eyesore.

LAST GOOD-BYES BY WINDOW.

Scarlet Fever Quarantine Keeps Even the Patient's Family Out.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., May 4.—So rigid was the quarantine established at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth McDonough of Burnett Avenue, this township, where her daughter Marguerite lies critically ill with scarlet fever, that when members of her family and friends sought to bid her the last farewell yesterday afternoon they were forced to ascend a ladder on the outside of the house and wave good-bye through the window. Late to-day it was reported that the patient, for whom hope of recovery had been given up, had a fighting chance.

For two weeks the young woman, who recently left the South Orange High School, has been ill with the disease. Yesterday the physician in charge said that her chances of living were so slim that those who wished to greet her once more in life had better seize the opportunity. The last rites of the Church were administered by the Rev. Thomas F. Monaghan, rector of St. Leo's Church in Irvington.

A ladder was raised to the window, and the first to ascend it was the mother of the stricken young woman. With difficulty she made her way to the top, and with tears streaming down her face waved kisses to her child. Bravely Miss McDonough waved back and smiled. Next came her brothers, Eugene, George, and William, in turn, and then her sisters, May and Cecilia. Many friends of the girl in school, hearing of their playmate's critical condition, appeared and begged the privilege of saying good-bye.

CENTRAL'S FIREMEN WIN.

Railway Agrees to an Advance of 7 Per Cent. in Wages.

After a conference lasting for more than a week between the Grievance Committee of the New York Central firemen and Assistant General Manager P. E. Crowley of the railroad, a settlement has been reached and an agreement signed by which the firemen, 3,000 in number, will receive an advance in wages averaging 7 per cent.

The conference never reached the stage where it was necessary to call in the services of a member of the Grand Lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The members of the committee left for their homes last night. They all said they were well satisfied with the terms of settlement.

P. H. Morrissey of the Trainmen's Arbitration Committee made the statement yesterday that the award in the case of the New York Central proper, including the Boston & Albany Branch, will be placed in the hands of Grand Masters Lee and Garretson of the trainmen and conductors, respectively, and of the officials of the New York Central to-day. He would not say what the award was, or if it was similar to the terms of the Baltimore & Ohio arbitration. This award also settles the case of the trainmen and conductors of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and the Delaware and Hudson, these companies agreeing to accept the New York Central award.

DIVORCEE IS CO-RESPONDENT.

Former Mrs. Hammerstein Named by Wife of Opera House Official.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Mrs. Genevieve Cheston Frowert, wife of Percival K. Frowert of this city, advertising manager for Hammerstein's Philadelphia opera house, filed a cross suit to-day for a limited divorce, naming the recently divorced wife of Arthur Hammerstein, son of the impresario, as co-respondent. She demands the custody of their three children. Frowert instituted an action against his wife last Saturday on ground of cruel and barbarous treatment and desertion.

Following the divorce granted to Mrs. Hammerstein Reno, Nev., last Monday, Arthur Hammerstein publicly accused Frowert of responsibility for his marital difficulties. Mrs. Frowert said to-day:

"As Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hammerstein came to reside near us in Cynwyd I frequently entertained them at my home. It was only when I found that Mrs. Hammerstein's motive in accepting my hospitality was other than a friendly one that I became suspicious. Her actions and Mr. Frowert's compelled me to withdraw from our home."

Mrs. Frowert declared that her husband had twice broken agreements as to the custody of their children, and added:

"Although I do not for a moment credit Mr. Frowert with either the wish or intention to marry the former Mrs. Hammerstein, I do not intend to give him the chance."

TAFT SCORES CRITICS OF NEW JUSTICES

Amid Cheers of St. Louisans for Hughes and Lurton, Tells of Importance of Supreme Court.

TALKS CONSERVATION ALSO

Closes Five-Day Tour of West with Several Speeches and Is Due Back in Washington on Friday.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 4.—President Taft's five-day trip to the Middle West ended to-day, and he left to-night for Washington, where he is scheduled to arrive Friday morning. It remained for St. Louis to give Mr. Taft the heartiest demonstration of his present journey. The city was gayly decorated, and there were cheering throngs wherever the President went. Several times his automobile was stopped to receive bouquets of flowers. These Mr. Taft later sent to St. Luke's Hospital and the Home for Incurables.

The apparent warmth of the reception seemed to affect the President, and when at the luncheon of the Business Men's League later in the afternoon President Walker Hill praised him amid deafening applause for his appointments of Lurton and Hughes to the Supreme Court bench, Mr. Taft launched into a vigorous speech in which he paid his respects to William Jennings Bryan for his reported criticism of Gov. Hughes, and decried the "cant of the demagogue" and the disposition of public journals to make unjust charges against men in public life.

"All I am appealing for is justice and a square deal," said the President, "not especially for myself, for indeed I am in a position where I can get along better than some of the rest without it. I am appealing for justice in dealing with all classes."

The President declared that he held the appointment of men to the Supreme Court bench to be the most sacred of his duties. Mr. Taft had intended to say only a word or two, but the cheers of his hearers seemed to inspire him to go on.

Talks of Supreme Court.

"The Constitution of the United States," said the President, "was made by the people of the United States, and we have a popular and representative Government, but the people who framed the Constitution realized that in order to secure the best Government they must impose limitations upon themselves so that the result of the views of the majority should be embodied in law and National policies through certain instrumentalities that would oppose obstructions to sudden emotional movements of the people that were not taken with the deliberation necessary to secure wisdom and that ought to be delayed and held up until they could pass under the observation, not only of Philip drunk, but of Philip sober.

"And so they constituted the Supreme Court, and the subordinate tribunals to be established by Congress, certain powers which, interpreted by Marshall and those who followed him, make that court unique in the tribunals of the world. That court was constituted to preserve the rights of the people and the rights of individuals against the people themselves whenever in the heat of emotion or temporary aberration they enacted measures that deprived the individual of his just rights under the Constitution.

"Hence it is that to me, a lawyer, the Supreme Court of the United States is the most sacred thing that we have in this Government, and the appointment of men to that bench is the highest and most sacred function that the Executive has to perform. I am not exalting the judiciary above the legislative or the executive branch, or saying that the judicial has any more power than the executive when the executive is within his functions, or when the legislative is within its functions, for the Supreme Court has laid down plainly the limitations.

Criticism of Appointment.

"Now I do not like to be invidious in my remarks, or to quote what may have been a misquotation, but I did hear or see a criticism of one appointment on the ground, as I understood it, that the appointee was not an implacable foe of wealth and corporations. I think perhaps that criticism has been misunderstood and that the utterer of it did not intend to give it the meaning that, thus stated, it seems to have. I believe that all, Democrats and Republicans, Republicans and Insurgents, who are patriotic citizens, and we all are that, are in favor of having upon that bench men who are foes of nothing but what is wrong and are in favor of equal justice to every one, whether that be an organization of men doing business under the law and using the instrumentality of a corporation to promote the industries of the country, or be the humblest citizen struggling with his hands to earn a livelihood for his family.

"I do not mean to say that men by their habits of life may not acquire a bent or a prejudice in one direction or another, and that it is wise to select for the highest tribunal men who have such a bent and who have not in their make-up the danger of prejudice for one interest or against another. But I do mean to say that there is in the public journals, and in what I may call the cant of the demagogues, a disposition to charge that kind of a bent in favor of corporate wealth and corporate greed and corporate monopoly when there is no justice for the charge at all.

"This assumption of peculiar honesty manifested by class declaration and the stirring up of class spirit is something that ought to be deprecated in our Republic, or else it will lead to great danger. We ought to take up the discussion of public questions and discuss their effect with judicial calmness and not have our minds diverted by charges of prejudice and corrupt motives; I say charges utterly unsupported by evidence or calm consideration."

Square Deal and Court Reform.

The President here remarked that he had taken up more than his allotted two minutes, and amid cries of "Go on," made his appeal for the "square deal" and justice in dealing with all classes.

"I said all classes," he went on. "Of course, practically, it is pretty hard to give it. To our Socialistic friends who are engaged in decrying our present institutions, I could furnish a good deal better ground for their complaints than they give themselves. I have talked about this before, and it is not a new theme with me. I think if they were to object to our administration of justice and the delays in it, arising from the traditional methods pursued in courts, by which the man with the longest purse has the advantage, because the litigation is drawn out, they would be getting, as the children say, 'pretty warm' in reaching a subject that will bear full discussion, and in which we shall have to have very decided reform.

"We have got to arrange it so that cases are decided promptly. I am bound

ABLAZE ON STAGE, DANCER STOPS PANIC

Nina Payne Sets Fire to Her Gown in Play at the American Theatre.

CANDLE FIRST IGNITED HAIR

She Quickly Extinguished Flames and Calmed the People, Who Were Screaming in Terror.

Nina Payne, who gives a performance called "La Danse de la Robe de Nuit" at the American Theatre, in Forty-second Street, sent a thrill through the audience which wasn't on the programme last night, and demonstrated that she is quick-witted and cool-headed.

While carrying a lighted candle in the middle of the dance she set fire to her hair, and the flame quickly communicated to a thin silken robe she wore. Only prompt action by herself and her mother, who was standing in the wings, prevented both a fire and a panic.

The production, termed a "pantomimic comedy drama," is under the management of G. Molasso. It is called "La Sonambule," and calls for a cast of seven characters. Miss Payne, who takes the part of Mme. Martel, a somnambulist, dances in a single garment, a silken night robe.

The audience saw the accident first and several women screamed. The cry went through the house and a panic was imminent. Quickly realizing what had happened, Miss Payne smothered the blaze in her hair, but the flame had caught her flimsy robe and was spreading rapidly. Falling to the floor she rolled upon the blaze.

Her mother ran to her daughter's assistance, and the two quickly put out the fire. Mr. Molasso and a fireman, who were close by and had seen the whole affair, also rushed on the stage.

Half of the audience by this time was standing up. Women were screaming while men were shouting to keep still. It was all over in a moment, and when Miss Payne arose and announced that the danger was over and that she was not injured, she was greeted with loud cheers and applause. Then she resumed her dance, and after another ovation she said:

"I am sorry I frightened you and hereafter I am not going to take any chances. I'll use an electric candle."

Miss Payne's left arm was blistered from the shoulder to the elbow. Dr. Herman Reese of the Hotel Cadillac was called and dressed the wound. Manager Molasso said he did not think the accident would interfere with the performance to-day. Miss Payne is 19 years of age and this is her first appearance in New York. She came from San Francisco.

FARMER AS LABOR'S ALLY.

Farmers' Union in St. Louis Likely to Indorse Gompers's Plan.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—A plan for a political union of the American Federation of Labor and the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, with its 3,000,000 members, is under consideration to-night at a conference between labor unions and farmers union officers, coincident with the farmers' rally now in progress.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, is behind the movement. He, with Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and twenty other labor officers, have been in executive session with the Farmers' Executive Committee for the last three days.

It was announced to-night that Mr. Gompers's plan probably would be indorsed. Gompers has denied any intention of forming a new political party through an amalgamation of the Farmers' Union with the American Federation of Labor. His plan, he says, is to induce the farmer to be partisan in principle and not in party. He hoped, he said, to induce the agriculturists of the county to nominate and elect men favorable to the betterment of labor conditions, regardless of political affiliation.

LEAVITT WANTS CHILDREN.

Thinks He Can Get Them Now That Former Ruth Bryan Is Married Again.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, May 4.—William H. Leavitt, former husband of Ruth Bryan, who was married yesterday to Lieut. Reginald A Owen, said to-day:

"I have been misquoted in regard to my going to Lincoln. My plans in regard to that trip did not contemplate seeing my former wife. The only interest I had was in my two children. I understood that they were to be there with her, but when I learned that they were in Hanover, Germany, I dismissed the idea of going.

"I have been advised that I may secure the children now that their mother has married again, and I shall certainly do everything I can to get them."

KANSAS CITY, May 4.—Lieut. Reginald A. Owen and his bride, who was Mrs. Ruth Bryan Leavitt, spent last night in Kansas City.

"We are going to Jamaica, where I am stationed," said Lieut. Owen in response to inquiries.

HENEY TO BE NEW YORKER.

Leaves San Francisco to Join a Legal Firm, He Announces.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Francis J. Heney, who left last night for New York, where he will take up a permanent residence, said to his friends on departing:

"Not coming back to San Francisco to live. I have arranged for a legal connection with a well-known firm in New York, and have participated in fortunate litigation with that firm.

"I feel that the result of last year's election was a repudiation of my work in San Francisco, and that a wider and more profitable field opens for me in the great metropolis. So I have put all my past fights behind me, and am seeking a new career."

MISS MARY HARRIMAN TO WED A SCULPTOR

Friends Learn of Her Engagement to Charles Cary Rumsey of Buffalo.

SHE HAS POSED FOR HIM

Met Four Years Ago at the Meadow Brook Races—Announcement Expected To-day.

Miss Mary Harriman, eldest of the children of the late E. H. Harriman, is engaged to be married to Charles Cary Rumsey, son of Laurence D. Rumsey of Buffalo. Mrs. Harriman was not prepared yesterday at her home, 1 East Sixty-ninth Street, to make an announcement of the matter, but a formal statement is expected to be made to-day.

As far as could be learned yesterday the engagement is the result of a romance between the capable daughter of the great financier and a young sculptor of promise. Mr. Rumsey is the son of a successful business man, but has given all his attention to art. He has for some years spent most of his time in this city working at sculpture and has been seen little even by his friends at the Harvard Club.

Nearly all his time was spent in a little studio at the top of an old-fashioned building at 55 East Fifty-ninth Street, between Park and Madison Avenues. There is an artistic colony there, and in a house close by lived Paul Nocquet, a brother sculptor, who sacrificed his life in ballooning. Mr. Rumsey has been a well-known figure in the neighborhood, strolling along lost to his surroundings, carelessly clad and apparently absorbed in his art.

He first met Miss Harriman four years ago at the Meadow Brook Club at some races. Later he undertook some work at Mr. Harriman's new house at Arden. He was up there a good deal, and so got on intimate terms with the family.

Some months ago Miss Harriman was noticed by the neighbors in East Fifty-ninth Street as paying visits with a chaperon to the studio. She is a skilled horsewoman, and it became known that she was sitting for a sculptured relief to Mr. Rumsey. Her automobile was often seen at the door of the studio, and she paid a visit there as late as Tuesday.

At Mrs. Harriman's house yesterday all inquiries on the subject of the engagement were disregarded. Mrs. Harriman refused to see reporters and sent out word through her butler that their questions would be answered to-day. A member of the household, however, remarked when the question of the engagement was broachd:

"Has it got into the papers?"

It was learned at Arden that the engagement has been common property there for some time.

Miss Harriman is the eldest living child of Mr. Harriman. She made her début about six years ago. There are two other daughters, Cornelia, the wife of Robert Livingston Gerry, and Carol, who made her début last year.

For some years Miss Harriman has been interested in settlement work and also took up a number of studies, her practical knowledge of biology being considerable.

She was her father's confidante in many of his business affairs and was trained especially to understand the management of the estate at Arden. Mr. Harriman's confidence in her judgment was so great that he made her one of the executors of his great estate. She has been in active charge of the Arden Farm's Dairy and the 45,000 acres of the Harriman Orange County farms.

Mr. Rumsey's father made a large fortune in Buffalo in the tanning and railroad business and has a large estate on Delaware Avenue in that city. He inherits his artistic tastes from his mother's family, one of her brothers, Seward Cary, being a well-known sculptor.

Another uncle, Dr. Charles Cary, is a member of the staff of the University of Buffalo and is one of the leading medical practitioners of that city. A third uncle, Thomas Cary, owns one of the largest hotels there.

Mr. Rumsey is 30 years old, and was graduated from Harvard in 1902. He spent several years in the study of art in Boston and Paris and afterward settled down in this city. He is well known in art circles, although he has not exhibited very much of his work. He had a bronze statue of an Indian at the Pan American Exhibition at Buffalo, and later held an exhibition of his bronze work there.

He is a good polo player, and has hunted with the Genesee Valley pack, and in this love for horses follows his uncle, Seward Cary, who for a number of years drove the Red Jacket coach between Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

MORSE WEPT AS FARRAR SANG

Her Singing of "Home, Sweet Home" to Convicts Keenly Affected Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 4.—A pathetic feature of Geraldine Farrar's singing to the convicts in the Federal prison was the effect on Charles W. Morse, the ex-banker, who is serving a sentence of fifteen years. Morse knew Miss Farrar in happier days, and to save his feelings the Warden placed him behind a screen. As Miss Farrar sang Morse bowed his head and wept. When she concluded with "Home, Sweet Home," the sobs of the ex-banker were plainly audible. Miss Farrar knew Morse was present and she expressed to the Warden much sympathy for him.

Among the listeners was "Lupo the Wolf," the Black Hand terror. Caged but still defiant, he sat with several of his Black Hand companions as Miss Farrar sang. Of all the convicts "The Wolf" was the only one who showed no emotion.

INCOME TAX IS BEATEN.

Lower House of Massachusetts Legislature Votes Down Proposal.

BOSTON, May 4.—The lower house of the Massachusetts Legislature went on record to-day against the income tax, when a motion to substitute a favorable resolve for an adverse report of the Committee on Federal Relations was beaten by a vote of 126 to 102. The question has been under debate for nearly two days, before which the committee gave hearings, listening to a large number of citizens.

When it came to a test to-day three-fourths of the Democrats and about one fourth of the Republicans were found to be favorable to the income tax. The majority of the Republicans was sufficient to defeat the measure. On the vote 228 members were recorded out of 240.

There will doubtless be an attempt to reconsider the vote to-morrow. The Senate has not yet acted on the question.

PENSION FEVER TEST VICTIM.

Senate Votes $1,500 a Year to Kissinger, Bitten by Yellow-Fever Mosquitos.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—In reward for his services in acting as a subject for yellow fever tests, the Senate to-day passed a bill granting an annuity of $1,500 to John R. Kissinger of Indiana.

He is one of the soldiers who were used in demonstration of the theory that mosquitos transmit fever. Senator Shively said that Kissinger had become a hopeless paralytic.

UNION MAY EXPEL TAFT.

He Attended a Ball Game on Which It Had Put a Boycott.

CLEVELAND, May 4.—A demand for President Taft's expulsion from the steam shovelers' union for attending a boycotted ball game will be filed to-morrow at the headquarters of the organization in Cincinnati.

The charges will be preferred by the Cleveland Building Trades Union, which inaugurated the boycott against the American League on account of alleged employment of non-union labor in building Cleveland's new ball park.

ETHEL CROKER SAILS,

But Breen, the Groom She Is Said to Have Married, Stays Here.

Miss Ethel Croker, or, as her friends now believe her to be, Mrs. John J. Breen, was said last night on good authority to have sailed yesterday for Southampton on the White Star liner Adriatic, according to the plan she announced before she visited a Hoboken Justice of the Peace recently with Breen, a groom from Durland's.

Miss Croker is thought to have gone upon a visit to her father, the former Tammany chieftain.

It was rumored before the ship sailed that her husband would accompany her. Breen did not sail on the Adriatic, however. Richard Croker, Jr., was on the pier, but apparently he did not meet his sister.

MORGAN PARTNERS SAIL.

Davison and Stotesbury Go Abroad in Connection with the Chinese Loan.

Henry P. Davison, partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., who returned from a trip abroad only a few days ago, sailed back to Europe yesterday on the Adriatic. Another partner in the Morgan house, E. T. Stotesbury, accompanied him.

It was believed at first that Mr. Davison's errand had to do with the flotation of American bonds abroad, negotiations for which now are under way. But it was stated by bankers who are concerned in the Chinese loan plans that the two partners are going abroad on business connected with the international Chinese loan.

Willard Straight, who has been in China conducting the negotiations with the Chinese Government, has left Peking for Europe, and it is understood that Mr. Davison will meet him there.

EMBEZZLER NOW AN EDITOR.

W. F. Walker of New Britain in Charge of Prison Monthly.

HARTFORD, May 4.—William F. Walker, the former banker who is serving a sentence in the State prison at Wethersfield for embezzlement from the New Britain Savings Bank, has become editor of the Monthly Record, published by the prisoners.

Walker as a contributor has written a number of stories of prospecting for gold in Lower California. At present he is learning to set type in the prison's printing plant.

"LUCKY" BALDWIN AS A HERO.

Artist Who Painted Thirty Pictures for Him Sues Estate.

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—To the mass of litigation piling up against the estate of the late E. J. ("Lucky") Baldwin, another suit was added yesterday by H. H. Crass, a Chicago artist, who claims $22,150 for thirty oil paintings of the noted horseman depicting him in various heroic adventures.

One of the paintings illustrates Baldwin's most famous exploit. It shows him astride a plunging buffalo escaping death under the hoofs of a herd of angry bisons. Another picture shows Baldwin fighting off a party of Indians.

MELLEN PETITION APPROVED.

Massachusetts Legislature Will Consider Legalizing New Haven Securities

BOSTON, May 4.—Favorable action on the petition of President Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to legalize the securities of the road was taken to-day by the joint legislative Committee on Rules. The Senate Committee on Railroads will now give a hearing on the merits of the measure.

Connected with the petition is another measure which provides for an investigation by three State commissions of the finances of the New Haven Road, which measure now awaits the action of the Legislature.

TO CUT MILES OF WIRES.

Philadelphia Begins Destroying Bucket Shop and Poolroom Connections.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—More than 3,000 feet of wire, which was strung without a permit, was clipped to-day by employes of the city's Electrical Bureau. It is alleged that some of the wires carried stock quotations to bucket shops and others were used to furnish poolrooms with racing results.

Chief McLaughlin of the Electrical Bureau said to-day:

"It is our business to see that wires operated without permits for the benefit of bucket shops and poolrooms shall not remain in use. Many miles of illegal wires will be cut before our work is over."

JAPANESE COAL FOR ALASKA.

Commercial Club Protests Against Conditions Necessitating Importation.

SEWARD, Alaska, May 4.—Representatives of the Alaska Northern Railroad announced yesterday that a steamship is on the way here from Japan with 3,000 tons of coal to be used in operating trains this Summer.

The Seward Commercial Club has sent a protest to Congress against conditions that make necessary the importation of Japanese fuel while Alaska has such a large quantity of undeveloped coal.

AGED BANKER FOUND DEAD.

Former President of National Association Believed to Have Drowned Himself

HENDERSON, Ky., May 4.—The body of S. K. Snead, former President of the National Bankers' Association, was found in shallow water near the river bank here to-day. He had been missing since Sunday, and is believed to have committed suicide by drowning.

He was 72 years old, and for thirty years was cashier of the Henderson National Bank.

"Julia Smith, Taxpayer," Goes to Hearst's Aid in the Controversy with the Mayor.

WARRANT BACK TO CITY HALL

Left with McClellan at His Request—Still There on Jan. 3—Who Took It Back to the Chamberlain?

Developments came fast yesterday in the controversy between Mayor Gaynor and William R. Hearst over the payment of $48,000 by the city to Daniel F. Cohalan, Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall.

Papers were served on the Mayor, City Chamberlain Hyde, and Mr. Cohalan yesterday in a taxpayer's suit brought by Julia Smith, supposedly in the Hearst interests, to compel the restitution of the greater part of the money on the ground that the claim was excessive and exorbitant, and that its payment was illegal.

Last night Clarence J. Shearn, attorney for Mr. Hearst, announced also that he would apply to Justice Whitney in the Supreme Court to-day for an order directing Mr. Hyde to produce for inspection all the records of his office connected with the Cohalan warrant. The application is made on affidavits from American reporters, who swear that Deputy Chamberlain Walsh told them on April 29 that he signed the warrant for the payment of the money to Cohalan on Jan. 4, the day the $48,000 was collected by Mr. Cohalan.

Controller Prendergast issued a new statement, in which he further placed himself in opposition to the Mayor, declaring that the warrant was not complete until it was signed in the Chamberlain's office on Jan. 4, although it had been signed by the representative of the Controller and the Mayor's bond and warrant clerk before the new administration came in. He also insinuated that some one must have notified Mr. Cohalan when the warrant was going through, declaring that Cohalan appeared at the disbursement clerk's office in the Department of Finance to get his money within an hour after the warrant was received there from the Chamberlain's office.

Chamberlain Hyde wrote a letter to the Mayor in response to a request from him for a complete investigation of the matter, in which he declared that in the warrant receipt book in his office there appears opposite the Cohalan entry the words in pencil, "Returned to the Mayor at his request," and adding that he "had been informed" that this entry was made at the request of ex-Chamberlain Martin, who then put the warrant in his pocket. This was the first confirmation of the contention of Mr. Martin and ex-Mayor McClellan that the warrant was returned to the Mayor's office after having been sent to the Chamberlain's office on the afternoon of Dec. 31.

Mr. Martin admitted that he "put the warrant in his pocket" and took it personally back to Mayor McClellan. He then challenged Mr. Hyde to tell "who carried the warrant in his pocket" back from the Mayor's office to the Chamberlain's office. Mr. Martin insisted that it had not been returned up to the night of Jan. 3, when he gave up the office, adding that the new Chamberlain took possession the next day, the day on which the warrant was paid. To this Mr. Hdye replied that "Mr. Martin's imputation is beneath contempt"

The Mayor and Mr. Cohalan both remained silent on the controversy. The former showed that he is indignant over the entire matter and that it will be difficult to make peace between himself and the Controller.

McClellan Didn't Instruct These.

Frank M. O'Brien, who was Mayor McClellan's private secretary, was at his brother's hotel, the Riverside Inn, at Smithtown, L. I., last night. Over the telephone he declared that he knew nothing more about the Cohalan warrant than he had read in the newspapers.

"These matters did not come under my attention in any way," said he. "They were always attended to by the regular bond and warrant clerks."

"But did Mayor McClellan give you any instructions to call the Cohalan warrant to Mayor Gaynor's attention?" he was asked.

"He did not," said Mr. O'Brien.

William A. Willis, who was Mayor McClellan's executive secretary, is now a reporter on the staff of The American. He also denied all knowledge of the matter.

"I never saw the Cohalan warrant," said he, "and know nothing about the entire matter."

The same question which had been asked of O'Brien was put to him.

"Mayor McClellan did not give me any such instructions," he replied.

"Julia Smith" a Mystery.

The taxpayer's suit against the Mayor, Chamberlain Hyde, and Mr. Cohalan, as co-defendants, has been brought for Julia Smith, who is described in the complaint as "a resident and owner of real property assessed in the City of New York," by Alfred Epstein, a lawyer at 320 Broadway. Her complaint says that the sum of her assessment amounts to more than $1,000, and that "she is liable to pay taxes upon such assessment or assessments in said city." The complaint declares that $10,000 would have been a legitimate claim for Mr. Cohalan's services, and that the payment of the $48,000 was "an illegal official act" on the part of the Mayor and the Chamberlain.

The suit is brought under Section 51 of the General Municipal Laws, Chapter 29 of the Laws of 1909, Chapter 24 of the Consolidated Laws, which authorizes such actions to compel the return to the City Treasury of money received under claims which shall be adjudged by the court exorbitant and excessive, or to hold the officials who authorized the payment of the claim personally liable if the claimant is not responsible.

"Who is the plaintiff?" Mr. Epstein was asked.

"She is a business woman and a resident of Manhattan," he replied.

"Where does she live?"

"I promised her that I would not reveal that. She does not wish to be annoyed by reporters or by the men whom she is sure to offend by this action. Her identity will be made public in good time."

"Is she connected in any way with Mr. Hearst or any of his enterprises?"

"No."

"Is Mr. Hearst interested in this suit in any way?"

"No. I do not even know that he knows of it unless through his evening paper. Miss Smith and myself are bringing this action on our own account. She has been a client of mine for a long time, and while we were talking over other matters the other day, the question of the Cohalan payment came up. Miss Smith remarked that in her mind it was an outrage, and wanted to know if nothing could be done about it. I told her the law in such cases, and she authorized me to go ahead and bring this action. So far, the Mayor has been evasive in his explanation of the real points at issue. When we get him into court, however, the whole thing will be brought right out in the open.

You can rest assured that we are sincere in this suit."

Her Suit for Restitution.

The chief allegations in the complaint are:

That the claim of Daniel F. Cohalan was presented in an exorbitant and excessive amount, and not representing the reasonable value of his legal services; that subsequent to its presentation Daniel F. Cohalan, recognizing the fact that the claim was exorbitant and excessive, did consent to a reduction of $5,000, reducing his claim to $48,000.

That the defendants, William J. Gaynor, Charles H. Hyde, and Daniel F. Cohalan knew that the City of New York was not justly indebted in the amount of $48,000 to Daniel F. Cohalan, and well knew that his claim was exorbitant and excessive, and that the amount did not represent the reasonable value of his legal services.

That William J. Gaynor and Charles H. Hyde by their acts did allow the disbursement of $48,000, well knowing that it was a waste of the public's money, and that if it were not for their acts Daniel F. Cohalan could not have received $48,000, except upon making proper proof of the reasonable value of his legal services.

That William J. Gaynor and Charles H. Hyde acted in collusion with Daniel F. Cohalan, and not in good faith in allowing him to fraudulently obtain payment of his excessive and exorbitant claim ($48,000.)

That by reason of the payment of this sum to Daniel F. Cohalan, the funds and property of the City of New York have been wasted, and the plaintiff and all of the taxpayers have been injured.

That the payment was an illegal official act on the part of the defendant officials.

The plaintiff asks for judgment against the defendant as follows:

1. That the payment to Daniel F. Cohalan be set aside, and that he be adjudged to repay $38,000 to the City Treasury.
2. That William J. Gaynor and Charles H. Hyde, be held personally liable for the illegal disbursement of $38,000, and that they be compelled to repay that sum to the Treasury.

The papers were served on the Mayor and Mr. Cohalan yesterday morning and on Mr. Hyde in the afternoon. None of the three would discuss the suit.

Prendergast Helps Hearst.

Controller Prendergast's statement read as follows:

I have just read copies of letters that have passed this morning between his Honor, the Mayor, and Mr. Chamberlain Hyde in reference to the so-called Cohalan matter. It would appear from the Chamberlain's letter that after five or six days of tortuous attempts to define the real responsibility in this matter, they are gradually moving over toward the present Controller's office. They are very welcome here. The Controller has nothing to conceal and his memory is not defective.

Every one who has the slightest familiarity with city business knows this: All claims for payments to be made must first be filed in the Controller's office; they then go through the processes of examination and audit; if they are approved by an auditor the warrant is then drawn; this warrant must then be signed by the Controller, or his duly authorized deputy. The warrant, with the accompanying papers, showing the origin and character of the claim, with its complete history, is then sent to the office of the Mayor, for the signature of the Mayor or his chief clerk, if he decides to authorize the chief clerk to sign; from the Mayor's office the warrant, with all the other papers before referred to, is sent to the Chamberlain's office, so that he or his deputy may sign the check.

But it is idle to attempt to differentiate the check from the warrant. It is never detached and every one knows that the check and warrant constitute practically one instrument. After the Chamberlain or his deputy has signed the check the warrant and check, with the accompanying papers, are transmitted to the Disbursement Clerk of the Controller's office for delivery to the payee, and no consideration of the merits of the claim is given in the Finance Department on the return of the warrant, as it passes through the hands of no employes except the Disbursement Clerk and the clerk who ascertains if any liens have been filed against it.

The warrant and check would be useless to any payee unless the check bore the signature of the Chamberlain or his deputy, and in order to make a payment complete and final one of these signatures is absolutely essential. In fact, the warrants read in this way. The warrant is to be paid only by check on the City Treasury, signed by the Chamberlain to the order of the payee above named.

Asks Who Notified Cohalan.

The question is a simple one. When was the Cohalan warrant made effective for payment by the Chamberlain? It was made effective on Jan. 4, 1910, during the administration of the present Mayor, through the official act of his appointee, Mr. Hyde. If it were a part of the business administration of the Finance Department that warrants should be subject to review after they have been received from the Chamberlain in form to be paid, the implication in Mr. Hyde's communication to the Mayor might be justified, but he and every one else knows that this is not the practice nor the policy, and never has been.

In my statement given to the papers last Friday I said distinctly that I did not consider myself called upon to take steps to interfere with the payment of the Cohalan claim, unless facts should be given me which would justify such a course, as my predecessor had passed upon the claim and audited it, and had personally approved its payment. On the other hand, the question was as yet an open one before the Mayor, the check with all the accompanying papers upon which the claim had been audited being before him for official action, and in any event it could not have been made complete if it has not been for the official action of his own appointee, Mr. Hyde.

There is no attempt to dispute anywhere as to when the check was signed in the Chamberlain's office, namely, Jan. 4, 1910. Further, it is only to-day that I learned that Mr. Cohalan presented himself at the office of the Disbursement Clerk in the Controller's office, Mr. Birmingham, within an hour after the check was received from the Chamberlain and personally received it. He did not call upon me. Who notified him that the warrant was ready?

The Controller's question was repeated by reporters to Mr. Cohalan. He declined to say a word about the controversy over the warrant, even to the extent of replying to Mr. Prendergast's query.

Mayor Calls for the Record.

The correspondence between the Mayor and Mr. Hyde began with this letter from the Mayor to the Chamberlain:

Office of the Mayor, May 4, 1910.

Sir: The records of the office of the Chief Clerk here, whose duty it is to receive and sign all warrants on the Chamberlain for the payment of claims adjusted and audited as legal liabilities against the city, show that on Dec. 31 last a warrant was received by the said clerk from the Controller payable to the order of D. F. Cohalan, said warrant being dated Dec. 31, 1909, and signed by the Controller, and that on the same day it was signed by the said clerk and delivered by him to the Chamberlain, who gave a receipt therefor in the usual course, dated Dec. 31, 1909, which receipt is on file in the said clerk's office. Will you please give me the record and full history of the said warrant so far as it appears in your office? Very truly yours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Charles H. Hyde, Esq., City Chamberlain.

Entry in Chamberlain's Book.

OFFICE OF THE CITY CHAMBERLAIN,
May 4, 1910.

The Hon. William J. Gaynor, Mayor.

Sir: In answer to your letter of inquiry of even date, I beg to say that the record in this office shows that the warrant to Cohalan, which you mention, was received at this office on Dec. 31, 1909, and that on Jan. 4, 1910, the said warrant and the check therefor were returned to and delivered to and left at the Controller's office, and the receipt therefor given that day by the Controller's representative is on file in this office.

The said warrant was afterward paid in the Controller's office by delivering the said check to Cohalan, as I am informed. Such payments are always made by the Controller, and not here. He audits and pays all claims. Opposite the entry of the said warrant in this office, its number being 7,199, is the following: "7,199 returned to the Mayor at his request." I am informed that my predecessor, Mr. Martin, had the entry made, and then put the warrant in his pocket.

I know nothing further of it, except that I am informed by the Deputy Chamberlain that when I took office on Jan. 4 the warrant was here and was returned to the Controller's office that day, as I have stated above. Respectfully, CHAS. H. HYDE, Chamberlain.

Martin Hints at Hyde.

When Mr. Hyde's letter was shown to ex-Chamberlain Martin he said:

"I did put the warrant in my pocket on Dec. 31 to take it back to Mayor McClellan's office, as he had requested me to do. I would like to have Mr. Hyde tell the Mayor, however, who brought the warrant back to the Chamberlain's office on Jan. 4. Ask Hyde if he didn't bring the warrant back from the Mayor's office in his own pocket?"

The Chamberlain, when told of this statement by Mr. Martin, dictated the following:

"I never saw the Cohalan warrant until after April 15, when the alleged facsimile of it was published. My letter to the Mayor speaks for itself. Mr. Martin's imputation is beneath contempt, and I don't care to discuss it."

This was all Mr. Hyde would say for publication. Later in the day Mr. Martin reiterated what he had said earlier.

"Mayor McClellan sent to my office for the Cohalan warrant on the afternoon of Dec. 31," said he. "I personally took the check, which had come to my office some two hours before, and went with it to the Mayor's office. There I gave it personally to Mayor McClellan. The check did not come back to the Chamberlain's office up to the night of Jan. 3, when I gave up the office. My successor, Chamberlain Hyde, assumed office the next day, Jan. 4, and it was on that day that the Cohalan check was put through and paid."

Rierdon Declines to Answer.

Chief Clerk Rierdon of the Mayor's office, who held the same place under the last administration and is the man whom Mayor McClellan has been quoted in the dispatches printed in The American as having been told to call the warrant to Mayor Gaynor's attention, refused yesterday to discuss the matter in any way. The American printed this interview with him:

"The American wants to know if you obeyed Mr. McClellan's orders?" Chief Clerk Rierdon was asked.

"I can't answer any questions about this affair," he replied.

"The American considers that truth and justice demand that you answer."

"I can say nothing. I am only here in an inferior capacity. Why don't you see the Mayor's Secretary, Mr. Adamson? He is my superior."

"The American does not want to ask any one else about what you did. You know best what transpired, and The American only asks a truthful statement of facts."

"It is unfair to ask a man in my position to talk about such a subject at such a time. Let Mr. Adamson or the Mayor give out a statement if they wish. I can say nothing."

"The American wants to know these things: First—Did you obey the former Mayor? Second—If you did, just what did you tell Mayor Gaynor? Third—If you told Mayor Gaynor about the warrant, what did he say in reply? What did you do about the matter, and what did he do, if you know?"

"You know I can answer none of these questions," replied Mr. Rierdon. "I am not the man to do the talking around here."

"But don't you think the truth in such a situation as this is far above any consideration of personal comfort?"

"That's unfair."

"Assuming that Mayor McClellan were to cable you asking you to tell him if you had obeyed his orders, would you refuse to answer him?"

"That would be unfair of McClellan."

The account in The American goes on to say that Mr. Adamson was asked if he would permit Mr. Rierdon to make a statement and he was quoted as replying, "I am not Mr. Rierdon's keeper. I can neither direct him to talk nor can I keep him from it if he wishes to."

AUTOS HIT THREE CHILDREN.

One Chauffeur Runs Away, but Others Stay to Help Their Victims.

Three small children in different parts of the city were struck down and run over by automobiles last night. In two cases the chauffeurs were arrested, charged with reckless driving. In the third case, after knocking down a six-year-old girl, the unidentified chauffeur put on speed and escaped.

Eight-year-old Helen Otte was knocked down at Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street. Helen is the daughter of a delicatessen dealer at 32 Columbus Avenue. She had just taken her first lesson in the Industrial Training School near by. Laughing and chattering about her new experience, she started homeward with her thirteen-year-old sister, Ida. She started across Sixty-sixth Street a little in front of her sister when a touring car came along.

Confused and terror-stricken, not knowing apparently which way to run, the little girl hesitated a moment and then unexpectedly darted forward. Then she swung around and started to run back again. The man who was operating the car, Fred Klein, of 157 West Fifty-sixth Street, seems also to have become confused because of the child's various changes of direction. Just as he swung the machine sharply toward the sidewalk little Helen doubled back and ran right in front of the rushing machine. At the same moment that the car struck the girl the steering gear broke.

Ignoring this, Klien leaped to the street, picked up the unconscious girl, and carried her into a corner saloon. Even before Bicycle Policeman Donnelly, who had seen the accident, could reach the café, Klein from the saloon door had called a taxicab and was about to place the girl in it and take her to Roosevelt Hospital. The chauffeur, the injured girl and her sister, with the policeman escorting them on his bicycle, then went to the hospital in the taxicab.

At the hospital Dr. Rainsford said that the girl's right thigh was broken, and that her condition was serious. The girl's father hastened to the hospital as soon as he heard of the accident. He refused to make a complaint against Klein, who was, however, taken to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station charged with reckless driving.

At almost the same time that the Otte child was run over at West Sixty-sixth Street eight-year-old William Henry of 117 Perry Street was run over at Greenwich and West Eleventh Street. He was playing in the street when he was knocked down by an auto truck owned by the American Express Company. The wheels passed over both his ankles, fracturing them, and also breaking several of his ribs.

Harry Brunner, the truck's driver, sprang down from the box and helped a policeman carry the boy to the sidewalk. Dr. Higgins took the boy in an ambulance to St. Vincent's Hospital, where his condition was said later to be critical. Brunner was arrested and locked up at the Charles Street Station.

Six-year-old Dorothy Eggerking was playing in the street immediately in front of her home, 139 West Eighty-ninth Street, after dinner, when she was knocked down. The chauffeur escaped. She was carried into her home unconscious, and bleeding from a cut on her forehead. She was treated at her home by Dr. Weill of the J. Hood Wright Hospital.

A passer has given the police the number and description of the automobile, and the Central Office Detective Bureau sent out detectives to trace the chauffeur. The automobile is said to have been a black touring car with yellow wheels.

KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Joseph A. O'Brien Thrown Out by Collision with a Telegraph Pole.

MILFORD, Conn., May 4.—Joseph A. O'Brien, an architect of Bridgeport, was killed and Henry E. Reilly, manager of the Stratford Inn, was badly hurt this morning when an automobile in which they were riding crashed into a telegraph pole with terrific force, skidded about, and hurled the occupants out.

O'Brien's skull was crushed, and he died in a few moments. He was the owner and driver of the car. The machine was completely wrecked. A third occupant of the car was a colored man, whose name is believed to be Walter Jones.

The car was running at high speed along New Haven Avenue toward New Haven at the time and had apparently turned to one side at a narrow point in the road to allow another machine, which was racing along behind it, to pass. The second car had two occupants, and after the accident its driver was placed under arrest by order of Coroner Mix.

The second car, according to the State automobile register, is owned by Isadore Freedman of New Haven. Mr. Freedman said this morning that he knew nothing of the accident He added that his car had been sent to Bridgeport last night for repairs.

The indicator on the O'Brien car showed a speed of sixty miles an hour.

ALDRICH RALLIES SENATE REGULARS

Plan Formed to Whip Republicans Into Line and Force Taft Programme Through.

TAFT APPROVES, IT IS SAID

Insurgents Also Hold Conference and Arrange to Have Their Own Way with the Railway Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Through the formation to-day of an organization which its leaders say, represents a clear majority of the entire Senate and is to be made up wholly of Republicans of the regular wing, a movement was started to settle the question whether the Senate shall remain conservative, become radical, or be thrown into political chaos so far as concerns any coherent policy in regard to the Administration's legislative programme.

Senator Aldrich called the regular Republican Senators together and confronted them with a grim description of the possible political effect of their defeat at the hands of the insurgent Republicans and Democrats in the fight over the traffic-agreement section of the Administration Railroad bill. He asked his associates whether they were ready to submit to domination by such a combination. Any such surrender, he warned them, meant the failure of the Taft policies and the downfall of conservative control, not only in Congress, but in the Republican Party generally.

Some one reminded Senator Aldrich that Senators then and there gathered together were not in agreement on all points. Whereupon he replied that they must get together and agree to stand together and let the details be secondary. Otherwise, he said, Congress could adjourn without a single item of the Taft programme accomplished.

The entire tone of this conference was belligerent toward the insurgents. This was the dominant note: "Let us get together and stand as a unit against every insurgent proposition. If the insurgents propose anything good we'll take it over bodily and put it through as our own; if they propose anything bad we'll stamp it out."

It was stated without reservation that President Taft had been kept fully advised of the situation, and was entirely in sympathy with the plan and virtually pledged to it. It was said in behalf of the conferrees that while the measures which would be resorted to were heroic they were necessary in defense of the Administration and the integrity of the Republican Party, and as a means to any effective legislation whatever.

Senator Aldrich received the leadership of the new movement. He left late today for Rhode Island, and will not return before Tuesday. The plan is meanwhile to "mark time," and endeavor to "hold the fort," while there will be many conferences at the White House and elsewhere, and the details of the militant plan will be perfected. The intention is to avoid test votes on any subject of importance until next week.

Meantime the insurgents, whose victories in the Senate and House yesterday in amending the Administration's Railroad bill resulted in a complete legislative standstill to-day, and the present heroic plans of the regulars, were busy on their side. Together with such of the regulars from the Middle West as favor the long and short haul clause they were in conference for many hours to-day trying to arrange a modification of the Dixon amendment on this point. No definite decision was reached, but it seems likely now that the final draft of the amendment will allow the Inter-State Commerce Commission, on petition of the railroads to make certain exceptions to the general rule that a shorter distance included in a longer shall not pay the higher rate. Thus modified the insurgents are hopeful of passing the amendment.

At the insurgent conference a careful poll of their strength was made with the result that they are counting on from eighteen to twenty-three Republican votes. Of the Democrats they say they will only lose four votes, which means the probable passage of the amendment by a narrow margin. The insurgents count as their Republican strength first all those who voted last Friday for the Cummins amendment—Borah, Bristow, Beveridge, Cummins, Clapp, Dolliver, Dixon, Nelson, Gamble, Burkett, and La Follette—eleven votes. To these, on information received from Mr. Smoot, they hope to add Smoot of Utah, Sutherland of Utah, Brown of Nebraska, Crawford of South Dakota, Heyburn of Idaho, and with less certainty, Carter of Montana and Jones of Washington.

Mr. Jones in some quarters is considered pledged to the other side, however, while Mr. Piles of Washington is said to have announced his intention to vote against the clause on account of Seattle's interest in retaining the present favorable water rates.

Mr. Nelson is counted on by the insurgents, and the regulars also claim him. It is pointed out that delegations from Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth are on their way to Washington protesting against the long and short haul clause, and Mr Nelson is said to have acquiesced in their demands. Pressure of the same sort is being put on Mr. Clapp, but he is not expected to yield.

Opinions as to the Democratic attitude differ widely. The insurgents feel that they may lose the vote of Mr. Paynter of Kentucky and Mr. Fletcher of Florida and Mr. Foster and Mr. McEnery of Louisiana. The regulars say that the Democrats are badly split, and that they can count on a heavy vote against the amendment. The Democrats themselves speak hopefully of presenting a solid front for the Dixon amendment, but not until the final draft of the amendment is agreed to can any safe prediction be made on that score.

The state of mind of many is, perhaps, not badly reflected in the remark of one undoubtedly regular Senator from New England, who said to-day flatly that he thought the sooner Congress adjourned the better it would be, as the longer it remained in session the more damage the insurgents will do to the whole Taft programme.

In the midst of all one thing is clear. Every hour brings additional evidence of the widening breach between the regulars and the insurgents in both houses. Conservative Republican leaders with hardly an exception confess that in neither is there at present a coherent majority. Even those unfamiliar as yet with the plans of the new Senate organization seem to be awaiting the return of President Taft to Washington to see what, if anything, he can and will do to induce or to compel action sufficiently harmonious to get at least some remnants of his programme through Congress. As matters stand tonight the prospect, from the Republican point of view, is anything but alluring.

The striking thing about the whole situation, to the impartial observer, is the evidently sincere conviction on the part of each side that it is itself loyal to Republicanism and wholly in the right, and that the other, either wilfully recreant or fanatically self-deceived, is more or less consciously a band of public enemies. Whichever side is right, the battle has assumed deadly and certainly historic proportions. A good many politicians, looking beyond the moment and the concrete subjects of discord right at hand, are asking what angle the struggle will take in the next Republican National convention.

Meanwhile the Democrats in both houses are looking on with a "go it, husband; go it, bear," expression. They say that "Whichever loses, we win." Or, as Senator Bailey put it the other day on the floor:

"The only policy we have in this affair is to keep both of you fellows irritated."

Members of the Senate, especially the "regulars," are reticent on the whole subject, so far as talking for publication is concerned. Members of the House are less close-mouthed. The testimony in both is the same.

Majority Leader Sereno E. Payne of New York sounded the only optimistic note that could be heard in a canvass of the House.

"I haven't seen or heard anything on the House side which indicates a great split in the party," said Mr. Payne.

TAFT TALKS ON RAILWAY BILL.

Says He Does Not Know Exactly What Congress Has Made of It.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—President Taft tonight as the guest of the Traffic Club referred in a general way to the railroad legislation pending at Washington, but said he was not sufficiently informed of the situation to discuss it in detail. Mr. Taft said that while he was a Federal Judge of the Sixth Circuit, from 1893 to 1900, it fell to his lot to appoint receivers for nearly all of the railroads in the circuit. He found at that time that it took a "whole lot of money to run a railroad."

"But I understand all the railroads are on a good basis now," said the President, "and I hope they will continue so. Railroads are much like other business in that, if the receipts do not come up to expenditures, the red balance grows larger and larger until there is nothing before you but a receivership. I sincerely trust we shall never experience again with respect to railroads and other business what we had to go through from 1893 to 1900.

"In those days the railroads were not run entirely according to law, and a Judge had difficulty even in keeping his receivers out of rebates. But railroads and shippers can now look each other in the face with the knowledge that they are not engaged in a violation of the law.

"The problem, gentlemen, of fixing railroad rates is a most difficult one, and the man who says he knows how to do it is the only one in the community that thinks so.

"There is now pending at Washington an Inter-State Commerce bill. I cannot comment on it because of conditions which I do not know. But I do know that as the bill was presented to Congress it was drawn with the idea of conforming to the promises of the Republican platform and bringing the railroads more under the control of the Inter-State Commerce Commission on the one hand, and to give the railroads a little more freedom of action under the supervision of the Inter-State Commerce Commission on the other.

"There has been introduced in the House a modification of the long and short haul clause. Just what it is, I do not know. Some people, however, seem to be in favor of a mileage basis for freight rates. I would view the adoption of such a principle with a great deal of anxiety.

"As I have said, I do not feel that I have studied the question sufficiently to express definite views on this particular provision, but I am afraid that those gentlemen who are most emphatic in thinking that this is the easiest solution of the question, that those gentlemen who come from the interior, will find themselves in the same position as that son of Erin who sat on the limb and sawed it off.

"I doubt not, however, that full consideration will be given to such a section before it finally shall be made into law, and I do not feel that I can go further, because I have no authoritative advice as to just what form the proposed amendments take."

POLICEMAN HELD FOR KILLING

Charge of Manslaughter Against Ferris, Who Shot Bicycle Thief.

Policeman Robert Ferris of the Gates Avenue Station, Brooklyn, who shot Morris Brownfield, a bicycle thief, in a crowed street on Tuesday, was the object of much criticism yesterday. It was said that three of the four shots he fired at Brownfield came near hitting others. Brownfield died in St. John's Hospital shortly after midnight yesterday. The fourth shot struck him in the back at the base of the spine, piercing his right kidney and intestines.

Ferris was placed under arrest at the Gates Avenue Station after Brownfield died, charged with homicide. When he was arraigned before Magistrate Harris in the Gates Avenue Court later in the day he was nervous and did not seem to understand the proceedings. He waived examination on the homicide charge and was promptly held without bail for the Grand Jury. Realizing his mistake, he wanted to reconsider his plea. The Magistrate got in touch with District Attorney Clarke and it was decided that the charge of homicide be changed to one of manslaughter, as Mr. Clarke believed that the facts did not warrant the more serious charge. Ferris then pleaded not guilty to the charge of manslaughter and was released on $3,000 bail for examination on May 10.

Ferris is 25 years old and lives at 78 Woodbine Street with his mother. He has been four years on the police force. During that time his record had been good and he is said to be well liked by his superiors. He showed some anxiety in court when he was informed that his act was being denounced.

Several complaints had been received by the police recently that bicycles were stolen in the Bedford section of Brooklyn. Policeman Ferris and Detective Gleason had been detailed by Capt. Harrington of the Gates Avenue Police Station to the neighborhood of Nostrand Avenue and Macon Street, where the bicycle thief was operating. A decoy bicycle was placed at the curb and the officers waited near by in a bootblack shop for developments.

Brownfield was one of three men who appeared after the detectives had been on the watch two hours. His companions started a fake fight to draw the attention of the crowd. Brownfield then leisurely got on the bicycle and started to ride off with it. Gleason immediately rushed out of the store where he was waiting and yelled to Brownfield to stop. Brownfield did not pay any attention to the command. Ferris then fired four shots at him, the last of which took effect. Ferris said he meant to hit the fugitive in the leg.

LORIMER BRIBE CASE SCARES POLITICIANS

State's Attorney Shuts the Gate on Some Having Visions of an Immunity Bath.

WHITE IS CORROBORATED

Personal Friend Tells of Conversation—Several Other Legislators Testify Before the Grand Jury."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Barriers of reticence were broken down to-day in the Special Grand Jury investigation of legislative corruption, growing out of State Representative Charles A. White's confession that he received $1,000 for voting for William Lorimer for United States Senator. Some corroborative testimony was heard by the inquisitors, and other appeals to be heard became so pressing that finally State's Attoney Wayman swung the legal gates shut against some who may have had visions of an "immunity bath."

When the Grand Jury resumed work after a day's rest, White was called on for the completion of his story. Three other members of the general Assembly were heard, and two other witnesses also, during the day. The inquiry was only well under way when adjournment was taken until to-morrow.

Rumored confessions of down State legislators who are yet to testify; declarations by other lawmakers that they had been 'tempted but had not fallen"; confirmation of the details of White's allegations, especially by Sidney Yarbrough, the hitherto unidentified friend frequently mentioned by White as his companion and adviser—all these things helped to spread consternation among involved politicians and assisted the anxiety of certain lawmakers to testify before it became too late.

An attaché of the State's Attorney's office said to-night:

"Mr. Wayman has started a State-wide search for witnesses who can tell of crooked happenings at Springfield. The probe is not confined to White's charges alone, but to any irregularities in connection with any legislation which was pushed through the State Assembly.

"Even happenings outsideof the State may be brought into the inquiry if their development will enable us to get a clew to a general conspiracy or to other transactions which did occur in Illinois."

The witnesses heard by the Grand Jury to-day were:

State Representative Charles A. White.

Sidney Yarbrough, White's intimate friend.

State Representative Henry A. Shephard of Jerseyville, Democrat, who voted for Lorimer; mentioned by White as in the St. Louis "jackpot" party.

State Representative George W. English of Vienna, who refused to vote for Lorimer, and who on the floor of the House denounced his election.

Senator Albert E. Isley of Newton, Democrat, who refused to vote for Lorimer.

J. W. Gibson of Mount Vernon, banker, was asked about last Summer's financial status of Representative William C. Blair of Mount Vernon. Stories had been told the State's Attorney that Blair showed large sums of money directly after the Lorimer election.

In addition to these Representative Thomas Tippit of Olney came to the Criminal Court Building in response to a telegram from State's Attorney Wayman. Mr. Tippit was willing to testify, but was told that his testimony would not be needed. Mr. Tippit was disappointed. He is a Democrat, and was a candidate for minority leader, heading the faction that opposed Lee O'Neil Browne. Tippit is from the same district as Blair.

One of the important witnesses of the day was Banker Gibson. He was taken to the Grand Jury rooms after a long conversation with State's Attorney Wayman in the latter's private offices. It was learned that Mr. Gibson's testimony before the jurors had to do with the finances of Representative Blair and included a large deposit made in the bank and the payment of certain notes which Blair had owed. Blair, a Democrat, voted for Lorimer.

Questions put to Mr. Gibson were intended to elicit an explanation of the sudden fluctuations in Mr. Blair's financial fortunes at different periods of last year. In this connection it was brought out that after being heavily in debt, under which circumstances he gave notes for a considerable sum, Blair was able not only to pay them, but had sufficient funds to enjoy a round of pleasure such as drew attention to himself in his part of the State.

In one of these periods of wealth, it was stated, Mr. Blair made a trip to Centralia to attend a baseball game, at which he appeared in such an exhilarated condition that he displayed a large roll of bills and freely proclaimed his prosperity. The manager of the team, a personal friend, feared he would lose his money and detailed a guard to accompany and protect him.

CHICAGO, May 4.—"I have two Democratic State Representatives who will give important evidence before the special Grand Jury in regard to the alleged bribery in the election of William Lorimer as United States Senator," said State's Attorney John Wayman to-day, on his return from a mysterious visit to St. Louis and the southern part of Illinois.

"These witnesses will appear before the Grand Jury on Saturday and tell some important things about the election of Mr. Lorimer. I am not at liberty to give their names, but I will say that they are members of the State Legislature whose names have not been mentioned thus far in the investigation. Their identity will be a complete surprise."

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—John Wayman, State Attorney of Cook County, Ill., spent yesterday in St. Louis in connection with the Illinois Legislature bribery investigation and departed last night for Chicago, saying that he had in his possession a confession obtained from an Illinois State Representative who asserted, he said, that he got $1,000 for his Senatorial vote. Both Wayman and William Murnane, a Chicago detective who is accompanying him, refused to give the name of the man who is said to have made the alleged confession.

Wayman and Murnane both stayed at the Southern Hotel, where Murnane made the following statement to reporters in the presence of Wayman:

"We came here to meet a member of the Illinois Legislature, because this was the most convenient place. We got all we were looking for. I might say that we got a 'squeal.'"

While in St. Louis Wayman called on Circuit Attorney Seebert G. Jones. Earlier in the day Michael S. Link, Representative from the Forty-seventh District in the Illinois Legislature, was visited on his farm near Nameoki, Ill., by Wayman, Murnane, and a Deputy Sheriff. They gave no intimation that they obtained any information from Mr. Link, however.

Columbus Car Strike Ends.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 4.—Mayor George S. Marshall, by a stroke of diplomacy, to-night brought to an end the street car strike which has tied up every car line in the city for a week. The employes struck three weeks ago because the company refused to grant an increase in wages of 2 cents an hour. A compromise was effected by which the men returned to work at an increase of 1 cent an hour.

TRIUMPH FOR PEARY AT LONDON LECTURE

Major Darwin, while next to him sat the famous old arctic explorer, Vice Admiral Sir George Nares. On the immediate left of Major Darwin was Capt. Bartlett, who seemed much confused by repeated generous references of Commander Peary to his share in the expedition. Next to Capt. Bartlett were Admiral Sir Lewis Beaumont, Capt. Scott, (who starts for the antarctic next month,) and Dr. Scott Keltie.

The only thing wanting to make the gathering complete in all respects was the presence of King Edward. Dr. Keltie explained to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent earlier in the day that his Majesty, when invited early in February, replied most cordially, saying he would do his utmost to attend in order to honor Commander Peary, but at the last moment he found himself utterly unable to do so.

Had the King been present he would have occupied a seat in the middle of the front row in the auditorium, which in his absence was placed at the disposal of Ambassador Reid, who had as his immediate neighbors Mrs. Peary, her daughter, and her little son, Robert, junior, who wore a white sailor suit and was the only juvenile in the hall. Other American officials present included Commander Simpson, the Naval Attaché, and William Phillips, the Secretary of the Embassy.

Major Darwin lost no time in introducing the guest of the evening, making it plain from the outset that the Royal Geographical Society welcomed Commander Peary not merely as a renowned arctic explorer, but as the indisputable discoverer of the north pole.

This caused an outburst of cheering which was only surpassed when Commander Peary rose to begin his address. By repute, Royal Geographical Society audiences are somewhat reserved in showing appreciation, but this reputation for once failed to be justified. The enthusiasm was tremendous, and Commander Peary showed plain signs of emotion as the vast gathering would not desist in their welcome. At length, seeing his distress, the audience subsided.

Fears had been expressed that the explorer's voice would not carry through the great hall, but these were set at rest as he began to speak. Though patently nervous, his first few words seemed rich after the somewhat weak voice of Major Darwin. In a moment there was silence, and for the rest of the hour and a half during which he was speaking it was broken only by the frequent hearty applause which punctuated his address.

The lecture held the audience entranced, but, unfortunately, something went wrong with the lantern, with the result that many of the photographic plates were cracked in view of the audience, completely spoiling them for future use. The reason was that the heat from the lantern was too great.

During the lecture Capt. Scott listened most intently as Commander Peary gave him the benefit of his experience which, Capt. Scott later admitted would be very useful to him in connection with his antarctic expedition. Capt. Scott will preside at Commander Peary's public lecture to-morrow night.

Cheer after cheer resounded as Commander Peary showed a view of the American flag flying in the snow at the pole. In concluding the explorer paid an eloquent tribute to Ross Marvin, who lost his life. He resumed his seat after wishing Capt. Scott every luck in his effort to get to the south pole.

Sir George Nares proposed and Sir Lewis Beaumont seconded a vote of thanks to Commander Peary, which was supported by Capt. Scott, after which Major Darwin presented to the explorer the special gold medal.

In replying, Commander Peary, endeavoring to show the medal to the audience, dropped it from the case to the platform, causing great laughter. He picked it up imperturbably. He thanked the society for the magnificent trophy, which, he said, was the cap, the climax, the finish, to 400 years' history, adding:

"In the person of Capt. Bartlett your flag stands next the north pole; in the person of Capt. Scott, God willing, it shall stand at the south pole. Honors are equal. We are of one blood. Thank you."

Another outburst of cheering followed, as Commander Peary finally sat down.

The only other business was the presentation of a silver replica of the medal to Capt. Bartlett, who got every bit as big a reception as his chief.

"Fellow-Britons," said Capt. Bartlett, "what is the cause of Great Britain's success in Africa and India? It is because we have got leaders like Roberts and Kitchener. What is the cause of America's success at the north pole? It is because it has got leaders like Peary."

That was Capt. Bartleet's tribute to his chief, and the audience, by its wild applause, evidently thought highly of it.

There were several points in Major Darwin's introductory speech which were of high importance as clearly defining the attitude taken toward Commander Peary's feat by the premier geographical society of the world. Among them was his explanation regarding the methods by which a traveler can ascertain that he has actually reached a pole.

"In the first place," said Major Darwin, "as regards astronomical observations at a pole of the earth, an observer has only to deal with the determination of latitude, which is a simple operation. On the other hand, the weary arctic traveler in those icy wind-swept regions, has peculiar difficulties to contend with in his geographical determinations, especially at the time of the year when the sun is always near the horizon, below which it never sinks. In fact, in all such work there must always be a certain margin of reasonable and probable error appropriate to all circumstances.

"Indeed, when a traveler asserts that a certain spot is in a certain latitude, what he means is that the true position does not differ from the assigned position by more than this margin of error."

Then, after welcoming Commander Peary as the first and only human being to reach a pole of the earth, Major Darwin said:

"It has been the policy of our society not to honor any mere race to a pole. It should not be forgotten that I said this when I addressed you here in June last at Sir Ernest Shackeleton's reception. Nevertheless, on that occasion we were her all openly rejoicing at the fact that it was one of our own countrymen who had then made the nearest approach to a pole of the earth. To-night we assemble to do honor, in the same spirit and quite as enthusiastically, to an American citizen who has at last actually accomplished the feat that was the dream of all previous arctic and antarctic explorers."

New Job for Capt. Bartlett.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 4.—Capt Bartlett, who was commander of Peary's steamer Roosevelt, will probably pass the coming Summer as commander of the steamer Beothic, which was chartered today by Paul Rainey and Harry Whitney of New Haven for a three months' cruise to Greenland. The Beothic will sail on June 15.

TAFT SCORES CRITICS OF NEW JUSTICES

to say that the United States courts are not models in this, but all courts may be reformed in this regard.

"What is driving you merchants out of courts into arbitrations? It is the cost of litigation. Now, we ought to have courts that can dispose of the business promptly and end litigation, and I speak as a lawyer and I speak as a Judge, and, therefore, I speak with confidence, because I know what I am talking about. I feel much more at home on this subject than I do in discussing agricultural subjects with farmers.

"I would be lacking in gratitude and courtesy if I did not say how much I am indebted to this Businessmen's League of St. Louis, both for its present hospitable reception, and for a most interesting and instructive trip down the Mississippi River. I learned a great deal in that trip, and I learned a great deal about the Mississippi River and the possibilities of making it a great stream for the transportation of commerce. I learned, too, that the Government had done a great deal on that stream and that its engineers had acquired a great deal of information with reference to the economical expenditures of money to make it a great highway of commerce. And it is coming, but it may not come, gentlemen, with the speed that you hope for. It is not coming next year, or the year after, but it is working along, so that in time you can get any depth of water you choose."

Earlier in the day the President made a little speech on the Panama Canal at a breakfast of the Commercial Club and addressed the Farmers' Union in the Coliseum on conservation.

Explains Conservation Views.

Gov. Hadley introduced the President to the Convention of the Farmers' Union and the people of St. Louis at the Coliseum and declared that the great movement of conservation had no more "earnest, sincere, and effective friend than President Taft."

The President called out laughter and applause from the agriculturists by announcing that he was probably the only man in public life in the country who would admit that he had never had any farming experience. Turning to the subject of conservation Mr. Taft said there were few people who had a definite idea as to just what conservation really means. The first great subject of conservation, he went on, had to do with human life. In this connection he again urged the establishment of a National bureau of health, speaking also of the great strides being made in the fight against consumption and cancer. He took the position that the Government might well furnish money to provide the means of combatting disease and bringing about the "mastery of the intellect over natural foes."

"But as concerns Congress at this time," he added, "conservation resolves itself into the necessity of passing at once the bill which will give to the Executive unquestioned authority to withdraw lands for power sites and other purposes. With this power in the hands of the President, we can sit comfortably by and discuss and devise the best means of disposing of the great public domain for the benefit of present and future generations."

Speaking of the conservation of the water supply and the improvement of rivers and harbors, President Taft stated anew his position that projects provided for in the river and harbor bill must prove their feasibility and predicability.

"Any waterway improvement which is found worthy," said the President, "should be put through as economically and as quickly as possible. But a waterway bill ought not to constitute a pork barrel or be passed for the purpose of sending somebody back to Congress. It should be devoted to putting through great enterprises to making the waterways useful and effective in reducing rates of transportation."

There were few people on the streets when the President reached the city, but when he left the Coliseum to go to the Southern Hotel as guest of the Business Men's League luncheon, it was the noon hour and the streets were thronged. Factory windows were filled and all along the line of march Mr. Taft was warmly greeted.

After the Business Men's League luncheon, the President visited both of the big league baseball games that were played this afternoon.

At both games the President got a rousing greeting from the "fans." Some of the labor unions in the city protested against the President visiting the American League game, because they said the grand stand in Cleveland was built by non-union men. As the President has announced that he strongly opposes boycotts, he paid no heed to the protest.

To-night as the last function of his busy day in St. Louis, the President was the guest of honor at a sumptuous banquet of the Traffic Club, presided over by George W. Simmons.

Wherever he went to-day the President was accompanied by Gov. Hadley, by former Gov. David R. Francis, and by Chairman Nathan Frank of the Reception Committee.

The arrangements in all details and the weather were ideal. "St. Louis always was good to me," said President Taft tonight.

RECORD YEAR IN COTTON.

Bull Campaign Makes 1909-10 Greatest of All in Spot Business.

The bull campaign in cotton, which has brought heavier deliveries on the May option than any similar movement in the history of the Cotton Exchange, is likely to make the season of 1909-10 a record year in the New York cotton market. Supt. King of the Cotton Exchange prepared yesterday a statement of the sales of spot cotton in the New York market, and the deliveries of cotton upon contract here for ten seasons past, which shows that up to May 3 inclusive 187,068 bales of spot cotton have been made in this market and 521,200 bales delivered upon contract. This total of 708,268 up to date is larger than in any previous full season, except those of 1902-3, when 722,813 bales were delivered in the period between Sept. 1 and Aug. 31, and of 1905-6, when 704,055 bales figured.

The figures were prepared by the Cotton Exchange as an exhibit calculated to answer the criticism which recurrs from time to time that the New York Cotton Exchange is not a real market. In the ten crop seasons from 1900 and 1901 to date a total of 1,500,886 bales of spot cotton has been sold in the New York market, and 4,474,800 bales have been delivered on contracts.

WISE GETS HEINZE NEAR COPPER POOL

Forces Admissions from Broker Schulze, Though Connecting Links Are Missing.

HEINZES HELD STOCK FAST

Family Had 385,919 Shares Out of 450,000—F. A. Heinze Controlled 225,000 Shares in Pool Days.

The Government had the best day yesterday that it has experienced in the trial of Fritz A. Heinze for overcertification and the misapplication of funds as President of the Mercantile National Bank in 1907 since it reached that stage of its case where it attempted to hitch the defendant to the United Cooper pool run by his brother, Arthur, as principal.

Under the rulings of Judge Hough of the United States Circuit Court the Government must establish a definite participation of F. A. Heinze in the operations of the pool, breaking down the contention of the defense that all three Heinze brothers and Schulze dealt with each other at arms' length, without community of interest or knowledge on the part of any one of the purpose of the others' acts.

This task has been difficult because the most important of the books containing the record of the pool's operations and books of the United Copper Company interlocking with these pool books are missing. The Government is compelled to prove its case from hostile witnesses, who have steadfastly taken refuge behind the missing books when pressed to connect F. A. Heinze with the pool operations of 1907, financed as they were largely by the Mercantile National Bank.

When the trial opened yesterday morning the indications were that the inability of Max F. Schulze to remember any of his own pool transactions as broker, or even the relationships of individuals on which they were based, would prove well-nigh fatal to the attempt of the prosecution to put the element of intent in its case by connecting F. A. Heinze with the pools.

Admissions Forced from Schulze.

But with T. Schulze again on the witness stand Mr. Wise succeeded in driving an opening wedge, and before Schulze was able to regain the refuge of the missing books had pried off several admissions which the Government considers of much importance. These were:

First—That during the Spring and Summer of 1907 and up to the crash of the A. P. Heinze pool in October, F. A. Heinze was representing a holding pool of 225,000 shares of United Copper common, and that this holding pool, which had the effect of keeping off the market one-half the capital stock of the company, dated from 1905 on 1906.

Second—That another pool, called Pool No. 4, which had been closed so far as the purchase or sale of stock was concerned on Nov. 12, 1906, but never liquidated, was in existence during 1907 up to October; that F. A. Heinze continued to be interested in the shares acquired and remaining in this pool, and that collateral was taken from this pool in August, 1907, to secure a loan made by Schulze in his capacity as broker for Pool No. 5—the A. P. Heinze pool of 1907 referred to in the indictments.

Third—That a running account representing the credit and debit of cash existed between Pools 4 and 5 during 1907 up to October, and that Schulze acted as trustee for Pool 4 while he was representing in his individual capacity his partner, A. P. Heinze, in making the purchases and sales for the account of Pool 5.

In addition, Mr. Wise got from Tracy Buckingham, the transfer agent of the United Copper Company, a tabulation of holdings of United Copper common stock in the names of members of the Heinze family or dummies in the Heinze and United Copper offices, on Oct. 14, 1907, of 385,919 shares. These holdings, necessarily inclusive of the 225,000 share block, remained substantially unchanged during the year 1907, as shown on the transfer books of the United Copper Company, and hence meant that the outstanding market supply available for the manipulation which A. P. Heinze carried on, was only about 64,000 shares out of the total capital of 450,000 shares of common stock of the company.

Eckstein's Memory Lapses.

It was conceded by the defense, after Mr. Wise started to prove it from individual witnesses, that the blocks of this stock standing in the name of dummies in the Heinze offices were indorsed back to Buckingham, the transfer agent of the company, and that the dividend receipts on this stock, in so far as the dummies held it, were turned over to Frederick Eckstein, a bookkeeper of the United Copper Company, who also acted as private secretary for A. P. Heinze. Eckstein kept A. P. Heinze's books as well as some of the books of the copper company, but so seriously did he suffer from the same malady of intermittent forgetfulness which has afflicted Max H. Schulze that he even failed to recall of his own knowledge that A. P. Heinze ever operated a pool in United Copper during the Summer and early Autumn of 1907. The books of A. P. Heinze, which he kept, failed to refresh this sadly damaged memory of Eckstein, for in them he saw only entries which he had made at some time or other relating to matters that he didn't understand.

The Government now faces a decision by Judge Hough, whether this evidence, coupled with the fact that F. A. Heinze's dividend checks on United Copper common during 1907 went into the trustee account handled by Schulze, the broker for the A. P. Heinze pool, establishes a sufficient connection between the defendant and the 1907 pool that he denies belonging to, to warrant the presentation of the charges of misapplication of bank funds in support of this pool to the jury.

Counsel for the defense started to present this motion yesterday, but the critical question was postponed for the time being. It is known that the Government places much reliance on the collateral fact that the dividend pool handled by Schulze as trustee was of such size as to preclude the possibility that it came from other stock than the enormous holdings of the group of "insiders" referred to, for whom F. A. Heinze in October, 1907, was acting "in a representative capacity."

Mr. Wise in his examination of Schulze yesterday led up to the admission that F. A. Heinze represented the 225,000 share pool in October, 1907, by asking the witness who the largest individual stockholder of the United Copper common was in October, 1907, if he knew.

Schulze replied with a grin that he did not know "who" was the largest stockholder.

"Well, what was the largest stockholder?" asked Mr. Wise.

"How can a 'what' be a stockholder?" retorted Schulze.

"What pool, syndicate, combination, aggregation—anything you please more than one individual—was the largest stockholder in United Copper common in October, 1907?"

"To the best of my knowledge and belief the 225,000-share syndicate was in existence in 1907, but I couldn't say positively," Schulze answered.

"Was F. A. Heinze a member?" asked Mr. Wise.

"I couldn't say without the books," replied Schulze.

"When you said yesterday that F. A. Heinze, during the month of October, 1907, held common stock of the United Copper Company in a representative capacity, were you or were you not referring to that 225,000-share syndicate?"

Mr. Stanchfield objected strenuously to this question, but Judge Hough allowed it, and the witness said:

"I did."

But from this point Schulze scuttled back to the protecting shelter of the missing books. Then Mr. Wise demanded:

"Do you know that the United Copper Company drew dividend checks to persons known as 'insiders' on the Mercantile National Bank and to persons known as 'outsiders' on the Hudson Trust Company?"

Mr. Wise had on hand the book stubs of dividend checks drawn by the witness himself to these same "insiders" on the Mercantile National Bank, in the hope that this might refresh Schulze's memory. Schulze answered:

"I couldn't say."

"Well," persisted Mr. Wise, "were some of these dividend checks drawn on the Mercantile National Bank and some on the Hudson Trust Company?"

"Yes," the witness replied.

Dodges a Pointed Question.

From this flicker of memory Mr. Wise, still with the aid of the book stubs of the dividends checks which Schulze himself had drawn, tried to get some further recollection which would connect the dividend pool managed by Schulze (which received F. A. Heinze's dividends) with the 225,000 holding syndicate. It was no use, and finally Mr. Wise framed this question:

"If it appeared that the sum of these dividends on United Copper common, which you handled as Trustee, represented the dividends on upward of 300,000 shares, would you say that such dividends included those on the 225,000 pool, bearing in mind that there were 450,000 shares of United Copper stock all told?"

The witness thought a minute. Then he said triumphantly:

"Well, anyhow, I don't know that that is the dividend book which you have there, Mr. Wise."

The United States Attorney was content to let this phase of the situation rest on the obvious probabilities at this point. The admission of Schulze that Pool No. 5 (the A. P. Heinze pool of 1907) used as collateral stock belong to Pool No. 4, in which F. A. Heinze had an interest, came when Mr. Wise asked about a loan which Schulze made at the Merchants' Exchange National Bank in August, giving 400 shares of United Copper preferred as collateral. For this collateral there was later substituted 100 shares of the stock of the Mercantile National Bank.

Tracing a Heinze Account.

"Whose stock was that?" asked Mr. Wise, referring to this 100 shares.

"I don't know," said the witness; "there was some Mercantile National Bank stock in Accounts 1, 2, and 3, and it was transferred to Account 4."

"Then Account 4 was in existence in 1907?" Mr. Wise commented.

"It was closed so far as buying and selling was concerned," replied Schulze.

"Well," demanded Mr. Wise, "was this 100 shares of Mercantile National Bank stock an asset of Account 4 in 1907?" The witness admitted this to be the case.

"Where did you get it?"

"From my box," replied Schulze.

"Were they securities which you held as trustee?" asked the prosecutor, referring to the admission of the witness the previous day that he was trustee for Pool 4 during the year 1907.

"Was or was not F. A. Heinze a beneficiary of that trust?" Mr. Wise next demanded. John B. Stanchfield, the leading counsel for the defense, objected and was sustained, but in ruling out the question Judge Hough remarked:

"The testimony yesterday made it perfectly plain that F. A. Heinze was one of the participants in Account 4."

Schulze had to admit that A. P. Heinze, while he was operating Account 5, the 1907 pool, drew money from Account 4 and paid money into Account 4. He explained that, inasmuch as Account 4 was never finally settled up, he could not tell whether these debits and credits represented loans by the account to A. P. Heinze beyond the credit that he would have been entitled to had the account been settled.

When Mr. Wise turned the witness over to John B. Stanchfield for cross-examination his memory improved rapidly. The first thing Mr. Stanchfield did was to show Schulze the transcript of a stock account with J. S. Bache & Co., covering several securities, and the witness promptly remembered in detail that this stock was that which F. A. Heinze later used to secure the $500,000 loan he made to himself on Oct. 14, 1907.

Heinzes Held Nearly All the Stock.

The testimony of Tracy Buckingham was used by the United States Attorney to put into the record the holdings of "inside" common stock in the United Copper Company as they appeared on the transfer books of the company itself, and remained substantially without change from January to October of 1907. These are the holdings which comprise the 385,919 shares kept off the market while A. P. Heinze was conducting his Pool No. 5 in 1907, in which F. A. Heinze contends he was not interested. This is the list, the figures indicating the number of shares held:

Bronson, 30,055; Eckstein, 39,122; Unkhardt, 24,225; Abel, 25,272; Baglin, 45,090; Geer, 600; Belthusen, 25,545; Riordan, 17,201; F. A. Heinze, 79,348; Otto Heinze, 106; A. P. Heinze, 28,914; Ruth N. Heinze, 15,998; Ada L. Heinze, 8,000; Otto Heinze & Co., 14,320; M. H. Schulze, 23,209; Stanley Gifford, 8,906, and John McGinnis, 8. This makes the total "insiders" stock 385,919 shares.

After he had put on a couple of "dummies" to tell that the stock standing in their names didn't belong to them, and had obtained the concessions of the defense Mr. Wise called Frederic Eckstein, who used to be A. P. Heinze's secretary and is now employed by the defendant, as his last witness of the day. Eckstein testified that while he was still working in the offices of the United Copper Company, an employe of F. A. Heinze came down there and got a considerable number of the books of the company and took them away.

Later in the office of this employe William F. Weiss, Eckstein saw the United Copper books as well as one book in which he had at some prior time seen Max F. Schulze write, but the moment Mr. Wise began to examine him as to the books of A. P. Heinze, which Eckstein admitted he kept, the witness followed the lead of Schulze in distinguishing between what he saw and what he knew. He didn't know there was any syndicate or pool in United Copper common in 1907. The adjournment was taken until this morning.

TEST FOR MANCHESTER WILL.

American Consul in London to Take the Testimony of Witnesses.

Surrogate Cohalan signed an order yesterday for a commission to issue to the United States Consul General or to the Vice or Deputy Consul General in London to examine witnesses in proceedings to prove the will of Consuelo, dowager Duchess of Manchester, who was Consuelo Yznaga of New York.

The Surrogate directs specifically the examination of E. L. Rowcliffe, Angus Shee, A. Glendonwyn-Shee, and Frederick James Charles Bathhurst. William Angus Drogo, Duke of Manchester, was the only heir and next of kin of the dowager Duchess. Her will was admitted to probate by the High Court of Justice of England on Dec. 17 last.

Rowcliffe, Shee, and Glendonwyn-Shee were witnesses of the will. Bathhurst is a lawyer's clerk who made copies of the will.

The Duke of Manchester signed his waiver "Manchester." Frederick Ogden Beach of Aiken, S. C., is the American executor of the will. The Duke of Manchester's residence is given as Kyrlemore Castle, Kyrlemore, Ireland.

TURNS SEARCHLIGHT ON A CASSIDY MAN

Commissioner Reports to Gaynor That One Goldner Didn't Account for a Check.

GRESSER'S TURN IS NEXT

Mayor Will Receive a Statement To-day in Which the Borough President Will Be Dealt With.

In a second report to Mayor Gaynor on conditions which his corps of investigators have unearthed in Queens County, Commissioner of Accounts Raymond B. Fosdick yesterday submitted evidence against Mathew J. Goldner, at one time boss of the borough, and a stanch ally of ex-Borough President Joseph Cassidy.

The report was a shock to Queens County, as it struck in a wholly unexpected quarter. It was not the promised report, and does not involve Borough President Gresser or his administration, although Goldner has been more or less allied with it since Cassidy was retired from power.

Politicians on all sides said last night that the report has extensive political significance, as Cassidy has built strong hopes of riding into power again on the gale of antagonism to the Gresser forces. "This report on Goldner," said one, "means that Cassidy can't come back."

Commissioner Fosdick was influenced in suddenly switching his fire from the Gresser administration to that of his predecessor by the fact that the statute of limitations is rapidly closing in on the events of the Cassidy régime, and it was his wish to reach them before the guilty men could save themselves by the wording of the law.

Golner is charged with diverting to his personal account a fee of $250 paid by Gustave X. Mathews for a permit to make sewer connections with twenty houses the incident having been selected as one typifying the Sewer Department's methods of procedure.

He Was Cassidy's Agent.

At the time of the alleged diversion Goldner was Superintendent of Sewers and Cassidy's chief political agent. Before his trial is over it is said startling disclosures may be made concerning the Democratic Club which raises its pretentious roof a short distance from the million-dollar Court House in which the Grand Jury is meeting.

Queens County Citizens commented last night on the fact that the man who built the Democratic Club and the man who built the Court House in its earlier stages were one and the same, and remarked upon the coincidence of the fact that the first evidence to come before the Grand Jury sworn in on the opening of the new Court House should aim directly into the political camp of the man whose inspiration it was to erect the structure.

Commissioner Fosdick's report will probably reach the Queens Grand Jury to-day. Mayor Gaynor, in making it public, said he would forward it this morning to the District Attorney of Queens County for action, and it is expected that District Attorney De Witt will present it to the jurors at once.

Another report concerning itself with events that have happened more recently than that in which Goldner is involved will be forwarded by Commissioner Fosdick to the Mayor to-day. It is a report which has been held back since Monday on account of the difficulty in getting the testimony of certain badly needed witnesses, and it is said that its contents will cause an upheaval in Queens affairs.

The evidence against Goldner is identical with data printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES several weeks ago as a suggestion that might interest Gov. Hughes if he should decided to interfere in Queens. It has been a matter of common comment in the borough for many months.

Report to the Mayor.

The report says:

New York, May 4, 1910.

Hon. William J. Gaynor, Mayor:

Sir—I beg to present herewith certain facts relative to the administration of the office of the President of the Borough of Queens.

On Sept. 25, 1905, Gustave X. Mathews, President of the Mathews Realty and Construction Company, made application to the Sewer Bureau of the Borough of Queens for a permit to connect twenty houses, which were being erected by his company on the north side of Bleecker Street, near Cypress Avenue, with the existing sewer. This application was made in accordance with the sections of the ordinances which prescribe the manner in which such connections shall be made.

Mr. Mathews testified under oath that at the time he made application for the permit in question he handed to Mathew J. Goldner, Superintendent of Sewers, a check for $250 in accordance with section 158 of the ordinances which fixes the amount to be charged by the Borough President's office for making such connections. According to Mr. Mathews's testimony, the check for $250 was made payable to himself at the request of Mr. Goldner, and was indorsed by himself before being handed to the Superintendent. A careful search of the records in the offices of the Borough President and the Chamberlain reveals the fact that this amount never reached the city treasury.

The check in question, which was drawn on the People's Bank of Brooklyn, was offered in evidence. It bears the indorsement of G. X. Mathews, and the receipt stamp of the Queens County Branch of the Corn Exchange Bank, dated Sept. 28, 1905, in which latter bank Mr. Goldner kept his private account. The initials "M. J. G.," apparently in the handwriting of Mr. Goldner, are on the upper corner of the check over Mr. Mathews's indorsement.

The officials of the Corn Exchange Bank were subpoenaed and testified under oath. The paying teller, George Millar, identified the check as one that was cashed at his window on Sept. 28, 1905. The fact that it bore no indorsement other than that of G. X. Mathews, with whim Mr. Millar is not acquainted, seemed to him to indicate either that Goldner had cashed the check through the identification of a dummy, or that through some oversight on his part no additional indorsement had been required when Mr. Goldner presented the check.

The receiving teller, Leroy Styles, produced the deposit slip of Mathew J. Goldner for Sept. 28, 1905, the date on which the check was cashed. This slip was in Mr. Goldner's own handwriting. It showed a deposit of the even sum of $250 in cash.

I suggest that a copy of this report, and of the record taken during the proceeding, be forwarded to the District Attorney of Queens County for his immediate action. I transmit herewith the check and deposit slip above mentioned. Respectfully submitted.

RAYMOND B. FOSDICK,
Commissioner of Accounts.

Goldner, previous to his retirement from office two years ago, was continuously on the Queens County payrolls for twenty years. In 1899 he was Sheriff of the County, and for a number of years just preceding consolidation he was City Clerk of Long Island City.

Richard H. Williams of College Point was appointed Deputy Tax Commissioner to have charge in Queens yesterday at a salary of $3,250 a year. He takes the place of Richard A. Homeyer, who was removed on charges some time ago.

No One Interested in Whitman's Salary

Mayor Gaynor held a public hearing yesterday on the bill recently passed by the Legislature increasing the salary of District Attorney Whitman from $12,000 a year to $15,000. No one appeared either for or against the measure. The Mayor did not indicate what his action on it will be.

IMMIGRANTS QUARANTINED.

Infant Shows Signs of Smallpox on Steamer Entering Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Twenty-four hundred passengers who arrived here today on the German steamship Main from Bremen are in quarantine aboard the vessel. An infant in the steerage developed symptoms of smallpox while the ship was coming up the Delaware River and was landed with its parents last night at the Federal Quarantine Station at Reedy Island.

Eight hundred of the immigrants had already landed and taken a train when orders were received to hold the passengers for observation. They were brought back to the ship and with the others were all vaccinated, although this precaution had already been taken before their departure from Bremen.

No trace of the disease was found among the detained passengers or crew, and it is probable that the quarantine will soon be lifted.

CAPTURED BY ALBANIANS.

Diakova Occupied—Grand Vizier Reassures the Parliament.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 4.—According to a private telegram received here today the Albanian insurgents have occupied Diakova, twenty miles northwest of Prisrend, after severe fighting with the Government troops.

From the same source it is reported that a battalion of Turkish troops was ambushed while hastening to the relief of Diakova, and was compelled to retreat to Ipek after suffering heavy losses.

The Grnd Vizier made a statement in the Chamber of Deputies to-day to the effect that the Albanian revolt was localized and that order would soon be restored. Later, he added, the Government would dispatch a commission to inquire into the grievances of the Albanians, but it would not tolerate claims put forward at the muzzle of a rifle. The Chamber then adopted a vote of confidence in the Government by 132 to 47.

Tea Time Talks

The Healthfulness of Tea

Physicians who often forbid the use of Coffee and Cocoa to the well, prescribe tea for the sick. Of the three, tea is the only beverage that can be drunk for a lifetime without injurious effects. It is a harmless tonic—a gentle stimulant without reaction.

As tea is the most desirable beverage, so "Salada" is tea in its most desirable form.

"Salada" Ceylon Tea comes from tea plant to tea pot untouched by human hands, from the time the leaves fall into the picker's baskets. Its delicate aroma and delicious flavor are perfectly preserved in sealed, air-tight packages.

Ask your grocer for a ten cent trial package of "Salada" Ceylon Tea. It makes 40 cups. If for any reason your grocer cannot supply you, send us his name and address and we will deliver a trial package to you Free. Our pamphlet, "The Healthfulness of Tea," is mailed Free.

BUILDING A NEW RIVERSIDE DRIVE

Famous Driveway is Now Being Reproduced.

Cranford, New Jersey, seventeen miles from this city, has been called the Venice of America, as the Rahway River winds through the centre of the town and lends a most enchanting appearance to the surrounding country. Riverside Drive, in all its beauty, is being reproduced in a suburban form along the banks of the river. This is one of the most elaborate schemes of suburban development ever attempted. A driveway is being built for a long distance, with space left for a park between the drive and the river. Every one knows what the improvement of Riverside Drive has done for the West Side of New York City, and the fact that Riverside Drive is possible of reproduction anywhere has centred the attention of investors as well as suburban homeseekers in this Cranford property. No public announcement will be made by the developers, the Normandie Park Company, until the vast development work is complete and lots, plots, and new houses are ready for inspection, but by writing the contractors, the Linden Construction Co. of 210 East 23d St., N. Y., now your name will be placed on a preliminary list so as to receive advance information regarding this great home development which will satisfy every desire of the suburban homeseeker.

Talks on Teeth
BY
G. GORDON MARTIN
(INCORPORATED)

Don't Lose Teeth

The two things most to be feared by people with teeth trouble are: first, loss of teeth—usually caused by Pyorrhea, and second, decay, which may result from lack of care or ignorance of dentistry.

The discovery of the Martinolar Method of dentistry by G. Gordon Martin, which is exclusively practiced by this company under patents, has banished the causes which are responsible for many loose and decayed teeth.

Don't wait until your teeth are about to fall out before you come. Give us all the assistance you can, for, while we restore missing teeth without cumbering up your mouth with plates of torture or without those so-called bridges, which most dentists like to put in your mouth, we would rather save nature's teeth every time.

Martinolar-Teeth look, and feel like natural teeth, but all of us must admit that there is nothing just as good as what nature supplies. We believe we have a perfect license to claim that the Martinolar Teeth are the next best thing, and over twenty thousand happy people in this country, who are wearing them, will say "Amen" to that statement.

Read the following letter from Mr. George H. Weisbach, who came to us from Salisbury, Md.:—

JACKSON & WEISBACH COMPANY, (INCORPORATED).
Manufacturer of
HIGH-GRADE SHIRTS.
Salisbury, Md.

G. Gordon Martin, Inc., 320 Fifth Ave., New York:

Gentlemen—When I went to you my teeth were in very bad shape, and I did not have much faith that you would be able to do anything more than give me possibly temporary relief at most. Up to the present time the work you did for me has proven most satisfactory. For quite a good many years my own teeth have given me trouble, and were so easily broken that I had to exercise some care in eating, but find with the new ones which you put in for me that I simply have to forget that I have any new teeth, and eat what I want.

You are welcome to use this letter if of any benefit to you, and if any personal word I could say would be of assistance would be glad to say it at any time.

Yours, truly,
GEO. H. WEISBACH.

Testimonials like the above should crowd our offices with the victims of poor teeth and poor dentistry, for it is truly a statement voluntarily made by a patient.

While we do general dental work in all branches, our great specialty is the Martinolar Method of restoring missing teeth without the use of plates or ordinary bridge work.

In performing this wonderful work we follow nature's plan as nearly as possible. We do not perform surgical operations. There is no boring into the gums nor implanting of teeth, nothing at all about the method that is painful or will cause you discomfort. It is a common sense proposition all the way through, and our charges are no higher than those asked by other first-class dentists for first-class work.

Call at our office and we will make a thorough examination and diagnosis of your case and explain fully just what we can do for you. For this there will be no charge.

If you cannot call at once, send for our book, "Martinolar Dentistry," which explains the method in detail. It is sent free on request.

NORWEGIAN RULERS MEET ROOSEVELT

They Take Him to the Palace in Christiania Through Decorated Streets.

EX-PRESIDENT IS ANECDOTAL

Tells of His Western Experiences—Two Hundred Guests at Dinner in His Honor.

CHRISTIANIA, May 4.—King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway were the first persons to greet ex-President Roosevelt on his arrival here to-day. Col. Roosevelt presented Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, and Kermit Roosevelt, and the party then proceeded to the palace.

The streets of Christiania are bright with decorations, and almost every one is wearing an American flag. A Roosevelt march, Roosevelt photographs, and compilations of Mr. Roosevelt's sayings are being sold in the shops and on the highways.

This evening the King and Queen gave a dinner at the palace in honor of their American guests. More than 200 of the most eminent persons in Norway were present, including the Premier and Cabinet Ministers, the leaders of the various political parties, litterateurs, financiers, and other distinguished persons. Four State chairs were placed at the principal table, and after all the others of the company were standing at their places the King appeared with Mrs. Roosevelt on his arm, Col. Roosevelt following with the Queen.

When the dinner had advanced to the fourth course, the King arose and all the guests stood.

"It is with great pleasure," said the King, "that I welcome you, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, here in the name of the Queen and myself, and extend to you our hospitality. I do not speak in my own name alone, but I am convinced that it is in the name of all Norwegians. The reception given you to-day will convince you of the truth of my words. As you know, we are all grateful that, although your time is so limited, you have been able to come to Norway. Many Norwegians live in America, and, although American subjects, they are Norwegian at heart. Therefore we feel particularly pleased to have this opportunity of offering our hospitality to some eminent American citizen.

"I express the hope that you will get the impression during your stay in Christiania that real feelings of true friendship and relationship between the United States and Norway exist here, and I hope that these feelings will continue for all time. I drink a toast to the United States and I drink a toast to the health of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt."

The company remained standing while the ex-President responded.

"It is a particular pleasure for me to be in Norway," he said, "and I have been deeply impressed with my generous reception. Norwegians have made such good citizens in the United States that I once remarked to a group of traveling Norwegians that I rather grudged it that they had left anybody in Norway.

"As your Majesty has said, the Norwegians in America love the land of their birth, and they love the country of their adoption. A man can love his wife all the better if he love his mother a great deal."

Col. Roosevelt touched on Norse literature, and spoke of his pleasure when, as President, he was able to cable his good wishes to a new Norwegian King bearing the old name of Haakon. "And," he continued, "it is a fine thing for the country that 'Haakon' and 'Olaf' should be the names borne by the ruler of today and the ruler of to-morrow."

He turned directly to the King and Queen and said:

"I hope their Majesties, who seem to do all things well, will see to it that the small Olaf knows the Heimskringla thoroughly. I drink with my whole heart to the health of your Majesties.

The King and Queen this afternoon showed Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt the little Prince Olaf, and the Colonel, who had been telling anecdotes about Seth Bullock, said: "I wish Seth Bullock was here to see your small Olaf. He would be delighted with him."

While the ex-President was in his room arranging his papers and dictating letters the King came in quite informally and asked: "Wouldn't you like to have a cup of tea?"

"By George, I would!" replied the Colonel. The King rang, and for more than an hour the two sat drinking tea and talking on a variety of subjects. The King asked many questions and gave many of his opinions on matters relating to the United States.

Col. Roosevelt told of some of his ranching experiences, and particularly of one effective speech he had made in a Western mining camp against free silver, while Seth Bullock sat on a platform behind him. He spoke for an hour and not a man interrupted him. Every one in the house was seemingly deeply interested. At the conclusion of the speech he said to one of his ranching friends: "I think I held the audience pretty well."

"Held the audience well!" exclaimed his friend. "Seth Bullock, with a six-shooter in each hip watching the crowd, gave the tip that he'd perforate the first man who peeped."

There was no cheering at the railway station when Mr. Roosevelt arrived, but the crowds that occupied the adjoining square an devery point of vantage on the roofs and in the windows of near-by buildings uncovered respectfully. Cheering is rare in this country.

The Roosevelts arrived soon after midday, having been brought from the southern extremity of the kingdom in a special train provided by the Government. The conductor of the train wore a broad leather belt bearing the arms of Norway. There was special significance in this, as the belt is designated to indicate that royalty is traveling. A dining car was attached to the train, and this morning the Roosevelts had an excellent breakfast consisting of fruits, oatmeal and cream, fresh-caught trout, and bacon and eggs.

When the train arrived here the platform of the station was covered with a red carpet, and inside the building a temporary stand had been erected for the receiving party. This was occupied by the King and Queen with a large suite, all the members of the Cabinet, members of Parliament, city and State officials, professors of the university, and other distinguished persons.

As the train drew in and Mr. Roosevelt stepped down his Majesty crossed the platform and, without waiting for an introduction, shook hands with the ex-President. He then presented Mr. Roosevelt to the Queen, and Mr. Roosevelt presented Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, and Kermit Roosevelt to their Majesties. The Queen then took the Colonel's arm and the King offered his arm to Mrs. Roosevelt. They walked through the royal waiting room, which was half filled with flowers and flags, to the carriages which were in waiting. The party drove at once to the palace. After a brief stop at the palace, the Roosevelts, still accompanied by the King and Queen and a few members of the royal household, drove to the American Legation, where they had luncheon as the guests of American Minister Peirce. The luncheon was followed by a reception.

If his present plans are carried out, Mr. Roosevelt will remain here until 7:30 on Friday evening, at which time he will start for Stockholm. To-morrow he will deliver the Nobel prize address at the National Theatre, and in the evening he will be entertained at a banquet. On Friday he will receive a doctor's degree from the University.

THE PROGRAMME IN BERLIN.

Dinners, Luncheons, Receptions—Mr. Roosevelt to Meet Big-Game Hunters.

BERLIN, May 4.—The American Embassy to-day announced the complete programme for Mr. Roosevelt's visit to Berlin.

As already made known, Mr. Roosevelt will be the personal guest of Emperor William on the day of his arrival, May 9, and the day following. On May 11 there will be a dinner at the American Embassy, at which Mr. Roosevelt and the Emperor will be the guests of honor. On the following day the ex-President will dine with Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, later going to the embassy to become Mr. Hill's guest. On May 13 the Ambassador will give a luncheon at which Mr. Roosevelt will meet many eminent Germans in the fields of science, industry, and finance. The evening of May 13 there will be a reception for specially invited Americans. Joseph C. Grew, Second Secretary of the American Embassy, will give a luncheon for Mr. Roosevelt on May 14, when a number of hunters of African big game will be present. On the evening of May 14 there will be a dinner at the embassy, followed by a reception for the Diplomatic Corps, German officials, and the university authorities.

The Roosevelts will depart for London at noon on May 15.

ROOSEVELT WRONG—GROSSCUP.

Says His Views on Egypt Were Based on Misinformation.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Judge Peter S. Grosscup, who returned this morning from an extended European and Egyptian trip, took issue with the views on Egypt expressed by ex-President Roosevelt.

"Theodore Roosevelt," he said, "is a man of vast information, but he is not a man of deep information. His judgments are hasty. He is not always accustomed to think much before he speaks.

"Mr. Roosevelt's conclusions in regard to the condition of Egypt and its future government seem to me to be based on imperfect information. He said in his speech that Egypt was fated to British rule because of the lack of adequate education among the better class of citizens. He saw that the only higher education given in Cairo was in the university of that city, where instruction is given in the Moslem manner to prospective priests, but he neglected to consider the fact that many of the younger Egyptians of the better class have been educated at European universities, and that it is these people who will rule Egypt.

"My opinions about the country were greatly different after I had been there two weeks from what they were the first fw days I passd there. Mr. Roosevelt delivered his speech when he had been in Egypt only a day or so.

"I disagree with his statement that Egypt must soon fall under British rule. I feel, on the contrary, that Great Britain must soon relinquish her hold on Egypt. Self-government is desired everywhere, a ndthe Egyptians are learning many things."

Judge Grosscup preceded the Roosevelt party through Egypt and Italy, and twice caught sight of the Roosevelt carriage, but he did not have an opportunity for a meeting.

"I left Cairo just before Mr. Roosevelt arrived," he said, "not because I did not want to see him, but because I could not be sure of getting other steamer accommodations within a week."

25,000 IN ROOSEVELT PARADE.

That Is Now the Estimate of the Welcoming Party on His Return.

It is expected that between 25,000 and 30,000 men at least will be in the land parade to welcome Col. Roosevelt on his return to this country on June 18. Capt. Cosby, secretary of the Mayor's Reception Committee, said yesterday that there will be thousands of Italians, to say nothing of societies of other nationalities and the many military and veteran organizations, in the line of march.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Chairman of the committee, has received a letter from A. Simon, representing the United Syrian Society, asking for a place in the parade. This will be granted, and the Syrians will parade, in part at least, in their brilliant national costume. David C. Humphreys of Philadelphia has written to say that he represents 500 men who want to come over and "root" for Col. Roosevelt on his return. K. K. Parrot of Los Angeles writes that from twenty-five to fifty representative citizens of that city want to cross the continent to be among the first to welcome the Colonel.

The Spanish War Veterans have asked to be allowed to erect an "arch of welcome" over Fifth Avenue in the neighborhood of Twenty-third Street, and the committe now has the request under consideration. The Spanish War Veterans would also like to bring representatives of their 600 camps in this country to meet Col. Roosevelt.

Capt. Cosby said yesterday that, as every effort would be made to keep the affair from being too stiff and formal, Col. Roosevelt would make but one address—that in response to Mayor Gaynor's welcome. At the request of Col. Roosevelt no dinner has been planned. Capt. Cosby said that as far as he knew Col. Roosevelt will go to Oyster Bay on the evening of his arrival.

Before Col. Roosevelt went to Africa the West End Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club of Woodhaven, Queens Borough, obtained a promise from him to address them on his return. They are now planning to give him a rousing reception. A Committee of Arrangements has been appointed, and it was announced that all the political organizations of the borough will be invited to attend the reception. It is said that this is to be Col. Roosevelt's first speech in Queens, and that the entire borough will be out to hear him.

IS THIS THE ROOSEVELT ODE?

English Laureate Addresses Verses "To One Expected from Rome."

The following poem by Alfred Austin, the English Poet Laureate, who was recently reported to be preparing an ode to Roosevelt, will appear in this week's Independent:

TO ONE EXPECTED FROM ROME.

Come back, now the swallow
Announces the Spring,
And from hazel and sallow
The storm-thrushes fling
Over garden and cover
Their amorous notes,
And the rough-nesting plover
Sweeps, circles and floats;
All the choristers vernal
Hail the sun-shining air,
And to the Eternal
Chant hymnals of prayer!

To the domed Empyrean
The laverocks soar,
And victorious paean
Wingéd woodlanders pour
To the green-golden glory
Of daffodilled March,
And branching oaks hoary
Seem young as the larch.
Hope no more is tortured
By lingering gloom,
And in border and orchard
The cherry-boughs bloom.

In Egeria's Fountain
Dip curved palm or shell
Ere to Tusculan mountain
You gaze your farewell,
To keep your heart yearning
In fair Western home,
To be some day returning
To seven-hilled Rome,
Where altar and column
Lie prone from their seat,
And memories solemn
Encompass one's feet.

For my heart has ne'er wavered
While you were afar,
Tho no nightingale quavered
To moonlight or star.
But now sounds the bleating
Of lambs in the garth,
I long for our meeting
At portal and hearth,
To see you beholding
The love-smile that charms,
And I feel the folding
Of life in your arms.

CREEL AT HIS POST.

New Mexican Foreign Minister Takes the Oath of Office.

MEXICO CITY, May 4.—Enrique C. Creel arrived last night to enter the Cabinet of President Diaz as Minister of Foreign Relations succeeding the late Señor Mariscal. Señor Creel took the oath of office to-day in the National Palace. Discussing the policy he will pursue, he said:

"There will be no change in the foreign policy of Mexico. It is my intention strongly to support the policies that were promulgated by Señor Mariscal and to take advantage of every opportunity to strengthen the ties of Mexico with every civilized country."

Señor Creel was formerly Ambassador to the United States. He will retain the title of Governor of Chihuahua until the expiration of his term, but Joseph Maria Sanchez has been named by Congress to take active charge of that office.

BREAD SUPPLY SHORT AS STRIKE SPREADS

Only Plain Loaves Being Baked by the Crippled Forces of the Big Bakeries.

TALK OF GENERAL TIE-UP

Allied Trades and Drivers May Be Called Out—Strikers Armed with Red-Pepper Blowers.

With New York's half dozen biggest bakeries operating only from one-third to one-half of their ovens, the production of breakfast rolls and fancy bread products was practically brought to a standstill yesterday. Plain wheat and rye loaves were all the Superintendents cared to attempt with their curtailed force of operatives, and even of these commodities they could produce only enough to meet the larger hotel and restaurant orders.

The strikers failed yesterday to force further concessions in Brooklyn from the boss bakers, the proprietors having decided, at a three-hour conference, to fight the strikers to any practicable length before abandoning the principle of the open shop. In Manhattan a new weapon of intimidation was found by the police in the form of an apparatus designed to blow the contents of a bellows arrangement into the face of an intended victim. A sample of the device taken from an arrested strike picket was found to be filled with red pepper. So far as known it has not yet been actually employed to stop strikebreakers from accepting employment.

Little headway was made yesterday by either side, both having settled down for the test of strength decided upon Monday. Strike leaders said their present campaign of negative inaction would continue until Saturday, when, if there was no settlement, a general strike of all the allied trades would be called, such a strike being counted ont to bring out the hotel men and bakery drivers.

Two riots marked the contact of the strikers' picket lines with the strikebreakers yesterday. The first occurred in the shop of Felix Uhrl in Lenox Avenue, near 124th Street. Mrs. Uhrl saw strike pickets molesting the men at the bake ovens in an effort to get them to quit their work. She objected and there was a scuffle, in which the pickets were ejected.

Woman Routs Strikers.

Mrs. Uhrl followed them and shouted for the police. She complained at the East Eighty-eighth Street Station that one of the pickets had stabbed her in the arn., and the accused man was arrested. Later in the Harlem Court she exhibited such a slight scratch as the wound that the man was released.

In one bakery of Charles Motzer at 1,641 First Avenue a riot was precipitated by Herman Grund and Paul Berletzsky, strikers on picket duty, who attempted to take out Herman Bretenbach from the bake ovens. A large crowd quickly gathered as a fight started inside, and when Policeman Schaeffer arrived he had difficulty in making his way through it. He arrested the two pickets, but found it necesary to call a citizen to his assistance to escort them through the crowd while he went ahead breakin trail.

Seven professional strikebreakers, heavily armed, applied for work yesterday morning to Supt. Friendman of the Rockwell bakery in East Seventy-fifth Street. They told him they had come from Chicago and Philadelphia and were quite accustomed to taking chances with strikers. The Superintendent sized them and their armament up and decided they were too likely to make his plant a storm centre, for which reason he let them go. They were still seeking employment when the bakeries closed down last night.

A visit to each of the bigger bread-making concerns last night indicated the lines on which the struggle is settling down to a state of siege.

Shop Forces Crippled.

At the Fleischmann bakery thirty-five men were at work, the force being housed and fed in a building adjoining the bakeshop, into which cots and a kitchen outfit had been moved. Otto Fleischmann, the General Manager, said that the plant was turning out nearly 50 per cent. of its normal supply, and that the Williamsburg branch was doing even better. He admitted that small bakeries, which have settled with the union, were supplying many customers whom he had been forced to overlook.

At Rockwell's bakery nearly all of the old men had gone out, and very few strikebreakers had been hirude. The bakery is running at less than a third of its normal capacity.

Manager Hartigan of the Hotel Belmont, where the German bakers struck two days ago, said that their places had been filled. At the Knickerbocker it was said that the bakers had refused to obey the order to strike, and were still at work.

The Cushman bakery, it was reported, was the centre of an effort made by the strike leaders yesterday to break the solid front of the big boss bakers against meeting union demands. Several conferences were held in an effort to obtain the signatures of the Cushman proprietors to a union agreement, but they ended in failure.

The three general organizers of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America who managed the negotiations were Emil Sherrie of Philadelphia, Charles Iffland of Brooklyn, and Herman E. Kintlein of Manhattan.

Policeman Hopp, while on duty at a mass meeting of strikers in the Labor Lyceum in Eighty-fourth Street, near Second Avenue, was made the victim last night of an attack by rotten eggs. One hurled by a man in a crowd in front of the Lyceum whizzed past the policeman's ear and splattered upon the wall of the building, part of its contents smearing the policeman's uniform. He was unable to identify the egg thrower.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ROME, May 4.—Senator Rossi was stricken with apoplexy in his seat in the Senate to-day. He was removed to an adjoining room, and physicians were hurriedly summoned. Some confusion followed the sudden illness of the Senator, and the discussion which concerned the proposed reform of the Chamber was interrupted.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 4.—The Chamber of Deputies to-day reversed its recent action and voted the usual grant of £2,160, Turkish, to the husbands of the Imperial Princesses. In consequence of to-day's decision the Ministers have withdrawn their resignations, which were offered in protest against the original action of the Deputies.

CUBAN PLOT NOT PROVED.

All Except Seven of the Alleged Negro Conspirators Freed.

HAVANA, May 4.—All negro prisoners concerned in the recent alleged conspiracy against the Government except Gen. Evaristo Estenoz, leader of the negro party, and six others, were discharged to-day by order of Special Judge Ponce, who was appointed to try all the cases.

It is stated that there is a strong probability that Estenoz and the other prisoners will soon be released because of lack of evidence. The sudden collapse of the prosecution is taken as being strongly confirmatory of the general impression that there did not exist any real conspiracy, but merely a movement in the direction of forming a colored political party.

THINKS KNOX'S PLAN DEAD.

Temps Says Any Attempt to Resuscitate Manchurian Scheme Must Fail.

PARIS, May 4.—The Temps, commenting upon President Taft's recent speech at Pittsburg, expresses the opinion that any attempt to resuscitate Secretary Knox's plan for the neutralizing of the Manchurian railways is doomed to failure.

In his remarks about the Open Door in China, the Temps thinks, Mr. Taft has placed his finger upon the true cause of the conflict between Washington and Tokio—commercial supremacy in the Pacific. However, the Temps does not consider the issue threatening, as, it says, both the United States and Japan are resolved to avoid complications.

TO PREVENT COTTON FRAUDS.

Galveston Exchange Sends Resolution to Liverpool Bill of Lading Conference.

GALVESTON, May 4.—The first step toward minimizing frauds in cotton bills of lading was taken to-day by the Galveston Cotton Exchange.

In a resolution, transmitted to the bill of lading conference in Liverpool, the exchange urges all bankers and importers to refuse, after next Aug. 21, to accept any bills of lading from any port that are not signed by authorized ship agents after the cotton has been delivered into their custody on their wharves.

PRINCE TSAI GUEST OF MAYOR AT DINNER

Notable Gathering at Sherry's on the Eve of His Departure for Europe.

TWO TOASTS PROPOSED

Cancels Engagement to a Luncheon in Chinatown, but Receives Guests at His Hotel—Sees Wild West.

Prince Tsai-Tao, brother of the Prince Regent of China, who will end his visit to the United States this morning when he sails for England on the North German Lloyd liner George Washington, was the guest of the Mayor and Mrs. Gaynor at dinner at Sherry's last night.

The dinner was formal and there were no speeches, and only two toasts, Mayor Gaynor proposing the health of the youthful Prince and the Prince lifting his glass in honor of his hosts.

The dinner was served in the ballroom on the third floor, the guests being seated around a great square table, the square within being a garden of potted plants, in which gardenias, roses, lilacs, lilies, and palms predominated. The Prince was seated on the right of the Mayor, between him and Joseph H. Choate. On the Mayor's left was Lord Li, the son of the late Li Hung Chang.

Only two of those invited were absent, Bishop and Mrs. Greer being unable to attend, owing to the indisposition of the former. After the guests were seated Mayor Gaynor rose and said:

"As there are to be no speeches, it is proposed that at the beginning I offer a toast of welcome to our guest, His Imperial Highness Prince Tsai-Tao of China. The Prince comes to us from a great Nation, which has a civilization 2,000 years older than our own. It asks for nothing but peace and justice of the rest of the world, and particularly of the Western world. Let us hope that the West shall freely recognize the high civilization of the East, from which we have derived so much, as a preliminary of the everlasting peace which is so strongly wished for by both."

The Prince proposed the health of the Mayor and Mrs. Gaynor in the language of the Manchus, which was translated into English by Lord Li, who said:

"His Imperial Highness the Prince is very glad to take this opportunity to express his deep thanks and high appreciation for the great courtesy shown to him everywhere in New York City, and at the same time to propose the health of the Mayor and Mrs. Gaynor."

Choate's Humor Amuses Prince.

During the dinner that followed, the Mayor carried on an animated conversation with the Prince through Lord Li, in which Mr. Choate joined. The Prince laughed heartily several times, and it was said that this was probably caused by Lord Li's translation of some of Mr. Choate's best jokes.

Those present last night were:

Gen. Ha Han Chang, Col. Hsu Chih Shan, Col. Yao Pao Lai, Capt. Pang Tsan Chang, Lieut. Col. Chiang Shao Yuan, Lieut. Col. Liu En Yuen, Col. Tien Halen Chang, Major Tung Chang, Dr. Wu Wei Yu, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, J. P. Morgan, Jr., Levi P. Morton, the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Page, Mrs. Henry W. Bull, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ridder, Dr. John H. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Key Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bryce, Mr. and Mrs. George McAneny, Capt. Henry R. Lemly, U. S. A.; Col. Walter S. Schuyler, U. S. A.; Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald R. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adamson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Chanler, William R. Willcox, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund L. Bayliss, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, Lawrence Godkin, James Creelman, Mrs. Karl Anderson, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Walter Howe, Yung Kwai, First Secretary Chinese Legation; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff, George F. Baker, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McRoberts, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Lovett, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hepburn, Otto H. Kahn, Cornelius N. Bliss, Miss Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Griscom, Chang Yin Tang, Chinese Minister to the United States; Y. Y. Yung, Chinese Consul General in the United States; Dr. William Bayard Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Underwood Johnson, Col. and Mrs. William Jay, Admiral and Mrs. E. H. C. Leutze, William Loeb, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William A. Prendergast, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. D. Lanier, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Satterlee.

Prince Tsai canceled several of his engagements yesterday, among them the luncheon the Chinese merchants had arranged in his honor at 2 Doyers Street. The Prince sent Gen. Ha and Dr. Wu, his physician, to represent him at the luncheon. That Chinatown was greatly disappointed everywhere was apparent. Under the impression that the Prince, Lord Li, and the other members of the imperial suite would visit Chinatown eighty uniformed police and as many more plain clothes men and detectives were sent into the quarter, under command of Capt. Hodgins of the Elizabeth Street Station. Capt. Hodgins sent for the leaders of the rival factions who recently caused so much trouble in Chinatown, and gave them strict orders to stay away from Doyers Street. Then he closed the street to everybody except those who could prove that they had a reason to be there. It will be a long time before Doyers Street will be as deserted as it was yesterday between the hours of 10 A. M. and 2 P. M.

Remained in His Hotel Suite.

The luncheon to a certain extent was a doleful affair, due to the absence of the Prince and Lord Li. About 200 representative Chinamen, including the Consul General in New York, attended. Among the Caucasians were District Attorney Whitman, Judge Warren W. Foster of the Court of General Sessions, Charles H. Treat, and Major George McVickar.

Prince Tsai remained in his suite at the Plaza all the morning, receiving many of his countrymen, among them a delegation from the Chinese Reform Association of Boston, who presented him with a huge loving cup. Lord Li also did some receiving, among his callers being a woman newspaper reporter, who asked him a lot of questions about woman suffrage, his ideas of American women, and of women in general. Lord Li did his best to make pleasant answers to every question, but he would not indorse "votes for women."

After luncheon at the Plaza the Prince, Lord Li, and the others in the party were the guests of William G. McAdoo on a tour of the Hudson Tunnels, the trip being made in a special train. After the tunnel inspection Prince Tsai and party visited Buffalo Bill's Wild West in Madison Square Garden. The Prince enjoyed the show immensely, especially the bucking broncho feats. He led the applause for a cowboy who refused to be thrown by a bucking mule, and clapped his hands enthusiastically after the fine riding of the Western and Mexican cowboys.

ATTEMPT MADE TO KILL REGENT

Two Attendants Slain by a Dynamite Bomb in the Imperial Gardens.

Information was received in New York yesterday from Tokio that on the night of April 2 last an attempt was made to assassinate the Prince Regent of China with a bomb thrown in the Imperial Gardens in Peking. Two of the Prince's attendants were killed instantly, and a third mortally wounded.

A member of the suite of Prince Tsai Tao, who is visiting this country, was asked at the Plaza Hotel yesterday if the Prince had heard of the attempt to assassinate his brother, and also if it was true, as reported from Tokio, that immediately following the attempt on his life the Prince Regent had cabled Prince Tsai from Tokio warning him to be very careful while passing through Europe.

The member of the Prince's party answered that Prince Tsai received no cablegram from his brother, but admitted that they had heard the story of the attempt on the Prince Regent's life. The report, he added, had not been verified, and until it is Prince Tsai will not believe it true.

MRS. SWOPE A WITNESS.

Tells How She and Her Daughter Parted—Hyde Prosecution Closes.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4.—To the disappointment of several hundred persons who used physical force and cajolery to pry into the Criminal Court room to-day, Mrs. Logan O. Swope told nothing new or startling on the witness stand in closing the State's case in the trial of Dr. B. C. Hyde for the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope. Mrs. Swope in her testimony did not attack Dr. Hyde nor his wife, her daughter. They sat directly in front of her, and she looked them both in the eyes several times. In return she received stares.

"You told Mrs. Hyde when she left your house on Dec. 18 last that you hoped she would come back, and she said she would return only when you invited her husband, I believe?" asked Mr. Walsh, on cross-examination.

"That is exactly what happened," answered Mrs. Swope.

The defense attempted to show that Mrs. Swope's antipathy toward Dr. Hyde had its beginning last Fall over a financial matter. The contention of the defense that Dr. and Mrs. Hyde did not know whether they were remembered in Col. Swope's will was denied by Mrs. Swope. She said Dr. Hyde, Mr. Hunton, and herself had discussed the will when Col. Swope was ill.

Nearly all the morning session was consumed in cross-examination of Dr. Victor Vaughn.

New features brought out were:

Strychnine would accumulate in one organ of a body. All of the liver of Col. Swope had been destroyed since Dr. Hyde's scientists applied to Dr. Vaughn for part of it. Only a small part of the strychnine said to have been taken from the liver remained and none of the drug found had ever been fully purified.

GIFTS FOR CITY COLLEGE.

Several Donors to the Institution Prefer to Remain Unknown.

City College celebrated the sixty-third anniversary of the granting of its charter yesterday with ceremonies including addresses by President Finley and James R. Steers, and the singing of the new college song by Joseph B. Gilder. Two gifts were announced by Mr. Steers, hitherto anonymous, one of $10,000 for the purchase of books on natural history, physics, and chemistry, and the other of $3,500, for the foundation of the Wolcott Gibbs Library of Chemistry.

Mr. Steers is a member of the first entering and first graduating class of the college.

President Finley also announced the receipt of a gift of $2,000 from a citizen who prefers to be unnamed, to be devoted to the purchase of books for the library of the department of history.

Operate on Deputy Surveyor Parr.

Richard Parr, the Deputy Surveyor who unearthed the night weighing frauds on the Havemeyer & Elder Sugar Refineries in Brooklyn, is ill with appendicitis at his home, 541 West 114th Street. For ten days he has been under the care of Dr. A. L. Fish of 41 West Fiftieth Street, who said yesterday that although Mr. Parr was better, there probably would be an operation performed on him within the next three days.

Hupfel Heads Associated Brewers.

At the annual meeting of the Associated Brewers of New York City held yesterday at 109 East Fifteenth Street, Adolph G. Hupfel, Jr., of the A. Hupfel Sons' Brewing Company, was elected President. Mr. Hupfel, who is a '96 Yale man, is the youngest President this organization has ever elected.

JAPANESE AMAZED AT AMERICA'S SIZE

Our Plains, Streets, and Houses So Vast, and Even Our Women Are Not Small.

56 HERE ON A WORLD TOUR

Statesmen, Bankers, Students, and Professional Men Among Them—To See Taft, but Not the Czar.

"America is so vast," remarked Alderman Tsunoba of Tokio, Japan, politely, as he dodged a truck horse staggering in front of a load of banana crates in lower West Street at 7:15 o'clock yesterday morning. "Your plains are vast. Your streets and houses are vast. Your women—even your women are not small like our Japanese women."

Disappearing for a moment behind a West Street Indian, Alderman Tsunoba emerged with a cigar and returned to the Fall River liner Providence on board which were waiting fifty-five other Japanese gentlemen who have been Alderman Tsunoba's fellow-voyagers during the last month.

One of the voyagers was the patriarchal Ando, member of the Japanese Parliament. Another was Toyama, the Osakan banker; Y. Tasuda, the twenty-five-year-old son of a Tokio banker, was a third. There was also young Mr. Yashii, who is a twenty-year-old student in Waseda University, and is by far the most serious member of the party.

The members of the party all stood in Napoleonic attitudes in a sort of crescent-shaped formation on the uuper deck of the good ship Providence and exchanged diphthongalized interjections, as their busy, narrow-slitted eyes took in the skyscrapers, the Statue of Liberty, and the Palisades. All wore American sack suits, most of which were black, but a few of which were very light, indeed, having been bought in warmer San Francisco. They are Japanese business men who are touring this country under the joint guidance of the Tokio Asahi and Thomas Cook & Son.

The party left Yokohama on April 6 on the steamer Chiyo Maru. After stopping at Honolulu they landed in San Francisco on April 22. They visited American toggery shops there for the next two days. Then they went to Chicago by the Northern Pacific, and remained there for three days. Thence they visited Niagara Falls and from there went to Boston, where they visited Faneuil Hall, Harvard University, and other institutions of learning. They left Boston and came here on the Fall River liner Providence, arriving here yesterday morning.

As the party intended to go to Washington on the Baltimore & Ohio train at 9 A. M. to call at the White House and also to see Ambassador Uchida, they waited on board the Providence and made no attempt to do any sight-seeing during the intervening two hours. They received a visit from Y. Ankaru, editor of The Japanese-American Consumers' Weekly.

"The chief object of this round-the-world trip of these fifty Japanese gentlemen is to be present at the Anglo-Japanese Exposition in London," said Representative Kiyose of the Asahi. "In our number are several City Councilors of Tokio and Osaka, a member of the Japanese Diet, and prominent business and professional men of the two towns. Mr. Tsunoba, for example, is a director of the Japanese Exposition, which will be held in Tokio in 1917, and wants to study the London Exposition for that reason. The newspaper Asahi suggested the trip in its news columns last Winter, and brought the fifty-six men who are now taking it. The whole round-the-world trip costs each of the travelers $1,050 or 2,100 yen."

The Japanese were greatly impressed by the Rocky Mountains and Niagara Falls, but were unable to see the Grand Canyon, according to Mr. Kiyose. They are much flattered by the treatment which America has thus far accorded them. Specially prepared menus, printed in Japanese letters on Japanese rice paper, were furnished by the steamer Providence while they were on board.

The Japanese went up to the Baltimore & Ohio ferry house a few blocks north in an open touring car. After dinner at the Japanese Embassy on Friday and their visit to President Taft at the White House on Saturday they will come back to this city on Monday. They will stay at the Hotel Navarre.

They will sail for England on May 14. After visiting the European countries they will return home via the Siberian Railroad. They will visit Moscow and St. Petersburg. But although a Japanese Ambassador is now in the latter city they will not have an audience with the Czar.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—The Japanese who are touring the United States came to Philadelphia to-day from New York. Among the places the visitors inspected were Independence Hall and the Baldwin Locomotive Works. They will leave for Washington Friday morning.

Ten Prisoners Held in Gambling Raid.

Magistrate Appleton, holding court yesterday in a room off the library of the District Attorney's office, held six men, charged as common gamblers, for the Grand Jury in connection with the police raid of April 22, which was based on evidence gathered by the "Millionaire Kid," Policeman Ahlborn. Five were from the house at 121 West Forty-seventh Street and one from 158 West Forty-sixth Street. Bail was fixed at $1,000 each. Five men from the Forty-seventh Street house were held in $500 bail each for Special Sessions, charged with pool selling.

AWNINGS BURN ON HOTEL ROOF

Catch Fire When Put Out to Air—Smoke Alarms Victoria Patrons.

Proprietor Robert P. Murphy of the Hotel Albany, Broadway and Forty-first Street, deciding yesterday that warm weather really was coming, took his 200 window awnings out of camphor and stacked them all up on the roof, intending to put them up to-day.

The awnings, with their scarlet and buff canvas trimmings, lay piled upon the roof of the extension overlooking Fortieth Street. The chimney and flues of the hotel were right alongside them, and so were a number of electric light wires. Proprietor Murphy never thought about this, however. He has had his share of conflagrations recently, and is temperamentally inclined to go on the theory that lightning never strikes twice in the same place.

Nevertheless, whether chimney or electric wires or spontaneous combustion, something happened to the big stack of canvas about 8:30 yesterday evening. The audiences had just taken their seats in the Broadway, Empire, and Casino Theatres, when a column of smoke and flame was seen rising from the Albany's roof at least forty feet skyward as though all the upper floors of the hotel were afire.

Policeman Heuck, at Thirty-ninth Street and Broadway saw it first and pulled a fire box. Then a belated theatregoer dashed up to Proprietor Murphy in the Albany's lobby and shouted:

"Your hotel's burning ~~up~~."

Murphy started to say "Nonsense," but just at that moment a dozen excited feminine patrons burst out of the elevator. Murphy shouted to Detective Edward Armstrong to follow, and ran up to the tenth floor. The hall was full of smoke, and there was a glare through the windows looking out on the roof.

Murphy and the detective rigged the emergency fire hose and began playing it on the burning awningsc through a roof door. They had the blaze under control before the arrival of Fire Chief Martin and his men.

The clanging of the engines brought a big crowd out of the restaurants and made many of those in the three theatres uneasy. But none left his seat, according to the doormen. Nothing burned except the awnings, which were worth $500, Mr. Murphy said.

GIRL AUTO SPEEDER CAUGHT.

Miss Elsie Little Arrested in Yonkers and Her Chauffeur Laughs.

Miss Elsie R. Little of 49 West Sixty-eighth Street was arrested at Yonkers yesterday by Motorcycle Policeman Ford for automobile speeding. She had a party of girls in the machine, and in demonstrating to them how well she could manage a car had taken the wheel. The chauffeur smiled when Miss Little was arrested. But Miss Little was angry, and told her captor he didn't know his business. She hadn't enough money for bail, but handed Lieut. Connolly a brooch which she said was valued at $500. Later in the day City Judge Beall found her guilty of speeding, but discharged her under a suspended sentence.

Ford informed the court that Miss Little had broken the speed law twice in the afternoon. The first time, he said, Miss Little was driving her car along Central Avenue at a rattling pace. Ford was repairing his motorcycle at the time and could not give chase. Later he encountered her machine on the Saw Mill River Road. This time he swung in behind the flying car and after a chase drew alongside and told Miss Little she was under arrest. Miss Little asserted that the auto was going only half as fast as Ford said.

ROPE AROUND BABY'S NECK.

Found Dead in a Vacant Flatbush Lot by Boys at Play.

A game of hide and seek which several boys were playing in a vacant lot at Brooklyn Avenue and Fenimore Street, Flatbush, last evening, was suddenly halted when seven-year-old Harry Hunnewald of 488 Hawthorne Street yelled to his companions that he had found something. The boys gathered about him, and there partly covered by the sand was the body of a three weeks' old female infant with a piece of heavy twine tied tightly around its neck.

It was taken to the Flatbush Police Station, in Snyder Avenue, and detectives were put on the case. They believe that the infant was choked to death.

HER PLEA FOR SUFFRAGE.

Miss Forbes-Robertson Thinks Women Should Vote for Their Own Benefit.

Swinburne Hale, fiancé of Miss Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, was one of the guests at an election district meeting of the Woman Suffrage Party in the studio of Miss Delehanty, 3 Washington Square, yesterday afternoon, where Miss Forbes-Robertson made her last American suffrage address of the season. She will sail for England on Saturday, not to return until Fall.

Economic independence for both women and men, Miss Forbes-Robertson said in the course of her remarks, she believed to be necessary for the happiness of both.

"I believe that women should have the suffrage because of its benefit to themselves aside from the influence it would have upon the community," she said. "They need it for the broadening effect it will have upon them."

The meeing was called by Mrs. Irving Moller, Captain of the Tenth Election District of the Twenty-fifth Assembly District, in which the meeting was held. There was a large attendance, the studio being filled. Miss Forbes-Robertson's speech was apparently convincing to many of her unconverted hearers, and many of the guests put down their names as members of the Woman Suffrage Party at the close of the meeting.

A Literary Feature of Almost Sensational Importance
"EDWIN BOOTH'S OPINION OF THE FAMOUS PLAYERS OF HIS DAY."

This is in the form of a private letter written by Mr. Booth to a personal friend. For thirty-five years it has been in the possession of a well-known journalist of this city, and it came to him in a remarkable way. A fellow craftsman handed it to him one night at a Bohemian dinner: "My boy," he said, "here is a letter of extraordinary historic value. If published now it would cause bitter heartaches and enmities. I shall not live until it can safely and properly be published; you may. Treasure it until that time and then give to the world Edwin Booth's private opinion of the foremost actors of his day."

To the Theatre Magazine has been given the privilege of publishing this remarkable document.

MASONIC ORPHANS SEEING THE TOWN

Children from the Utica Home Entertain Lodge Members at the New Building.

THEY GO TO HIPPODROME

Rabbi Silverman Tells How Some Women Neglect Children for Dogs —Scores Child Labor.

Ninety-two children from the Masonic Home in Utica, most of them orphans, took complete and undisputed possession of the new Masonic Building at Sixth Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street yesterday afternoon. Many men were there also, this being the 129th annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Masons of the State of New York.

The visit of the Masoinc children helped to celebrate the erection of the new building. This is the first time the Grand Lodge has met in it since its completion, and the ninety-two came from Utica to do their part in the initiation. Under the supervision of W. G. Wiley, Superintendent of the Masonic Home in Utica, and Mrs. Wiley the youngsters reached the city on Tuesday afternoon. That night they went to the Hotel Victoria.

The children were up at 7 A. M. yesterday, and within half an hour they were at breakfast. Then they turned themselves loose to have a good time until noon under the care of relatives or friends.

The hotel chambermaids were stricken with surprise and joy when they reached the twenty rooms assigned to the children in their morning rounds. Every bed had already been made up, with ornamental foldings of the top sheet and pillow cases. Every towel had been folded and put in place. The rooms were models of tidiness.

At noon the children had luncheon and then made ready to march to Masonic Hall. The girls wore white dresses and both girls and boys wore flat-topped caps. Arrived at Masonic Hall, the ninety-two, led by Delia Thompson and Lucy Nichols, each 6 years old, continued their march into the Grand Lodge room. There the children entertained the Masons.

In all the choruses one little voice raised itself above all the others. Investigation brought out the fact that it belonged to five-year-old Loretta Albin—called Salvation Lo on account of her high C. Wilton Bagg also added his tempestuous bass voice. He is 2 years old and the youngest of the party. Alice Bingham's mellow soprano was not lost in the stream of melody. She is 3 years old.

There were duets and solos, one of the chief soloists being Miss Veturia Isabel Wiley, daughter of the Superintendent, to whom the Trustees of Masonic Hall and the Asylum Fund voted thanks for her work in training the children for the musical programme. The children's orchestra did its part.

The Rev. Joseph Silverman, rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street, made a speech criticising modern society women for neglecting children in the interest of dogs.

"A man went to a Judge in this city," he said, "and asked to be protected against his wife, declaring that she treated him worse than a dog. To that the Judge said: 'Sir, if your wife treats you as most modern women treat their dogs, you are better off than most men.'

"The neglect of the child is the curse of our modern society. No wonder sickly sentimentalists care more about the dog, raising a great cry against those who dissect animals for the benefit of humanity. How any mother can neglect her child to go into politics or follow the dogs in the streets it is hard to understand, but it is certain that these mothers are neglecting the great opportunity God has given them to care for the child."

At the close of the programme all the ninety-two went to the basement and made ready for the dinner that was to be served to them there. After dinner the Masonic children went to the Hippodrome, where seats had been reserved for them. This morning they are to go back to the home.

A deficit of $28,500 for the year 1911 was predicted yesterday by the Trustees of the Masonic Hall and Asylum. This and the question of what is to be done with the old Masonic Hall Building, facing on Twenty-third Street, will be considered to-day. The new Masonic Temple had cost $1,301,235 up to March 31.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: J. Judson Kenworthy, New York, Grand Master; Charles Smith, Oneida, Deputy Grand Master; Thomas Penny, Buffalo, Senior Grand Warden; William Farmer, Syracuse, Junior Grand Warden; William Miller, New York, Grand Treasurer; Col. E. M. L. Ehlers, Grand Secretary. Col. Ehlers has been elected twenty-seven times to this office.

POLISH SCULPTOR SUED.

Priest Says Chodsinski Owes for Rent and Borrowed Money.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, May 4.—The Rev. John Pitass, rector of St. Stanislaus's Polish Church in this city, has commenced a suit against Casimar Chodsinski, the sculptor of the statue of Pulaski, which will soon be unveiled in Washington, for a sum of about $1,000.

Father Pitass asserts that Chodsinski occupied his farm near the city line of Buffalo for three years, and departed without paying rent. It was there that the model for the statue was made. It is also alleged that Chodsinski owes money borrowed from Father Pitass and that he removed furniture belonging to the priest when he left the farm.

DENY WOMEN CHURCH RIGHTS

Southern Methodist Bishops Don't Want Them Represented in Conference

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 4.—With six Bishops on the platform and 325 delegates, lay and clerical, the sixteenth quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South opened here today. Bishop E. R. Hendrix of Kansas City, in the episcopal address, which is really the Bishop's joint report on the state of the Church, flatly opposed the demands of the women of the Church for laymen's rights and representation in conference. He said the demands would not be "in harmony with the Church's idea of what was woman's place in the Church, in the home, and in society." The Bishop went on to compliment women for their devotion to the Church.

The address declared that the Methodist denomination now numbered 2,000,000 souls, making it the second largest Protestant Church in the world. It gave its gains in the last four years as 207,754, and showed that at present over 7,000 traveling and 4,000 local ministers were in service. The Church property now owned is worth $75,000,000, and $4,000,000 was spent for churches and parsonages during the last year.

A MILE OF TRAINS STALLED.

Schooner Mary Ann Got Fast in Mud and Kept Hackensack Draw Open.

The Mary Ann, a two-masted schooner, loaded to the water's edge with brick, got stuck in the mud while attempting to pass through the Erie Railroad's drawbridge over the Hackensack River at the time New Jersey commuters were coming to work in the city yesterday morning. As a result 7,000 people were held up for two hours.

A trainload of commuters had just reached the river when the bridge swung open to allow the Mary Ann to pass through. The Mary Ann's skipper made frantic efforts to keep the boat in the channel, but the stearing gear was broken.

Every ten minutes trains loaded with commuters arrived until the stalled cars stretched back a full mile. The Erie's traffic department sent a large freight engine to the draw, but in order to get within working distance the passenger trains had to be switched on to sidings. A cable was stretched from the engine to the brick boat, and inch by inch the engine dragged the old hooker out of the mud.

NOT WHIPPED, SAYS LIBBY.

Col. Hale's Attack Ineffective, Declares Editor Who Offended Him.

PORTLAND, Me., May 4.—Charles Thornton Libby, editor of The Six Towns Times, wishes it understood that he was not whipped by Col. Frederick Hale, son of United States Senator Hale, on Monday. It had been represented that Col. Hale resented an editorial denouncing his mother for alleged plans of political corruption in furthering his candidacy for Congress and had soundly chastised Mr. Libby. The editor's version of the incident is:

"While I have not the heart to discredit Col. Hale's account of his exploit in such an errand as defending his mother's political honor, I do not think such motives of indulgence and consideration require me to be silent in the face of his story of whipping a man about twice his size, I being the man.

"Upon being introduced to Col. Hale by Col. Fay I rose from my seat, but did not extend my hand.

"He held out a newspaper to ask if I was responsible for an article, and on my saying, 'Yes,' he still held out the paper and asked the same question again, and I again said, 'Yes.' We were standing close together.

"I then saw him reaching into his breast pocket for his whip as it proved, and grabbed for it, but he stepped backward, he trying to strike and I following him, grabbing for the whip, until we had crossed the office, and he kicked over a pail of water. We were so close together that he could not really strike. So far as I know I did not receive a blow.

"The next thing he was making passes at me with his fists, but as he is of rather small stature and I over 6 feet and long armed, I merely had to stretch out my hands and brush his blows aside. Presently he stood still on the floor and a moment later picked up his hat and whip and departed."

EXCISE BOARD THANKS HIM.

Congratulates Mayor Gaynor on His Sunday Law Enforcement.

Frederick W. Stelle, counsel for the State Excise Department, has written to Mayor Gaynor congratulating him on the excellent results obtained so far from the application of his plan for the enforcement of the excise law. His letter says:

> 1 Madison Avenue, New York.
> April 30, 1910.
>
> My Dear Judge Gaynor: I want you to know that a number of our special agents have reported to me that never in their experience since the liquor tax law was enacted in 1896 have they seen such an effort to comply with the law on the part of liquor dealers as during the past two Sundays. You are certainly to be congratulated on the success of your plan so far. I see by to-day's papers that the Magistrates are again receiving your attention. I have just reported to District Attorney Whitman a list of cases wherein I believe discretion has been abused by some of the Justices of Special Sessions also. If in any of these matters I can be of service to you please command me. I remain, Sir, yours respectfully,
>
> FREDERICK W. STELLE.
>
> To Hon. William J. Gaynor.

When the Mayor first pronounded his plan the principal skepticism expressed as to the possibilities of its success came from the State excise officials.

THE NATION SOUND, SAYS MR. CARNEGIE

"Let the Howlers Howl; the Country's All Right," He Asserts as He Sails Away.

AND TAFT—HE'S A MODEL

But Roosevelt Can Have Anything He Wants, the Ironmaster Also Declares.

Andrew Carnegie sailed yesterday on the White Star liner Adriatic for his annual Summer trip to Europe, accompanied by Mrs. Carnegie and his daughter. He appeared to have entirely recovered from his recent illness and scouted the rumor that he had fainted twice in Pittsburg.

"I'm feeling fine," he said; "don't I look it? I only closed my eyes so that I could think. I always do that when I am talking to reporters."

When asked for an opinion on the appointment of Gov. Hughes to the United States Supreme Court bench at Washington, Mr. Carnegie said:

"Gov. Hughes is entitled to anything he likes. It is no doubt a loss to the State of New York to have him leave the executive chair, but the loss of the State is the gain of the Nation at large. I don't know whether there is such a precedent as a Supreme Court Justice retiring to re-enter public life, but if the crisis arises I hope Gov. Hughes will do it."

In regard to the tariff, he said he believed that greater progress had been made by the latest tariff revision toward a perfect tariff than ever before.

"Of course," said Mr. Carnegie, smilingly, "it is hard to please everybody, and I can only emphasize my opinion by quoting to you something I read on a Christmas card. 'Let the scowlers scowl, let the howlers howl, and the politicians go it. The country's all right, and I know it.'"

The attention of Mr. Carnegie was called to the reports that the visit this week to New York of the Chinese Prince meant the giving of large contracts to American manufacturers, and he was asked for his opinion on the progress of the Chinese nation.

"Why, they are a wonderful people. China is one of the most wonderful nations in the world. They are an honest people. They have given the world printing, gunpowder, and their calendar, which dates back 4,000 years, and is within four minutes of being correct, according to modern astronomical science. We must keep in touch with China, for the nation is progressing in a manner that causes the other nations of the world to take notice."

Mr. Carnegie was then asked for his opinion of the present occupant of the Presidential chair. "Taft is a model President," was his ready answer, "but he works too hard. He wants to please everybody, and in that lies his greatest fault. There is no comparison with the work of the previous Administration. One President did the spade work and the present Administration is sowing the seed."

"And who will reap the harvest?" a reporter queried.

"Time will tell," replied Mr. Carnegie.

Asked if he thought Col. Roosevelt would be the next President, Mr. Carnegie answered:

"Well, I don't know. Guess he gets anything he wants."

Speaking of his library work, Mr. Carnegie was questioned as to the report that he was dissatisfied with the manner in which the people of Pittsburg treated his plan. This he denied.

"The story is entitled to no credence whatever. Pittsburg has the best library system in the world, as was recently testified to by investigators from England. I cannot speak too highly of the manner in which the people of that city have taken up the library work. I cannot thank the people too much."

"How about the condition of the country at large?"

"Why, we are entering on a period of prosperity that will redound to the good of everybody. The country is all right," said Mr. Carnegie as he excused himself and joined his wife and daughter and friends from the United States Steel Corporation who had come to the Adriatic to bid him godspeed.

Visits Juvenile Institutions and a Women's Meeting—Declines to Speak.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., May 4.—Miss Anne Morgan of New York, who has devoted two days to a thorough investigation of Denver's Juvenile Court, the suburban reformatory institutions, and the State Industrial Schools for Girls, wound up tonight by attending a women's political meeting at the Broadway Theatre. It had been extensively advertised that she would deliver a speech. She not only declined to do so, but refused to go on the stage, occupying a private box and remaining silent, although there were many calls for her.

The only speech she made to-day was at the Newsboys' Club, where she told the boys she had come all the way from New York to see them, and was glad she found them doing well and working hard for self-improvement.

Miss Morgan sat in the Juvenile Court this morning, and by request of the Judge questioned and chatted with the young delinquents whose cases were heard.

SAYS EARTH IS IN NO DANGER.

No Fear of Collision with the Comet—Prof. Jacoby Proves It.

Schermerhorn Hall at Columbia University was not big enough to accommodate all those who desired to hear Prof. Harold Jacoby tell the wonders of Halley's comet yesterday afternoon. He demonstrated by a model of Sir William Herschel's that the inhabitants of this earth need have no fear of a collision. While it is true, said Prof. Jacoby, that the comet is rapidly moving nearer, the earth is in no danger.

On May 19, Prof. Jacoby declares, the comet will be midway between the earth and the sun, so that a straight line would cut the three bodies. At present the comet is on one side of the sun; after May 19 it will be on the other. Because of this, said Prof. Jacoby, the comet may be seen best either immediately before sunrise now or immediately after sunset after May 19.

Prof. Jacoby said that a clear view of the comet should be possible on May 19, 20, and 21, soon after sundown.

Several experiments greatly interested the audience, especially one in which Prof. Jacoby, with a magnetic coil under a glass surface, illustrated the way a comet is attracted by the forces of gravity.

When shot from a tiny toy cannon with no magnetic force to influence it, the small ball simply rolled in a straight line. But when the current was turned on the ball took the oval, cometary motion.

FOR A FLATBUSH SUBWAY.

Property Owners Want a Branch from Eastern Parkway on Assessment Plan.

A petition signed by 150 Brooklyn property owners was presented to the Public Service Commission yesterday asking it to authorize the construction of a subway from Eastern Parkway down Nostrand and Flatbush Avenues to Coney Island on the assessment plan.

The petition was headed by S. T. Hollister, President of the Central Flatbush Taxpayers' Association. The plan provides for about two and one-half miles of subway and four miles of elevated road. It would cost about $9,000,000, but it is estimated that a conservative assessment apportionment would not average more than $100 a lot, which, according to the law passed last year, would be payable in ten yearly installments.

The route is laid out from the intersection of Eastern Parkway and Nostrand Avenue south on the latter to Flatbush Avenue, and thence to Coney Island through Sheepshead Bay. It is proposed to have the subway run as far as Flatbush Avenue and have the rest of the line elevated. The route would be an extension of the proposed Eastern Parkway Subway, for which a large number of the property owners along the route have already petitioned to be constructed on the assessment plan.

As soon as the letting of the contracts for the Tri-Borough Subway has been disposed of, the commission will get down to a serious consideration of these applications for assessment subways.

WOMAN'S BODY IN PARK LAKE

Found There by Two Boatmen—No Clue to Her Identity.

Two boatmen employed by the company which rents boats on the large lake in Central Park, opposite Seventy-second Street, discovered the body of a woman about 45 years old floating on the surface yesterday morning. The body had not been in the water more than five or six hours.

There was nothing to indicate whether the drowning had been accidental or deliberate, but the police point out that the large lake is difficult to reach in the night and there are no benches near the shore. It is necessary, in fact, to climb over a three-foot stone wall to get to the lake at night.

The body is that of a woman, 5 feet 4 inches in height, of slight build. The hair and eyes are brown. She wore a black dress and white collarette, a black hat trimmed with black feathers, and a red rose. No money, letters, papers, or clues to identification were found by the police in the Arsenal Station, where the body was taken from the lake.

Forest Fires in Northwest.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., May 4.—Forest fires are again raging in this section. Near Garden River, Ontario, the flames are spreading rapidly, and bush fires are burning on Sugar Island. No damage has resulted to buildings.

Madman Escapes in Brooklyn.

While being taken to Ellis Island to be deported, Carl Milato, a lunatic, escaped from his keepers yesterday at the Long Island Railroad station in Brooklyn. The police are hunting for the man. Milato came here from Prague, Austria. He became demented and was committed to the State Asylum at Central Islip, L. I. With seven other insane aliens confined there he was ordered deported by the Government. James J. Powers and other keepers were taking the eight men to Ellis Island when Milato darted through the crowd of passengers in the Flatbush Avenue station and escaped.

N.B. "A GREAT NOVEL" N.B.

Mary S. Watts's new novel Nathan Burke

which is being praised the country over. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

"NATHAN BURKE will take the first rank among the novels of the year."

The New York Evening Post thinks it may prove "the most remarkable American novel of the season," because "the story is of a quality so unusual." . . . "It does extremely well what so many of our story-tellers have so often done ill." Its characters "have that imaginative reality which belongs to the people of 'Tristram Shandy,' 'The Virginians,' or 'Joseph Vance.'"

"A peculiarly large-minded, keen-brained book."

"The best book of its kind that has appeared for years."
—San Francisco Chronicle.

"Extraordinarily worth while . . . a quality of humor and of keen quizzical observation of the human heart keeps every page alive . . . A dozen people in 'Nathan Burke' seem as real as any flesh-and-blood acquaintances. And what is more, you know their hearts . . . This novel should give Mrs. Watts a place among our foremost American realists. It has charm and fineness of spirit."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"Few books have been written in years that will please so much."
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"When one is through with 'Nathan Burke' one thinks,
I'D LIKE TO READ IT RIGHT OVER AGAIN."

WIFE SUES A MAN FOR LOST HUSBAND

Wholesale Milliner "Wickedly and Maliciously Gained His Affections," Says Mrs. Jacques.

TELLS OF TRIP ABROAD

Denial from R. L. Cochran, the Milliner—He Says Jacques Is a Clerk He Is Teaching the Business.

The charge of alienating a man's affection from his wife is made against a man in a suit for $50,000 damages just filed in White Plains against Robert L. Cochran, President of the R. L. Cochran Company, manufacturers of millinery goods at 892 Broadway. Mr. Cochran lives in New Rochelle, and is reputed to be wealthy. He owns a steam yacht, and moves in the best society of New Rochelle.

The woman who is suing him is Mrs. Leona Jacques, the twenty-one-year-old wife of Harold Jacques of Allenhurst, N. J. Mrs. Jacques is now living with her parents in Asbury Park, having left her husband several months ago.

In her complaint she says that Mr. Cochran "wickedly and maliciously gained the affections" of her husband Harold, "and induced him to go away with him to Europe, enticing him by offers of money, real estate, and otherwise." Mr. Cochran denies all the allegations of Mrs. Jacques, and in his answer to the bill of complaint says that Jacques was in his employ and accompanied him to Europe as an employe.

The trip to Europe of which Mrs. Jacques complains took place late in the Summer of 1908. In August of that year, so Mr. Cochran says, he started for Europe on one of his regular semi-annual trips to buy millinery supplies. He had been accustomed to take along one of the young men employed by his company. Jacques, who was a clerk then, employed at $20 a week by the R. L. Cochran Company, says Mr. Cochran, wished to accompany him to learn the buying end of the business. He also declares that Mrs. Jacques was quite willing for her husband to go.

Says Her Allowance Diminished.

Soon after the return of Mr. Cochran and young Jacques from Europe Mrs. Jacques began to complain about the small allowance her husband gave her. This diminished as time went on, she says, and her husband began spending more and more time with Mr. Cochran. Sometimes Mr. Cochran visited their house in Allenhurst and stayed from Friday night until Monday morning, the woman says. Mr. Cochran denies it.

Mrs. Jacques says that as time went on Mr. Cochran gradually weaned her husband's affections away from her. After telling of the trip to Europe Mrs. Jacques, in her complaint, says that up to August, 1908, she was living happily with her husband, and "was enjoying his affection, support, and consort." She goes on to say that Mr. Cochran, "well knowing the premises and wrongfully intending to injure this plaintiff and deprive her of her husband's protection, society, and support, willfully, wickedly, and maliciously gained the affections of said Harold Jacques and sought to persuade him and entice him to leave the plaintiff without his company or support and go away to Europe."

Further on the bill says that after the trip to Europe Mr. Cochran caused Jacques "to desert the plaintiff and leave her without his support and protection, and go with said defendant to the City of New York, at which place the defendant has ever since harbored and detained the said Harold Jacques against the will of the plaintiff."

The complaint says further that "by reason of the premises Harold Jacques has become estranged from the plaintiff, and his affection and regard for the plaintiff have been estranged; that thereby the plaintiff has been, and still is, wrongfully deprived by the defendant of the comfort, society, support, and protection of her said husband, and the happiness and benefits she otherwise would have received at his hands, and has suffered great distress of mind and body to her damage in the sum of $50,000."

Papers Have Just Been Filed.

After Mrs. Jacques and her husband separated she retained G. A. Moses, a lawyer, to bring action against Mr. Cochran. Although papers were served on Mr. Cochran several weeks ago, they were not filed until Tuesday last, according to Mr. Moses.

Lawyer Moses said yesterday that his client, who is 21 years old, was Miss Leona Whitworth of Asbury Park. Three years ago she married Jacques in Jersey City, and they went to live at Allenhurst. Mr. Moses says that Jacques has not contributed to her support for a long time, and that while he was in Europe with Cochran he sent nothing to her. He says that Jacques was never employed by Cochran, and that he and his wife used to live in a house owned by Cochran.

Michael J. Tierney of New Rochelle, attorney for Cochran, said yesterday that Jacques had been in the employ of his client for a long time. At the time of the trip to Europe, said Mr. Tierney, Jacques was getting $20 a week, and while he was away sent $10 a week to his wife.

In his denial of Mrs. Jacques's allegations Mr. Cochran says that at the time complained of the woman was not, as she says, "living with and being supported by her husband at Allenhurst," nor "enjoying his affection, support, protection, and consort."

Lawyer Moses says he has a lot of sensational testimony, and that the suit will cause a stir in New Rochelle.

DYING GIRL CHARGED POISON.

So Her Brother Says—Police Investigating Todd Case.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 4.—Margaret Todd, the Dorchester girl who died on Friday at Bellevue Hospital, New York, where she had been taken after being picked up senseless on the streets, was murdered, so her brother, William C. Todd, is declaring to-day. This statement, he says, is made upon the authority of the girl herself, who cried as she regained consciousness just before death:

"If I die they have murdered me. I have been poisoned by a powder that that woman gave me."

The house surgeon at the hospital admits that traces of poison were found in the girl's stomach. The Todd family have demanded a full investigation by the New York police.

To-day search is being made in New York for the friend of the dead girl, Bertha Taylor, 18 years old, who left Boston with her two years ago.

At Police Headquarters, Capt. Carey of the Homicide Bureau said the girl's death was being investigated, but that nothing had developed to indicate that any crime had been committed. The woman, who gave her name as Irene Muller at Bellevue Hospital, died of oedema and congestion of the lungs and brain, according to the records of the Coroners' office. An autopsy performed by Coroners' Physician Dr. Schultz, showed that she had succumbed to the effects of some drug poison, but whether self-administered or otherwise was not discovered. A further analysis of the stomach will be made.

The woman was unconscious when taken to the hospital, after a collapse at Thirty-fourth Street and Broadway on Friday morning. According to the hospital authorities she made no statement. Her real name was found tattooed on her thigh at the Morgue. A pemit to remove the body was granted to Miss G. Dunn of 169 West Thirty-fourth Street. It is believed the body was sent to Boston.

Park Department Investigation.

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick started an investigation yesterday into a matter connected with the Park Department. He had nearly a score of employes of the department before him, but declined to make public the nature of the investigation.

WAR ON NEW HAVEN RATES.

Commuters to Appeal to Public Service and Inter-State Commerce Boards.

Not only will the Mayors of New Rochelle and Mount Vernon and the Presidents of the villages along the New Haven Railroad from Mount Vernon to the Connecticut line engage counsel to make a bitter legal battle before the Inter-State Commerce Commission and the Public Service Commission against the increase of commutation rates on the New Haven system, but it became known yesterday that the commuters have drawn up long petitions, as well as a "round robin" containing their protests, which will be submitted to the corporation.

The commuters say that the company has increased the fare from New York to Boston only 10 cents, while the price of a ticket from the Grand Central Station to Mount Vernon has been raised from 30 to 35 cents, which, it is contended, is unfair discrimination. The Mount Vernon Chamber of Commerce and the Westchester Chamber of Commerce will also take up the fight, and it is expected that a mass meeting will be held soon to denounce the company and to urge the Government officials to force the railroad to rescind its order. Mayor Edwin W. Fiske of Mount Vernon has already called a meeting for to-morrow night of representatives from neighboring towns.

THE TIMES has received this letter in regard to the increase in the New Haven's rates.

261 Greenwich St., New York.
May 4, 1910.

The New York Times: Gentlemen—Under the heading of "New Haven's Rates to Be Protested," you give a table of figures showing present rate of commutation and new rate of commutation to the various stations on the road. This table is misleading, because the New Haven Road has two rates, and the one given by you is the present flat rate, which is much higher than the present sliding scale rate.

For instance, I live at Noroton, Conn. The present sliding scale rate to that point is $8.58 per month, average, while the present flat rate to the same point per month is $9.35, and it is to this latter rate that the increase is to be applied, and not to the lower or sliding scale rate, which, as you can see, makes it still more of a hardship to those who are compelled to use their trains each day for the purpose of reaching their places of employment. H. B. WALLACE.

N. Y. Central May Put Up Its Rates.

Gerret Fort, General Passenger Agent of the New York Central lines, said yesterday that the statement in some of the evening papers on Tuesday to the effect that the New York Central would make no increase in its commutation rates was entirely unauthorized. "We have not determined yet whether we will increase the commutation rates or not," said Mr. Fort, "nor have we given out any statement that we would not do so. As a matter of fact we are considering the question very carefully. As soon as we have decided what our course is to be we will make a public announcement."

HARVARD CHANGES COLOR.

It Is an Arterial Red, Richer Than the Present Crimson Shade.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 4.—The Harvard Corporation has decided that a single official crimson college color is necessary, and has authorized a new shade for the Faculty to wear. The color chosen is of an arterial red, more purple and richer than the tint now used, which becomes dull and brownish when contrasted with the new color.

The athletic insignia, flags, college sweaters, &c., must be of the new color, and the student body is advised to adopt it on its wearing apparel.

COLLEGE GIRLS ROLL HOOPS.

Wellesley Seniors Excite Mirth by Their Inefficiency.

Special to The New York Times.

WELLESLEY, Mass., May 4.—It took the Wellesley seniors twenty minutes to roll their hoops from College Hall to the Houghton Memorial Chapel, a distance of 300 yards, in the annual May festival at Wellesley College to-day. Before breakfast the girls, armed with scrubbing brushes, soap, and water, gave the Harriet Martineau statue its annual "rub down."

After breakfast came the hoop-rolling. The frantic efforts of the seniors to roll their hoops straight brought jeers and laughter from the other class women. At chapel all the on-looking students went under the arched hoops, held aloft by the seniors, to chapel service. In the afternoon the girls gathered dressed in all kind of garbs, mostly as little girls and boys.

On account of the wet grounds the May pole dance was postponed until to-morrow. Then Miss Esther M. Randall, assuming the rôle of the Archbishop of Canterbury, will crown Miss Mary E. Colt, the freshman President, Queen of the May.

STEEL TRUST STARTS A PENSION SYSTEM

Opens the Fund with $8,000,000, Which Adds to $4,000,000 Given by Carnegie Years Ago.

ALL EMPLOYES TO BENEFIT

Plan to Provide for Disabled Workmen or Their Families Now in Operation.

The United States Steel Corporation announced yesterday that it had established a pension fund for its employes of its subsidiary corporations. It has set aside the sum of $8,000,000 for this purpose, which will be consolidated with the $4,000,000 given some years ago by Andrew Carnegie for the same object.

The united fund will be under the direction of twelve trustees, eight of whom have been appointed by the Steel Corporation and four by Mr. Carnegie. They are E. H. Gary, George W. Perkins, J. H. Reed, Andrew Squire, J. H. Hoyt, K. K. Knapp, R. C. Bolling, and Frank D. Adams for the Steel Corporation and Charles L. Taylor, W. B. Dickson, Robert A. Franks, and H. E. Tener, Jr., for Mr. Carnegie.

Ex-Judge Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, gave out this statement yesterday:

"The United States Steel Corporation has established a fund of $8,000,000 for pension purposes, which, by agreement with Mr. Andrew Carnegie, will be consolidated with the $4,000,000 fund heretofore created by him. The aggregate amount will be known as the United States Steel and Carnegie Pension Fund, and the net proceeds will be administered by a board of twelve trustees for the benefit of employes of all subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation. Eight of the trustees have been appointed by the corporation and four by Mr. Carnegie."

This action is regarded as part of a settled policy aiming at obtaining for the Steel Corporation a force of loyal workers, who will be content to remain with the concern as long as they live. In December, 1902, the corporation announced a profit-sharing plan in which all its employes, of whatever grade, might participate by purchasing stock in the corporation, according to the wages they received, on easy, long term payments. In five years over $10,000,000 of shares had thus been distributed among the employes, and commenting on the success of the plan George W. Perkins wrote:

"In these results is there not a form of socialism of the highest, best, and most ideal sort—a socialism that makes real partners of employer and employe, and yet preserves the right of private property—retaining the capitalist's incentive to enterprise while giving the worker a new inspiration for effort—humanizing a vast organization—promoting good will and industrial peace?"

At the same time a direct profit sharing scheme was put in force for the benefit of the higher employes, by which they were to receive a proportion of the corporation's earnings over a certain sum, half in cash and half in preferred stock.

A month ago the Steel Corporation announced a general 6 per cent. advance in wages, and followed it up with the establishment of a system of pensions and disability payments to men injured in its employ and dependents of those killed.

Under this single men are to get 35 per cent. of their wages during their disability, and married men 50 per cent., with an extra 5 per cent. for each child under 16 and 2 per cent. for each year of service over five. For permanent injuries lump sums are provided, based on the extent of disability incurred. In cases of death the widows and children now receive one and a half years' wages with an additional 10 per cent. for each child under 16 and 3 per cent. for each year of service over five.

This plan went into force on May 1, and will be in operation for one year in order to be thoroughly tested. It was stated officially at the time that it was announced, that the subsidiary companies of the United States Corporation had already been paying out over $1,000,000 each year for the relief of their injured employes. Of these it was declared at least 75 per cent. had no legal claim on the companies, and that the payments had been made not as compensation but as relief.

TRUSTEES INDORSE NEEDHAM.

Accept His Resignation as Head of University with Regret.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—In accepting the resignation of Dr. Charles Willis Needham as President of George Washington University, offered April 27 on the ground that the crisis in the affairs of the institution is one which demands "a man who can undertake the task free from all connection with the past," the Board of Trustees of the university passed the following resolution:

> Resolved, That in accepting the resignation of Dr. Needham, the Trustees desire to express their high appreciation of his intelligent and laborious services in upbuilding the university and raising its standards, and their regret that it has now become necessary, in his opinion, for him to relinquish into other hands the guidance of the affairs of the institution, in the management of which he has for the past eight years participated jointly with the other members of the several Boards of Trustees. In all these years he has labored with an eye single to the highest good of the university and with a clear conception of its usefulness to the National capital, and therefore to the Nation. He has shown great intelligence, unselfish devotion, fine courage, patience, and manly courtesy even under the most trying circumstances. They extend to him as he is laying down the heavy burdens of the high office which he has held their sincere good wishes.
>
> They further desire to place on record their concurrence in the policy of keeping the institution up to the rank of a university, and their belief that the educational organization formed under his direction is a substantial foundation upon which to establish a university adapted to conditions at the seat of government.

President Needham's resignation as accepted does not take effect until Aug. 31, 1910.

HOPE FOR SLOCUM SURVIVORS

Belief Now That Their Claims Against the Government May Be Paid.

President Charles Dersch of the General Slocum Survivors told the organization at a special meeting last night at 12 St. Mark's Place that, for the first time in the more than five years since the disaster, success for their claims against the Government "stared them in the face." This news was received without applause, but with gratification written on many faces.

Mr. Dersch told the survivors about the recent hearing on the Sulzer bill before the Committee of Claims of Congress and the assurance given to the representatives of the organization that relief would at last be given to all survivors or heirs of survivors if proper steps were taken to show the justice of the claims. Mr. Dersch urged those who have loyally supported the efforts of himself and others to redouble them now in the face of apparent success, and invited those entitled to redress to join the organization at once and thus share alike with the others.

Mr. Dersch lost his wife and daughter in the destruction of the Slocum, but said he had renounced his claim, hoping thereby to advance the claims of the others.

Other speakers were Theodore Sutro and Gustav J. Voss, both of whom appeared before the Committee on Claims for the survivors.

NEW HARLEM POST OFFICE.

Better Service for Washington Heights and the Far West Side.

To eliminate wearisome climbing up the hill to Amsterdam Avenue and the lower end of Washington Heights for letter-carriers delivering mail from the College Post Office Station at 140th Street and Eighth Avenue, a new station, to be known as the Hamilton Grange Station, was opened at 521 and 523 West 146th Street yesterday morning. It will include part of the College Station and part of Station M, at 165th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, and will cover the territory between 140th and 155th Streets, St. Nicholas Avenue, and the Harlem River.

The new two-story structure was inspected yesterday by Postmaster Morgan and Superintendent of Delivery John Washington, who pronounced it satisfactory. The ground floor is fitted up in the most modern fashion, and will afford work for thirty-three clerks and thirty-three carriers. The upper floor is a resting room for employes, with lockers and baths. Eleven delivery routes and four collection routes will be made from the station.

William A. Jewell has been appointed Superintendent, with two assistants, Joseph Gans and William Donavan.

HOURS OF WORK LONG AT BETHLEHEM PLANT

Government Report States That 2,322 Men Worked a 12-Hour Day Seven Days a Week.

MANY AT 12½C. AN HOUR

Enforced Overtime and Sunday Work Caused the Strike, Which Is Not Yet Declared Off.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The report of the Department of Commerce and Labor upon labor conditions at the Bethlehem Steel Works, South Bethlehem, Penn., which was submitted to the Senate to-day, says that 2,322 men out of 9,184 persons employed worked twelve hours a day for seven days a week, and that a large percentage of the laborers earn only 12½ cents an hour.

Many skilled workmen, the report continues, had approximately a ten-and-one-half-hour day for six days of the week, and a large number of them were frequently required to work overtime on week days and do additional work on Sundays. It was the protests against this extension of time and against Sunday work from employes who had the shortest hours that led to the strike which began on Feb. 4.

The men with the shorter hours to a considerable extent were paid on a bonus system, which resulted in their forcing their working pace, and they claimed that their work was carried on at such high pressure that overtime and Sunday work were an undue tax on their strength. They advanced the further claim, according to the report, that they feared that the encroachments of overtime and Sunday work ultimately would lead to putting the twelve-hour day and the seven-day week into practical effect throughout the entire plant.

The agents of the department obtained their data in regard to hours and salary from the January pay roll of the company. Of the 9,184 persons on the roll, 4,725, or over 50 per cent., worked in positions regularly requiring twelve or more hours of labor per day on their regular working days. The roll showed that 2,628, or 29 per cent., were regularly required to work seven days a week, and for these Sunday work was not considered overtime.

"Of the men," the report stated, "whose normal week consisted of only six days, 1,413, or 14.5 per cent., were required to do extra work on one or more Sundays during the month. Thus a total of 4,041, or 43.5 per cent. of those appearing on the January pay roll, were required to work at least on some Sundays. A considerable amount of overtime work was also required of the ten-and-one-half-hour men on days other than Sundays. Eighty-two men were reported as having a thirteen-hour day for the entire seven days." Men receiving less than 16 cents an hour (excluding apprentices) numbered 4,221, or 46 per cent.

The strike began among the machinists. The wage tables show that in January machinists on first-class work, working straight time, averaged 27.6 cents per hour, and those working under the bonus system averaged 32.7 cents per hour. Taking all machine hands and helpers together, the average, including the armor plate shop, for 1,036 men was 18.5 cents per hour.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., May 4.—None of the officials of the Bethlehem Steel Company had any comment to make on the report bearing on the labor conditions at the steel plant submitted to the United States Senate to-day. President Charles M. Schwab is in New York.

The strike at the steel plant has not been officially declared off. The majority of the men who struck either returned to work or left town, and the company declares that working conditions are now normal.

Charles M. Schwab, President of the Bethlehem Steel Works, who is in this city, declined last night to comment at length on the report of the Bureau of Labor.

"I haven't seen the full report," he said, "and do not care to talk until I have read it. I have seen the published extracts, and from what I have read I can say that many of the statements are incorrect."

Mr. Schwab intimated that when he receives the full report he would issue a statement in behalf of his company.

The Machinists' Union to-day refused to consider the company's offer of an increase of 2 cents an hour in wages. The proposition was rejected because it did not include other employes still out.

ISLANDERS DEPOSED KING

And Consequently France Is Sending a Warship to a South Sea Possession.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 4.—Because they deposed the King of Wallis Island and placed another chief on his throne, the natives of the Wallis Island group are to be visited by a French warship in June, according to news brought by the steamer Makura, which arrived here yesterday.

The French President banished a prominent chief in the ex-King's name, and the banished man's friends went straight to the King's town and forcibly removed him.

Wallis Island is a French protectorate.

WILL TRY TO HELP LIBERIA.

Task of Commander of the Des Moines, Which Will Remain Indefinitely.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The cruiser Des Moines has arrived at Monrovia, Liberia, to relieve the Birmingham, which will begin a series of tests of the new naval wireless system in conjunction with the cruiser Salem, endeavoring to maintain constant communication with Brant's Rock on the Massachusetts coast, over 3,000 miles of water.

The Des Moines will remain indefinitely in Liberian waters, and it is the understanding that her commanding officer will devote himself to an effort to improve the political conditions in the little republic.

HUGHES TO FIGHT ON FOR DIRECT PRIMARY

Makes It Clear That Prospective Retirement Will Not Diminish His Efforts.

BILLS ORDERED REPORTED

All Primary Measures to be Discussed on the Floor of the Assembly Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 4.—While the Republican machine leaders in both houses are preparing to take advantage of the prospective retirement of Gov. Hughes, to scuttle not only his direct nominations plan, but some other reforms he has advocated, and which are now pending before the Legislature, the Governor made it plain to his friends to-day that he intends to remain on the firing line. There will be no let up in his efforts to have his reforms carried out before he retires to take his seat on the United States Supreme Court bench, and he will strive in particular to have enacted his primary reforms, as embodied in the Hinman-Green Direct Nominations bill.

With the Governor and the leaders in their present frame of mind an interesting close to the session may be looked for. There is no doubt that the anti-Hughes leaders in the Senate and Assembly have been looking for a big slump in the Hughes sentiment following the announcement of the Governor's retirement, and that they are hoping for wholesale desertions from the Hughes banners by members of both houses who have been pledged by their constituents to support the Governor's primary plan.

So secure have they felt that to-night the Judiciary Committee of the Assembly took steps to report the Hinman-Green bill without amendments for debate in the open. It will probably be reported to-morrow and go on the calendar early next week. With it will be reported the Meade-Phillips bill, embodying the primary plan indorsed by the Republican bosses and the Grady-Frisbie bill, which was proposed by the Democratic League. The Senate Judiciary Committee is preparing to follow suit and report all the primary bills pending before it, including the Cobb bill, which embodies the Choate compromise plan.

To Be Made Special Order.

Assemblyman George A. Green of Kings, who fathered the Governor's bill in the lower house, made this statement to-day:

"In view of the public interest in the pending disposition of the Hinman-Green bill and other primary legislation, I desire to say that Speaker Wadsworth, Chairman of the Committee on Rules, and Assemblyman Jesse T. Phillips, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and I have agreed on the necessary details of procedure, the result of which will be that the Hinman-Green bill will be placed upon the calendar of the Assembly in its present form, unamended, on a special order, second and third reading, probably on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, when in all probability the final vote will be had in the Assembly, and I may add further that the Meade-Phillips and Grady-Frisbie bills now being reprinted will be similarly put on the calendar on the same day with the Hinman-Green bill."

Gov. Hughes, when he heard of the statement made by Mr. Green, expressed himself as pleased that a plan of procedure had been arranged, whereby the bill embodying his primary plan shall be debated on the floor of the Assembly. The Governor would not discuss reports that he had abandoned all hope for the passage of the Hinman-Green bill, but he made it clear that he was just as firm as ever in his belief that the bill should be passed, and that he intended to work as hard as ever for its enactment as long as he remains in the Governor's chair.

May Urge It in Speech.

On Monday night, on the eve of the debate, the Governor, according to an announcement made to-night, will deliver a speech at the annual dinner of the University Club in Binghamton. That city is the home of Senator Harvey D. Hinman, who is sponsor for the Governor's direct primary bill in the Senate, and it is expected that the Governor will have something to say with reference to the urgent need of the legislation he advocates, in the light of recent disclosures regarding the baneful influence exercised by the bosses at the Capitol.

The Governor continues to receive a great number of letters from all parts of the State and is in close touch with the sentiment on the question of primary reform. He feels that this sentiment has been one of steady growth, while its opponents, by the concessions they have made, have practically admitted that the plan the Governor proposes is correct in principle.

Assemblyman Green said to-day that a recent poll of the Assembly showed eighty-two votes, more than a majority, in favor of his bill in the Assembly, and that he did not believe the opposition would have the requisite number of votes to defeat or emasculate it, once the fight is out in the open.

OBJECT TO TROLLEY LINE.

Land Owners Along Albany Post Road Oppose Wainwright Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 4.—Wealthy landowners along the historic Albany Post Road, extending through Westchester County and lined by beautiful country estates, were represented at a hearing before the Internal Affairs Committee of the Senate to-day in opposition to the Wainwright bill, which would remove the legal restrictions against the construction of a trolley road along that highway.

Dr. J. C. MacKenzie of Dobb's Ferry led the opposition, declaring that an average of 200 automobiles an hour pass over the road and that the danger to pedestrians and other vehicles would be greatly increased if a trolley line were built. He said the chief object of the proposed road was to give accommodation to Italian workmen who would not remain as residents longer than two years.

Those who favored the bill said the people of Tarrytown, North Tarrytown, and Phillips Manor, a new settlement, lacked railway facilities, and that public convenience should be considered above the interests of a few owners of property. Frank R. Pierson, President of the Village of Tarrytown, spoke of the interests which would be benefited by a railroad along the highway. E. M. Blakeley, President of the Welfare Association of Tarrytown, declared that a railroad was a necessity. Hugh Thornton, Corporation Counsel of Dobb's Ferry, exhibited a petition twenty-seven feet long containing the names of 1,000 persons in Dobb's Ferry who favor the bill.

Senator Heacock said the opposing interests should get together and agree to submit the question to a vote of the people. This was unsatisfactory to some of the opponents of the Wainwright bill, who said that those who were not property owners would outvote them.

NEW ELEVENTH AVENUE BILL.

Senator Brough Introduces Measure Emanating from Citizens' Union.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 4.—A new measure providing for the removal of the New York Central tracks in Eleventh Avenue from the street level will be introduced in the upper house to-morrow by Senator Brough of New York. The bill was drafted by the Committee on Legislation of the Citizens' Union and differs in many of its essential features from the Hoey bill, now pending before the Legislature, by which it is sought to accomplish the same purpose.

Under the Brough bill the city would have the right to rip up the tracks as a public nuisance in case the railroad company should not come to terms. In order that the company shall not be deprived of its franchise as the result of such action the Brough bill specifically provides that it shall be entitled to exercise over tracks laid in a subway all its rights under any existing franchise.

FIXES EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

First of Bills Prepared by Commission Passes Assembly.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 4.—The Assembly took favorable action to-day on the first of the bills in the interest of labor evolved as the result of the recent investigation conducted by the Wainwright-Phillips Employers' Liability Commission, which was provided for at the last session of the Legislature, in accordance with recommendations made by Gov. Hughes.

The bill passed to-day amends the present employers' liability law in many respects. It modifies the so-called "fellow-servant rule" so as to make an employer liable to an employe for injury sustained through the negligence or ignorance of a fellow-employe, and abrogates the "risk rule" by placing on the defendant in any action for damages resulting from injury sustained in the course of employment the burden of proof as to contributory negligence.

The bill also establishes a permissive compensation plan for injuries sustained, under which employers or workmen may enter upon a contract waiving all rights under the Employers' Liability act, in return for benefits according to a fixed schedule of compensation proportioned to the injury sustained and the earning capacity of an employe, regardless of whether negligence on the part of the injured has been a contributory factor in the accident.

GAYNOR IS OVERRIDDEN.

Assembly Repasses Bill for More Coroners Despite His Disapproval.

ALBANY, May 4.—Mayor Gaynor's first disapproval of a measure affecting New York City was received in the Assembly to-day and was overruled by a party vote of 77 to 49—just one more than the requisite vote.

The bill provides for two additional Coroners in Brooklyn and one in Queens.

Whitman Has a City-Paid Telephone.

Controller Prendergast made public yesterday a further list of city officials who have telephones in their homes at public expense, and declared that he had notified them that he will refuse to honor the bills in the future. The list included District Attorney Whitman, Judge Foster of General Sessions, several Brooklyn Police Magistrates, a number of Coroners, Medical Supt. Smith of Bellevue Hospital, and nearly a score of men in the office of Borough President Cromwell of Richmond.

BETTING BILL PASSED IN ITS ORIGINAL FORM

At Instance of Gov. Hughes, Senator Newcomb Withdraws Amendment Adopted on Tuesday.

PROHIBITS ORAL WAGERS

Senate Also Passes Bill Making Directors of Racing Associations Liable for Gambling at the Tracks.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 4.—The race track interests received a severe blow in the Senate to-day when the Agnew Anti-Oral Betting bill was unexpectedly passed in the form in which it was reported by the Codes Committee a week ago. When the bill was debated yesterday Senator Newcomb offered an amendment, adding a sentence defining bookmaking prohibited in the Penal Code as "the laying or publishing of odds to all comers or to the public."

This was adopted on the understanding that it would prevent arrests of persons not professionally engaged in bookmaking. To-day this amendment was stricken out on the ground that Gov. Hughes feared it might interfere with the prosecution of bookmakers under the Agnew-Hart law.

"Gov. Hughes is of the opinion that the amendment offered by me yesterday to the so-called Oral Betting bill would defeat or tend to defeat the purpose of the present law against bookmaking," Senator Newcomb said to-day. "The necessity of proving that odds had been published 'to all comers or to the public,' he believes, might make it impossible to prosecute bookmakers successfully. If the Governor is right great harm would follow. No such result can be permitted. The amendment should be stricken from the bill."

On the floor of the Senate, however, Senator Newcomb did not say that he entertained the same fear. He gave way, however, and after yesterday's vote was reconsidered withdrew his amendment by unanimous consent. The effect of this action is to restore the bill so that it will prohibit "bookmaking and pool selling with or without writing."

Senator Grady accused Senator Agnew of a breach of faith, and appealed to the Senate to postpone action on the bill until Tuesday. Senator Agnew said he had agreed only that he would not secure the passage of the bill out of its order by obtaining an emergency message from the Governor. He asked that the bill be restored to its original form, so as to be in proper shape for passage next week.

The motion to reconsider the vote of yesterday was adopted, 25 to 18. After the Newcomb amendment had been withdrawn Senators Cobb and Agnew said they would agree to a postponement of the vote on the final passage of the bill until next week.

"From now on I have no favors to ask of the Senate," Senator Grady said. "This is the greatest exhibition of discourtesy that I have ever known in my legislative career. Men are absent who would not have gone away if there had been an intimation that the bill would be brought up to-day."

The bill was then passed, 31 to 15. The vote in detail was as follows:

Senators Grattan, Holden, and Kissel were the only Republicans who voted against the bill, and Senators Bayne and Gardner were the only Democrats who voted for it. The bill was sent back to the Assembly, where it will be handed down to-morrow and referred to the Rules Committee. A similar measure introduced by Assemblyman Perkins has passed the lower house.

Later in the day the Senate passed the bill making Trustees or Directors of racing associations liable for gambling that may be conducted at the race track, 38 to 8. It repeals the section of the Percy-Gray law which exempted such Trustees and Directors if the race track was properly policed and warnings were posted.

When the last of the anti-betting bills was reached Senator Agnew offered several minor amendments. The bill amends the Penal Code relative to keeping gaming and betting establishments. As amended by Senator Agnew, the bill makes the officers of any association guilty of a misdemeanor if gambling is permitted in any room, tenement, booth, inclosure, or other place. Senator Brackett urged that the prohibition be limited to public betting, expressing the fear that as drawn the bill might interfere with poker played in a home or at a club. The suggestion was not adopted, however.

Senator Grady made an attack on Wall Street, urging an amendment which would prohibit the making of a wager "directly or indirectly" on the future price of stocks, bonds, or commodities. The amendment was voted down.

The race-track representatives were not as conspicuous to-day as they were yesterday, although Joseph S. Auerbach, counsel for The Jockey Club, and Andrew Miller, one of the Directors of the club, were in the Senate Chamber after adjournment to-night. Mr. Auerbach said the Oral Betting bill, as passed by the Senate, was vague in its language and would lead to a repetition of wholesale arrests until a case could be taken to the Court of Appeals.

TO LOWER INSURANCE BARS.

Hughes Agrees to Modification of Restriction on New Business.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 4.—After a conference with Gov. Hughes to-day Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss presented to the Insurance Committees of both Houses a bill lifting the embargo on the acquisition by life insurance companies of new business in excess of $150,000,000 annually, which was established in the Armstrong insurance laws.

The change has long been advocated by the life insurance interests, but up to the present time Gov. Hughes has steadfastly maintained that the restriction should be retained until it has been thoroughly tried out. The present bill letting down the bars has been introduced with the Governor's consent and approval.

It provides that where a life insurance company can conduct its canvass for new business on a basis of 15 per cent. of its renewal premiums, thus affecting a saving on such business of 10 per cent., it may increase its new business the following year by 10 per cent. regardless of the $150,000,000 restriction. If the expense chargeable to new business is reduced to 20 per cent. of its renewal premiums, then the increase in new business for the next year must not exceed 5 per cent.

"Under this bill," said Mr. Hotchkiss to-day, "any company which desires to take advantage of its provisions must necessarily conduct its business in a very economical manner, and it was to effect economy chiefly that the restriction was incorporated in the Armstrong laws."

CARNEGIE HERO MEDALS.

32 to be Struck Off—But Death Bars 13 from Receiving Theirs.

PITTSBURG, May 4.—Thirty-two awards of medals for acts of heroism were made by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission at its Spring meeting to-day. Seven silver and twenty-five bronze medals were ordered struck off, while monthly pensions aggregating $196, death benefits of $4,880, and special awards totaling $13,100 were made.

In thirteen instances the heroes met death in the act or from injuries received. Five rescues were made from trains, two from fires, one from electrocution, fourteen from drowning, four from suffocation in wells and tanks, five in a mine cavein, and one from a runaway.

Among those granted awards were John G. White, Batavia, N. Y., and Carl F. Wagner, Rochester, N. Y. The latter is dead.

Following a suggestion of Mr. Carnegie when he visited here in April, the commission to-day voted from its surplus $100,000 to the Carnegie Technical Schools, with the provision that it be used for the trade school features.

BOSTON MILK WAR CONTINUES

No Dearth of Milk, Though Farmers Withhold Selling to Contractors.

BOSTON, May 4.—Still plentifully supplied with milk, which has so far successfully passed the inspection of the Board of Health, Boston to-day watched with interest the battle of endurance between the contractors and producers. It is a question of how long the contractors can supply milk to the local market without the farmers' help, while the farmers are facing the total loss of their income from the sale of milk.

The milk producers now plan to carry the struggle into the contractors' territory by the establishement of receiving stations in this city. They say that if the plan was consummated consumers here would be able to purchase milk practically direct from the farmers.

The Mayor has notified the Boston Board of Health that, according to reports, much milk unfit for use was being brought to Boston, and that a more thorough inspection was demanded.

The farmers are turning into butter a large part of the milk held back from the contractors. Sixteen hundred pounds of butter were churned yesterday at the new milk separator in Furnace, one of the milk-producing centres of Worcester.

LOW MARK FOR FAILURES.

April Showed the Smallest Number for a Month in Several Years.

Although there were fewer failures in April than in March, the volume of liabilities for the month, according to Bradstreet's statistics, is the largest reported since August, 1908. The heavy indebtedness is explained by the inclusion of the liabilities involved in the final closing of two banks which suspended in 1907, but resumed unsuccessfully. Another factor swelling the total was the Knight-Yancey cotton failure in the South. This and the bank liabilities constitute more than one-half of the entire increase in the April figures.

The number of failures during April was 872, compared with 998 for the same month in 1909 and 1,152 in April, 1908. Bradstreet's says of this showing: "It really overshadows the feature of large liabilities."

The number of failures last month is fewer, Bradstreet's says, than in nine of the last seventeen years.

KANSAS CROPS NOT MUCH HURT

Supplementary Report Shows That Recent Rains Have Done Much for Them.

Crop conditions in Kansas, where the drought had wrought havoc with the Winter wheat fields at the time of the report of the State Board of Agriculture on April 20, have materially changed for the better since the first of the month. F. D. Coburn, Secretary of the department, in a letter to the New York News Bureau yesterday, said:

"Conditions were not essentially changed from April 20 to 30, but now we are having rains that mean millions."

Edward F. Swinney, President of the First National Bank of Kansas City, who came to New York a week ago, said yesterday that while there had been no material change in the weather before he left, the situation as far as the farmers were concerned was less discouraging than had been indicated because of the fact that the ruined wheat had been replanted with other crops, chiefly oats and corn.

While these crops will bring returns later than Winter wheat, he explained, they would do much to balance the loss and keep the farmers' bank accounts fat.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, COUNTY of New York.—THE GERMAN SAVINGS BANK IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK, Plaintiff, against GEORGE NICHOLAS and others, Defendants.—Action No. 1.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 22d day of March, 1910, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 20th day of April, 1910, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

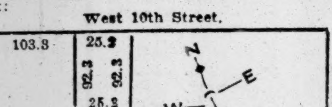
All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land with the building thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, and lying in Section 2, Block 578, on the land map of the City of New York, and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the southerly line of West Tenth Street, distant one hundred and three feet and three inches easterly from the corner formed by the intersection of the easterly line of Sixth Avenue with the said southerly line of West Tenth Street, which point is at or opposite the centre of a party wall standing partly on the premises hereby conveyed and partly on the premises westerly adjoining, running thence southerly but parallel with the easterly line of Sixth Avenue and part of the distance through a party wall so far as the same extends ninety-two feet three inches; thence eastwardly but parallel with said southerly line of West Tenth Street twenty-five feet two inches; thence northwardly but again parallel with said easterly line of Sixth Avenue and part of the distance through the centre of an old party wall so far as the same extends ninety-two feet three inches to the said southerly line of West Tenth Street, and thence westwardly along said southerly line of West Tenth Street twenty-five feet two inches to the point or place of beginning, be all said several dimensions and distances more or less. Said premises being now known by the street Number 66 West Tenth Street.

Dated New York, March 24th, 1910.
WILLIAM KLEIN, Referee.

A. HENRY MOSLE, Attorney for Plaintiff, 30 Broad Street, New York City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold. Its street number is 66 West 10th Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York:



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is thirty-four thousand five hundred eighty-one and 25-100 ($34,581.25) dollars, with interest thereon from the 16th day of March, 1910, together with costs and allowance amounting to four hundred and ten 19-100 dollars, ($410.19,) with interest from March 22, 1910, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money or paid by the referee, is seven hundred fifty-six 99-100 dollars ($756.99) and interest.

Dated New York, March 24th, 1910.
WILLIAM KLEIN, Referee.

The sale in the above entitled action is hereby adjourned to Thursday, May 5th, 1910, at the same time and place.

Dated New York, April 20th, 1910.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—After Tuesday night in the East Gulf and Atlantic States the weather cleared generally, except along the coast, and there was no other precipitation of consequence east of the Rocky Mountains.

It is considerably cooler in the Middle and South Atlantic States, and temperatures are generally below seasonal from the Rocky Mountains eastward.

Frost warnings were issued Wednesday for the Upper Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, the centre of New England, and the Middle Atlantic States.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate northeast; Middle and South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate northeast.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate northeast winds, with partly cloudy weather, to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Thursday and Friday; light to moderate northeast to east winds.

New England—Partly cloudy Thursday; Friday fair; moderate north to northeast winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1909.	1910.		1909.	1910.

MR. TAFT'S OPPORTUNITY.

Mr. TAFT now has an opportunity to show his courage and manliness and to make an impression on the country such as nobody would have believed would come to him before Congress so mishandled the Administration bill.

The regrettable incidents which have followed Mr. TAFT's too complaisant acceptance of the best tariff bill which he could get from Congress are not likely to have inspired him with enthusiasm for the defense of Congress's other misadventures in the execution of the Administration programme. When he was told that the Aldrich-Payne tariff was his tariff he admitted that he could discover a family resemblance justifying him in admitting paternity and showing a fatherly interest in the child. He sees now that it would have been better to disown the brat. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good, and it is an altogether unexpected good fortune that the situation so nearly reproduces itself again so soon.

Mr. TAFT's Postal Savings Bank bill, if it returns to him at all, will do so in a form forbidding the investment of the deposits in 2 per cent. bonds, and probably providing for the establishment of banks only in first-class offices. The point is not the merits of the scheme, but the fact that it is not Mr. TAFT's bill, and it is better that he should repudiate it than admit its distant resemblance to his proposal and accept it as the best that Congress could be got to pass.

The same is even more true of the Railway bill. One of his fondest proposals was the creation of a commerce court whose Judges by permanency of tenure should acquire especial fitness for a task enormously difficult for a Judge, although so easily within the powers of anybody who might happen to be appointed Inter-State Commerce Commissioner. Any merits in this plan would not be discoverable in the substitute providing that the new Judges should be selected from the same class of Judges as those before whom such cases are now tried, and that their terms should be five years. Never before was the physical valuation of railways embodied in any project of law. Hitherto it has been the dream of perfectionists and the nightmare of practical men. Nobody has ever agreed with anybody else how the valuation should be made, or what should be done with it after it was made. In the Roosevelt régime the idea made no progress after that admirable man declared that if physical valuation were made under him its results would be accepted. In other words, the rate reducers must abide the result if the valuation warranted an advance of rates, as he intimated it very well might. It is sufficiently difficult now to comply with the law's inconsistent requirements, but it would be more so if rates were to be made according to valuations, which could not agree for any two roads. It would take longer to find out what the valuation law meant than it has to understand the Sherman anti-trust law. Yet this is only one section of a law which is a book in itself and amendatory of another book. The fact that the valuation clause was not in the bill when it was communicated to Congress is the basis of a belief that Mr. TAFT thinks no more of it than Mr. ROOSEVELT. However that may be, a bill containing this clause, taken from the Democratic platform, and among a score or two others not in the White House draft is certainly not the Administration bill, at least not until the adoption of the foundling. Then the rate agreement and merger provisions favored by him and by Mr. ROOSEVELT have been thrown to the sharks. If the bill shall be adopted the President will have a wonderfully fine opportunity to say "veto" in a tone that will win him the plaudits of the country.

THE BAKERS' STRIKE.

Fortunately there seems little prospect of the bakers' strike resulting in anything more than a temporary inconvenience to the middlemen, on whom the public depends for its daily bread. They may not be able to get their supplies from their ordinary bakeries, but they will be able to get enough to serve their customers from other sources. But this is not the fault of the strikers, who would be willing, if they could, to call out every journeyman baker in the city in order to gain their demands.

Their conduct is one more example of the extraordinary lack of consideration for the necessities of the community which has marked so many labor struggles. If this strike had been declared on account of real grievances in the matter of wages or hours it might perhaps be excused, and some no doubt would have pardoned it, if the union had found itself in an unusually favorable position to gain a victory.

But as things are the trade has been neither sufficiently organized to enter on a long fight, nor has it any grievance that might not have been settled with the employers after peaceful negotiations. All that is really at stake is the recognition of a union, which till the present trouble became imminent included only a fraction of the bakers in regular work. Practically without warning the men walked out and sought to leave not only their employers but the public in the lurch. They were carried away by a species of May madness, and have tried to disorganize one of the trades, on which the very life of the people depends, for the sake of labor politics.

THE REJECTED AMENDMENT.

The income tax amendment failed on Tuesday to get the necessary votes in the Assembly, and that disposes of it for the present session. It may be brought before the Legislature at the next session, but it is not likely, in its present form, to be received with any more favor.

The chief objection to the amendment, we think, in the minds of the public, as well as its opponents in the Legislature, is that it was hastily drawn, involved a principle of mischievous effect on the interests of the States, and would give rise to indefinite contention as to its real meaning. There was, however, another objection relating not to the substance of the amendment, but to the manner in which it was brought into being. It was originally proposed to the Senate of the United States to save Mr. ALDRICH and his associates from defeat on the revision of the tariff. To avoid this the amendment, together with the corporation tax, was contrived. It was not a nice device—to use no stronger term—and in the exigency existing it was carried out in a bungling fashion. If we are to have the Constitution changed in this matter, it certainly would be better to have it done decently and in order.

THE HARBOR SAFEGUARDED.

New Jersey amicably and voluntarily has signed the papers prepared at Washington which give the United States a contractual right to supervise the sewage works which will drain the household wastes from the cities of the Passaic valley into the harbor. The time for compulsion had not arrived, although the proceedings were pending. All that was done was to appeal to the neighborliness of our friends across the river and to show to them by disinterested and competent authority that their plans were defective. Now they graciously accept the standards of purity set by the United States and agree to empty only harmless water into the harbor.

This is a happier result than was expected only a little while ago. New Jersey at one time practically refused to discuss the subject with the Merchants' Association committee. It was the business of New Jersey, and the gentlemen from New York were off their reservation. This made it necessary to take the subject before two Presidents and their Attorneys General, not to mention several Governors and Departments of Health. It was worth while because much more has been done than to settle the Passaic case on broader lines than originally designed. Two novel and important precedents have been established.

The intervention of the United States as parens patriae in the litigation between two States of the Union establishes a precedent of which more will be heard hereafter. Besides the establishment of this principle there was erected for the first time a standard of purity in public waters. The report of Col. BLACK is a model for thoroughness and dispassionate treatment, and has only begun its work for good. The Ohio River is a thousand miles of typhoid. The Hudson River is an open sewer whose immemorial right to be such is now endangered, for New Jersey now has a claim, which it is to be hoped it will assert vigorously, that New York shall practice what it has preached and prescribed. There is a flagrant case now ready for the application of this precedent. The drainage of the Passaic into the harbor was at least along natural lines. But the diversion of the drainage of waters belonging to the Sound into the Hudson is unnatural and appeals for the attention of the gentlemen who have brought the Passaic case to so satisfactory an end.

There is another general and flagrant nuisance involved in the opposition to the bill pending at Albany giving the State Health Commissioner jurisdiction over the discharge of sewage into running streams. It is hardly credible but it is true that it is defended as a right from immemorial usage by cultivated gentlemen, instructors of youth and officers of institutions of liberal learning. It was bad enough when the same plea was set up regarding the harbor by mere officers of cities, who had some cause to take the course they did. The nuisance was legislated against thirty-five years ago in England, and the degree of purity which is practical has been under discussion ever since, and is now established. Absolute purity is not required, and is not necessary. But such a degree of cleanliness is attainable that the greater part of the population of London drinks water from the Thames and the Lea, which receive the sewage from the cities along their banks. The test is whether the respective cities defile the water as it reaches them. Rivers are necessarily contaminated to a certain extent by surface drainage, and for this no blame attaches. Moreover, the cities are recognized to have a claim for the discharge into rivers. But no city is allowed to make the water less sanitary below it than above it. This doctrine is ripe for application to American rivers. In a case decided within a few weeks it was shown that sewage water actually lessened the pollution of the river which received it. In the Passaic case it was in evidence that the fumes from the sewage took the paint off not only the vessels in the harbor but from the houses along the Passaic.

MOTOR CAR EXTRAVAGANCE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I see that JAMES J. HILL and others charge hard times up to the automobile craze. Will you kindly explain to an old reader how that can be? Surely if $100,000,000 is spent on automobiles, that much money must have been put in circulation. Much of it went for wages to automobile fabricators—employés of one kind or another, machinists, salesmen, &c. If the manufacturers locked up their net profits I can see how that might hurt business; but I cannot see how money in circulation hurts. Even if all the persons who buy automobiles rob themselves and their families of comforts in so doing, (which is absurdly untrue,) I do not see how National extravagance hurts unless the money goes out of the country.

How about the $100,000,000 or so a year the immigrants take or send back to Europe? Doesn't that hurt far worse? How about the $100,000,000 a year Americans spend when abroad? Doesn't that hurt? Will you enlighten, please?

C. L. BURNS.

Brooklyn, May 3, 1910.

The registered number of Lieut. Gov. HORACE WHITE's motor car, as appeared in THE TIMES's Albany dispatches yesterday, is 100,500. State Controller KOENIG calculates that the weekly purchases of automobiles in this State amount to $1,500,000, and he declares that "not only the millionaire is buying automobiles, but the poor man, too." Is the immense business in the manufacture and sale of automobiles, and in their supplies and up-keep, an economic loss to the Nation?

Mr. BURNS's argument is lame in one respect. There is economic loss when money is put in circulation to employ persons in destructive or non-productive industries. Their employment may accrue to their personal advantage, but society as a whole is the loser. The earthquake that destroyed San Francisco did the job for nothing, and occasioned the employment of thousands in its rebuilding. These thousands of laborers gained, but San Francisco and the Nation found it very costly.

The thousands of owners of automobiles in this State have withdrawn from productive industry the labor of nearly an equal number of young men. Fifty thousand young men tilling the fields of New York State would produce more than the fifty thousand now employed in burning gasoline, wearing out rubber tires, breaking axles, and mortgaging their employers' real estate. The same thing may be said of all expenditures for luxuries; the labor of persons engaged in the business of providing them is withdrawn from service to the absolute needs of society, and the consumption of luxuries is the destruction of wealth.

But there is another aspect of this question. King Lear expressed our correspondent's real thought:

Allow not nature more than nature needs,
Man's life is cheap as beast's.

And beggars are in the poorest thing superfluous. The sum total of our needs is not in providing food, clothing, and shelter merely. Luxuries are necessities to all of us; they may even have, in the larger sense, an economic value. It is only when indulgence in them trenches upon the means of present and future subsistence that society need feel alarmed. Perhaps, when second mortgages succeed the first pledges of the spenders' property, that portion of society which is most affected will feel alarmed, and the evil extravagance in motor car expenditures will correct itself.

PATIENCE IN CHARTER-MAKING.

We think the argument of the Citizens' Union against any general attempt to amend the charter of this city at the present session of the Legislature is sound. There are some features of the various bills pending that are deserving of respectful consideration, but they have received practically no thorough consideration at all, and the passage of the best of them would be a doubtful experiment.

There is one especially cogent argument for delay. We have now one of the best city governments in all its branches that we have ever had. Its various members are working together with remarkable harmony, on principles of real efficiency. There can be no question that they will do for the city substantially all that can be done for it under the present charter, and that is a good deal. A year of their experience will bring out not only what defects there are in the charter, but the changes that would be most likely to remedy those defects, as well as the new provisions required.

It is recognized by all intelligent observers that the crying evil in the present scheme of city administration is the scatteration that prevails. Each important office is called on to do a lot of things for which it is not adequately equipped, and each important function is divided up between two or more offices. Now it is plain that, while this hampers the present officials in a most annoying and harmful manner, the reorganization of the administration, the rearrangement of functions, and the concentration of responsibility in the most effective fashion can be made much more wisely after a year of actual experience by able and conscientious administrators. And it is equally clear that changes proposed and supported by such men, with the authority acquired through such experience, would not only be better in themselves, but would have a better chance of adoption than changes worked out by even the best of legislative committees. It would be well to regard the present administration as a continuing charter commission, and to await the result of their studies and their practical experiments. We have never had so good a chance to get expert and trustworthy guidance in the matter of charter amendment, and we should make the most of it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Revising a Tale of Conflict. Later information from the scene of the dreadful battle between Col. FREDERICK HALE, son of the eminent Maine Senator, and C. T. LIBBY, editor of The Six Towns Times and vehemently opposed to having the First Maine District represented in Congress by the Colonel, gives reason to think that the dreadfulness of the battle lay largely in the young man's imagination.

According to Col. HALE's story, as soon as responsibility for the article reprehending his mother's political ambitions and methods had been admitted, he proceeded to give the newspaper man a sound beating, in the course of which the victim made no attempts at reprisal and contended himself with guarding his face with his hands. That, apparently, was a story of the sort that is good until another is told, and Mr. LIBBY's account of the episode is quite different from that of the original narrator. The editor, first calling attention to the fact that he is about twice as large as Col. HALE, and therefore would not be likely to allow himself to be beaten by him, says that as a matter of fact the Colonel only made a well-intentioned, but ludicrously futile, effort to use his whip, and did not succeed in landing a single blow which made itself felt. Instead he was promptly backed across the office till he tripped over a water pail and dropped his weapon, whereupon he tried to use his fists, but was easily held beyond striking distance by his long-armed antagonist until he calmed down and took his departure.

That, now, is a plausible yarn; at any rate it is much more plausible than one which involves the assumption that a man who was enough of a man to run a Maine newspaper, even a little Maine newspaper, would let himself be "licked" by anybody without taking other than defensive measures of the most passive—and therefore disgraceful—kind. It was distinctly painful to hear that a member of an honorable profession had done that, and it is as distinctly pleasurable to learn that if he didn't even try to make the "licking" objective instead of subjective, so far as he was himself concerned, it was because of magnanimous disdain for an antagonist physically much his inferior.

For, until further notice, we are going to believe in the accuracy of Mr. LIBBY's narrative of what took place in his office—if for no other reason, for the very good one that we want to believe it and see no necessity for doubting its truth.

Commuter Pockets Hit Hard. Rarely has Westchester County been as deeply stirred as it is at present by the announcement of the New Haven Railway that, beginning June 1, commutation rates are to be enormously increased. For life in the county is largely adjusted to the long-established rate at which its inhabitants can travel to and from New York City, a journey which many of them make daily and all of them frequently. Dwellers in the eastern part of Westchester are almost solely dependent on the New Haven Road for transportation facilities. It has, indeed, a sort of rival in the trolley line, but that is too slow for business men, and even for women eager to reach the big shops. Practically, it's go by the railway or stay at home, and—well, Westchester doesn't stay at home much, except o' nights.

It thought the commutation rates quite high enough before, but to have them advanced something like 40 per cent. is little less than tragic. And the increase is not much less than that. From New Rochelle, for instance, under the old arrangement, the cost of twelve good-for-a-month tickets on the sliding scale that began at $9 and went down to $4 was $67, and even the "flat rate" was only $76.20. Hereafter the sliding scale is to be abolished, and everybody must pay the flat rate of $7.65 a month, or $91.80 a year, which is an advance of $24.80, or more than 37 per cent. All the other towns have a like grievance, and they are not only howling—they are vowing to "do something," and to do it at once.

The first thought, of course, has been to appeal to the Public Service Commission, and the result of that remains to be seen. If it fails, and no other effective course suggests itself, the county will undoubtedly suffer severe losses in population and real estate values. The little towns and villages along the line of the New Haven Road contain a large number of people with incomes so small that continued residence "in the country" will be impossible or inconveniently expensive after the new rates go into effect. These people will sell their little places and move back into the city, and the sales will not be to people like themselves. The ultimate effect is more likely to be a decrease than an increase of the company's revenue from its commuter traffic, and therefore the change would seem to be as unwise as it is unpopular. On just what grounds it can be declared illegal, however, has not been determined, for even the new rates are less than 2 cents a mile, and the granting of "commutation" is apparently a favor rather than a right.

Publicity Vainly Prohibited. Why the bill to prevent race-track gambling should have been cumbered up—and by its friends—with an absurd restriction on the publication of betting odds in the newspapers is more in need of explanation than likely to get one. The best way to stop such publication, and the only one reasonable or even justifiable, is by stopping the issuance of the odds by the bookmakers, and the natural way to do that is by putting an end to the already illegal business of which the odds are a minor and incidental, though necessary, feature.

There is a little something in the plea that the printing of the odds offered before races and paid after them facilitates the work of the gamblers and increases their patronage, but half the news of the day could in some degree be put, and probably is put, to bad uses by men of criminal inclinations. That, however, is no excuse for suppressing that half of the news, or any of it. Publicity helps the forces that make for good much more than those that make for evil.

If odds on the races are given and accepted, the fact ought to be made known—and certainly will be, since a law to prohibit it would be ludicrously unsound. It would be first ignored and then repealed, exactly as was that which tried to make the execution of criminals a secret operation.

To commit crime is one thing, to reveal the commission of it is quite another, and it is as legitimate for a newspaper to tell what bookmakers are doing as for it to make public the acts of other malefactors, like murderers, thieves, and legislative bribe-takers.

CHANGING PLACE OF WOMAN.

Suffrage as a Result and Not a Possible Cause.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You say editorially:

> Woman suffrage means a great deal more than votes for women. It means a radical change in the present structure of society and the relation of the sexes.

Why put the cart before the horse? The change in society is already taking place; the ballot is only the logical step to regulate it.

The "revolt of the daughters"—the struggle for moral and economic independence—is the natural result of education; and the ballot is the conscious effect of the more enlightened women to organize their independence.

The family is in no more danger of disintegration in the Western States and the countries where equal suffrage already prevails than it is here in the Eastern States of North America. However, the family is a natural trinity which, it would appear, neither education nor suffrage can do away with. It has existed during the historical periods under many forms, and be believe that the monogamous is the last and best. But even if we are satisfied with the form of the family is there any reason why the individuals composing the groups should not be able to undergo improvement? Family relationships as they stand to-day are not ideal, nor can they be looked upon as final.

The ballot for women will no doubt alter the relation of the sexes, but can it alter it except with benefit to both? Change is the fundamental principle of life and society. Why be so fearful?

DEAN OF SCULPTORS.

Thomas Ball of Montclair Is Also Painter and Musician.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It may cheer you to know that the "Dean of American sculptors" still lives, although your columns announce the death of one to whom you give that title.

Thomas Ball, sculptor, painter, musician, was born June, 1819, and still lives, at 91, in Montclair, N. J., a benediction to all who have the pleasure of his genial and delightful acquaintance, his talents summed up in a few droll lines not long since by a neighbor:

He badly writes and paints and sculps,
The fiddle plays and sings;
Life is too short to do all things well,
Else he would—do other things!

In his charming autobiography under the title of "My Threescore Years and Ten," published in 1891, the story of his life is told in a manner so joyous and homelike that you at once become one of the family.

A painter of miniatures, then of canvases of importance, one of the earliest to make statuettes, the first to sing the title role of "Elijah" in this country, and, finally, his colossal statues of Webster, Washington, and others, place him in a unique position in his varied accomplishments as an artist.

May this truly "Dean" continue with us for many a day, a blessing to all who enjoy the privilege of his friendship.

White Slave Dealers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Surely no greater proof is necessary to convince us that the opinion and the influence of women are not reflected in the man-made laws of to-day than the present law bearing on the traffickers in white slaves.

A lenient Judge could, if he wished, let off the offender with the scandalously small punishment of one year in jail or he may impose a fine of but $1,000. This horrible crime, therefore, of forcing innocent girls into a life which statistics show leads to death in five years on an average—this crime is considered by our law makers of to-day less than murder, less than manslaughter, less than larceny, less than theft.

But our men law makers go one step further than this. The law further provides that "no conviction shall be had under this section upon the testimony of a female." So if the mother or sister of the girl that has been wronged rises up to accuse the guilty, her testimony is swept aside by men as of no account.

And yet men say that we are well protected under the present laws and that they can preserve the purity of the home without our active public help.

The Amendment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your leading editorial to-day, discussing the proposed income tax amendment, you state:

"The more thoroughly we may believe in an income tax the more absurd it would be for us to give the assent of the State of New York to an amendment that may be declared void as soon as it reaches the Supreme Court."

Will you kindly explain to a bewildered layman how an amendment which becomes a part of the Constitution may be declared void (barring any irregularities in the methods of its adoption)? Where in the Constitution is the Supreme Court given this power to pass upon Constitutional amendments?

I. M. RUBINOW.

Washington, D. C., May 3, 1910.

We are obliged to our correspondent for calling our attention to a careless statement of an argument. We had in mind the plea of the advocates of the amendment that the Supreme Court would so interpret it that its plain meaning would be nullified.—Editor THE TIMES.

The Budget and the Tariff.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your article on "The Budget and the English People" in your issue of April 30, after pointing out that though the budget was submitted to the judgment of electors their verdict had not been carried out, you take occasion to remark that no such result is likely to happen in this country.

The United States Senate has no way of appealing to the electorate as has the House of Lords, but I think it will be in the memory of many now living how the issue of tariff reform was placed before the electors of this country with a clear understanding that a downward reform was meant, and how, in spite of the electoral verdict, an upward reform was carried out.

It apparently is as easy to defeat the will of the people in the one country as in the other.

The President's Bills.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Taft, following in Mr. Roosevelt's footsteps, assumed legislative functions in assisting and preparing the tariff measure. The preparation of it was—to speak plainly—none of his business; therein was his first error.

He assumed the position of dominant leader of his party, and seemed to regard party pledges as superior to any other call. The people look to him properly to discharge the duties and to maintain the dignity of the office to which they have elected him. By pursuing that course he can be sustained. Partisan efforts only injure him.

NO CENSUS FIGURES YET.

Director Durand Says Earliest Cannot Be Expected Before June.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—In denial of a number of published stories giving what purported to be estimates of the populations of some of the cities of the United States, as shown by the new census, C. Dana Durand, Director of the Census, to-day declared emphatically that "no official announcement of the population of any city or State in the United States or of the United States as a whole will be made for some time to come, and further, that the fact that the returns from the enumerators have not yet been received emphasizes the impossibility of any official statement or even estimate being given at this time.

"Before the official statement of the population of any place can be given out," he said, "the schedules must be examined to see whether they are in proper shape, the enumerators must be paid on the basis of the number of names returned, a card for each separate person must be punched, and these cards must be tabulated by means of the machines. It will, therefore, be impossible for the bureau to obtain the population of any city completely for several weeks to come."

Mr. Durand explained that the Census Bureau on the basis of the annual increase of population between 1890 and 1900 had estimated that the population of the United States in 1910 would be 89,900,000, but this calculation has nothing to do with the actual enumeration, which might show more or possibly less.

It is expected the first announcement will be made about the first of June. There is no prospect of an announcement of the population of the entire United States before August or September.

THE TWO STREAMS.

Poem of Oliver Wendell Holmes Suggested by Watershed Discussion.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with interest some weeks ago the letter of Joel Benton in regard to the watershed matter, in which he suggested that the analogy would furnish a good theme for "a sermon or a poem." Apparently neither Mr. Benton nor any other of your readers has been moved to mention the poem which came instantly to my mind on reading Mr. Benton's first letter. I find it in the Household Edition of the poems of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, under the general division "1857-1861," on Page 141. As the poem is short and as the last stanza has seemed to me since I first read it felicitously worded, I believe it will be satisfactory to your readers to quote the whole poem.

THE TWO STREAMS.

Behold the rocky wall
That down its sloping sides
Pours the swift raindrops, blending, as they fall,
In rushing river-tides!

Yon stream, whose sources run
Turned by a pebble's edge,
Is Athabasca, rolling toward the sun
Through the cleft mountain-ledge.

The slender rill had strayed
But for the slanting stone,
To evening's ocean, with the tangled braid
Of foam-flecked Oregon.

So from the heights of Will
Life's parting stream descends,
And, as a moment turns its slender rill,
Each widening torrent bends—

From the same cradle's side,
From the same mother's knee—
One to long darkness and the frozen tide,
One to the Peaceful Sea.

I am sure that many other readers of THE TIMES will recall this poem of Dr. Holmes.

SCIENTISTS' GHOST STORY.

So Calls the Theory of Malicious Animal Magnetism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your excellent editorial comment in reference to Mr. Cox's prattle about "Malicious Animal Magnetism" shows a clear conception of the teachings of Mrs. Eddy herself on this miserable subject. The phrase was coined by her, the threat of the use of malicious animal magnetism was used by her and her students to prevent others from resigning from her association, and later from her church. It is a ghost of her own creating, and no one fears it but those who have been told the ghost story by Christian Scientists themselves, for no one can tell this story with so much earnestness. It is the Christian Scientist's earnest conviction of the reality of malicious animal magnetism which makes his words so impressive when he tells this little story, whether he does this either to warn or to terrify his victim.

I am visiting a patient in this sanitarium who has learned all about malicious animal magnetism and the "death thought" through his membership with the Christian Science Church, and his cure consists in relieving his mind of the belief in the potency of these Christian Science creations. It is more difficult to cure a Christian Scientist of his fear of malicious animal magnetism than it is to cure a cancer.

A Question of Equivalents.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES of April 21, 1910, has an editorial article, "The Sins of Paul Revere," in which 5s of Massachusetts Colonial money of 1776 is rated as equal to $1.25. Am I wrong in asserting that the 5s. was equal to 88¾ cents United States gold of the present standard? I am sure that about 1792, when the United States Decimal Currency act was put into effect, my equivalents would have been correct. Judging from my experience when in quest of information, I think very few have any definite knowledge of the present equivalents of Colonial currency, and comments would be educationally valuable.

MY LESSON.

The world was here full many a day
Before I saw the light;
'Twas getting on first rate, they say,
Who read the signs aright—
Yet I got busy right away
To change it round a sight.

I tried to stop a lot of things
I didn't like to see,
But on they went, on swifter wings,
Or so it seemed to me,
And my defeat brought sundry stings
As painful as could be.

I dreamed a lot of wondrous dreams
To benefit mankind,
And wrote directions, reams on reams,
How man his goal could find—
But Nature had her little schemes,
And—well—I lived to find

That all my efforts went for naught;
The world was fixed to stay.
Instead of teaching, I was taught
That in my little day
I'd find life with less sorrow fraught
If I had less to say.

LURANA W. SHELDON

SUES J. R. KEENE FOR POOL PROFITS

Trustee for Lathrop, Haskins & Co. Charges Him with Fraud in the Hocking Deal.

AFTER THE CITY BANK, TOO

Wants It to Give Up Collateral on a $500,000 Loan Collected After the Firm Had Failed.

Two suits were begun yesterday in the Supreme Court by Henry H. Hotchkiss, trustee in bankruptcy for the suspended firm of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., against James R. Keene, as manager of the ill-fated pool in the stock of the Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron Company, which went to pieces on Jan. 19, carrying down with it the two Stock Exchange firms of Lathrop, Haskins & Co. and J. M. Fiske & Co. With Mr. Keene there are named defendants in the suits the firms which participated in Hocking pools 1 and 2, and an accounting is asked of the defendants to the complaining concern.

The suits, while naming all the firms in the Hocking pools, are directed primarily against the pool manager and their allegations are based on the testimony of Mr. Keene in the bankruptcy proceedings of the firm of J. M. Fiske & Co. that his brokers on their own responsibility sold 6,700 shares of the Hocking stock which he was carrying with them on the morning of Jan. 19.

Trustee Hotchkiss starts the litigation while negotiations for a settlement with Mr. Keene are pending between the speculator's lawyers and the receiver of J. M. Fiske & Co., and when asked about this yesterday Mr. Hotchkiss said that he would never give in until he has seen from the manipulator's own books just what profits Mr. Keene reaped and could know that he had disgorged all the Hocking crash netted him.

The complaints in the suits assert that Mr. Keene as pool manager came into the possession of large sums of money belonging to the pools for which he has never accounted and made for himself large profits on the purchase and sale of pool stock for which also he has never accounted to the participants. Further than this the complaint declares that Mr. Keene secretly and with intent to injure and defraud he pool, in bad faith and in violation of the pool agreement, bought and sold large quantities of Hocking stock for his own account, causing a heavy loss to the pool members. Hence the demand is made for an accounting and for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the pool's affairs and realize all available moneys for the pool members.

Banker Kilburn on the Stand.

In the Lathrop, Haskins & Co. bankruptcy proceedings yesterday Abram L. Elkus, counsel for Trustee Hotchkiss, examined First Vice President Horace G. Kilburn of the National City Bank in connection with a question that may involve the general practice of the Wall Street banks with respect to certifying checks against loans to brokerage firms.

Mr. Kilburn testified that on the morning of Jan. 19 Lathrop, Haskins & Co., a customer of the City Bank, arranged for what is known as a "clearance" loan of $500,000. That is to say the firm gave the bank its demand note for $500,000 unsecured, and received a credit of that amount against which it could have checks certified during the day. An agreement to secure the note by collateral before the close of business accompanied the granting of the loan by the bank, as it does all similar loans, which represent the standard practice of the brokerage community with regard to the certification of checks by National banks.

Lathrop, Haskins & Co. had a deposit of $54,319 in the National City Bank at the opening of business on Jan. 19, to which there were added other deposits during the morning. Checks were certified in excess of all these deposits until a draft of about $117,000 appeared against the $500,000 loan credit. Then word reached the bank that the Hocking pool was in trouble, and Vice President Kilburn went at once over to the offices of Lathrop, Haskins & Co.

"When I got there," said Mr. Kilburn, "there was great excitement in the office. I saw Mr. Haskins and Mr. Leverich, and they talked about their relations with Mr. Keene, and said that because of Keene they had been forced to the wall."

The suspension of Lathrop, Haskins & Co. had already been announced on the Stock Exchange when Mr. Kilburn reached the office of that firm, but nevertheless his demand for collateral against the $500,000 loan was honored to the extent of 200 shares of Southern Pacific, 200 shares of Reading, 200 shares of New York Central, 300 shares of Rock Island, 200 shares of Hocking, 400 shares of Consolidated Gas, 100 shares of American Smelting and Refining, 300 shares of Missouri, Kansas & Texas, 100 shares of Wabash, 250 shares of Anaconda Copper, 100 shares of Kansas City Southern, and 500 shares of United States Steel common. Mr. Elkus said after the hearing yesterday that Mr. Kilburn got practically everything in the way of Stock Exchange collateral that Lathrop, Haskins & Co. had on hand.

Bank Loan Custom in Peril.

Before Stanley W. Dexter, the referee in bankruptcy, Mr. Elkus contended yesterday that this delivery of securities constituted a preferential payment to the National City Bank in violation of the bankruptcy law because it was made after the firm had admitted its suspension on the floor of the Exchange. Mr. Kilburn, who was represented by John A. Garver of the law firm of Shearman & Stirling, contended that the custom was universal in Wall Street, and that the bank was entitled to the completion of the agreement made at the beginning of the day when the demand loan was made for the purpose of certifications, whether or not the firm committed an act of bankruptcy before the collateral was actually delivered.

It is certain that the question will be carried into the highest courts, for it means the recovery of a valuable block of securities for the creditors of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., if Mr. Elkus is successful, and the establishment of a most important precedent in bankruptcy proceedings. If that view of things prevails, it was freely predicted in the financial community yesterday, it will become necessary for the Wall Street banks to change their whole system of arranging for certifications by means of demand loans made on the individual notes of the customer with an agreement to deposit collateral later.

If a bank is to be held liable for the loss of the proceeds of any checks certified against such loans in case the brokers suspend before the collateral is put up, there is small chance that the custom will be continued. Its discontinuance would be of serious import to the brokerage community, for if it were abandoned brokers would have to have all the collateral on hand at the beginning of business that they require for the certification loans of any day in question, and could not, as is the universal custom at present, avail themselves of the securities coming in from other houses on deliveries upon the trades of the preceding day.

THE MAINE TO BE RAISED.

Senate Passes Bill—Victims to be Buried at Arlington.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—After twelve years the wreck of the ill-fated battleship Maine is to be removed from Havana Harbor, and the remains of the seamen who went down with the vessel will be interred in the National Cemetery at Arlington.

The bill providing for this, which had passed the House, was to-day passed by the Senate.

The bill directs the raising of the Maine under the direction of the Secretary of War and the Board of Engineers with "all convenient speed." The bodies in the ship are to be buried in Arlington, and the mast of the vessel is to be set above their graves as a monument.

MABEL TALIAFERRO SUFFERS COLLAPSE

Star of "Call of the Cricket" Breaks Down After Her Performance at the Belasco.

WILL GO TO SANITARIUM

Rest in Mountains Expected to Restore Her Strength—Play Closes—Frank Worthing Has Tuberculosis of Throat.

Mabel Taliaferro, who is Mrs. Frederic Thompson in private life, collapsed at the end of the performance of "The Call of the Cricket," in which she played the leading part at the Belasco Theatre, on Tuesday night, and her condition was so serious that it was decided yesterday to close the play for the remainder of the season.

To-day Mrs. Thompson will be taken to Jackson's Sanitarium at Dansville, N. Y., where she will probably remain until she has completely recovered. Dr. Oscar M. Leiser, who was called to the theatre on Tuesday night and attended Mrs. Thompson, yesterday said that his patient was suffering from a complete nervous breakdown, but that a good long rest ought to bring about a complete recovery.

No one in the audience was aware on Tuesday night that the star was suffering in any way, so effectually did she conceal her indisposition, but her physician said later that she must have been under a severe strain, and that she must have required all her grit to play to the end. As soon as the final curtain was rung down Mrs. Thompson staggered off the stage. She was caught before she fell and was assisted to her dressing room. Dr. Leiser of 243 West Forty-fourth Street was summoned, and he ordered her removed at once to her apartments at the Algonquin, in Forty-fourth Street. Yesterday morning he attended her again and found her in a very nervous condition, due, he said, to overwork.

He gave positive orders that she must have immediate and complete rest. Mr. Thompson then decided to close the play, and notice to this effect was posted at the box office of the theatre yesterday afternoon. No matinée was held. "The Call of the Cricket" was to close anyway a week from Saturday.

"Mrs. Thompson has been working altogether too hard," said Mr. Thompson last night, "but I had no idea it was affecting her so disastrously. Within half a year she has taken prominent parts in four plays, and the hard work has overtaxed her strength, for she is not very strong anyway. She is such a hard worker, however, that it was almost impossible to make her lessen her labors. Last October she appeared in 'Springtime,' which had a long run.

"Later she took the part of Parthenia in a special production of 'Ingomar' for the benefit of the Lincoln Farm Association. It was a new part for her and she had to study hard. Still later she appeared in William Butler Yeates's play 'Land of Heart's Desire,' and now she has been playing the trying rôle in 'The Call of the Cricket.' She stuck at it until she was absolutely forced to give up. It had been decided to close the show next week, and I think she tried hard to stick until the end.

"Her condition, while possibly serious, is not critical, and her physician is sure that a complete rest will bring her around all right. Certainly she will not be allowed to do any work up there in the mountains."

An official announcement made last night said that the Belasco Theatre would remain dark until it opens under its new name of The Republic on the evening of Aug. 22, on which date Henry B. Harris will produce "Bobby Burnit," with Wallace Eddinger in the star rôle.

FRANK WORTHING STRICKEN.

Actor, Suffering from Tuberculosis of Throat, Unable to Finish Part.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 4.—Frank Worthing, playing the part of Stelton Perry in Belasco's "Is Matrimony a Failure?" at the Nixon Theatre, collapsed while acting his part last evening. Physicians advised him that he was suffering from tuberculosis of the throat. He was unable to speak his lines or to finish his part. He left to-day for New York, from whence he expects to sail for Europe next Saturday to take treatment. Courtney Foote took his place in the cast.

Worthing came to this country several yeads ago with Olga Nethersole.

Mr. Worthing was obliged to quit work about a year and a half ago, for the same cause, and to spend almost a year in the West. At that time he was leading man with Grace George in "Divorcons." He recovered and returned to New York to again join Miss George's company, where he remained until this season. Among the plays in which he appeared here are "The Climbers," "Queen Fiametta," "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," "Zira," "The Fascinating Mr. Vandervelt," "Clothes," and, most recently, "Is Matrimony a Failure?"

FROHMAN PRAISED IN LONDON.

Plays Efficiently, Yet Modestly Staged at the Repertoire Theatre.

LONDON, May 4.—In an article on the répertoire season at the Duke of York's Theatre, which appears in the April Blackwood's Magazine, Charles Frohman is described as "an enterprising American who has decided that the English drama, discredited and moribund, shall enjoy a renewal of life at his expense."

"For the management of his stage," says the article, "and the discipline of his actors he is entitled to the very highest praise. Never in our time have plays been so efficiently, and withal so modestly, produced as at the Duke of York's Theatre. Everything is plain yet adequate, and as we watch Mr. Frohman's scene we cannot but confess that the problem of dramatic art is near its solution. The anarchy encouraged by a long line of actor-managers finds no favor at the répertoire theatre. The actors are more like men pulling in a boat than like cricketers consulting their average to the ruin of their side. So much has Mr. Frohman achieved of excellent augury for the future of the stage, and he has achieved it because he is a first-rate workman and knows the theatre like his pocket."

PAULINE CHASE ON WAY HERE.

Will Spend One Day at Actors' Fund Fair Selling Photographs.

Pauline Chase, who is making a special trip to the United States to spend one day at the Actors' Fund Fair, sailed from Southampton yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. She will arrive in New York on Tuesday, May 10, at about 2 o'clock. She will go at once to the fair, where she will remain until midnight. From that hour until 10 in the morning she will hold a reception to her friends at the Waldorf, and will sail on Wednesday morning on the Mauretania for London.

During her entire trip, which included a day in Paris, she will have covered 8,680 miles. She is bringing 500 photographs of celebrities, including one of Col. Roosevelt, which she will sell at the fair.

Mrs. T. W. Dinkins, in charge of the burlesque booth at the Actors' Fund Fair, with a committee of women assisting her, circulated among the audience at the Empire Theatre, Ralph Avenue and Broadway, Brooklyn, last night, selling papers between the acts and after the performance. The papers brought from 5 cents up. To-night the same committee will sell papers in the audience of the Casino Theatre of Brooklyn, and to-morrow night at the amateur performance in Miner's Eighth Avenue Theatre, New York.

May de Sousa Dramatic Actress Now.

May de Sousa, until now a musical comedy actress and star, has decided to enter the field of legitimate drama, and will make her first appearance as a dramatic actress in "The Commuters" at the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, to-night. Miss de Sousa was last seen in New York as prima donna in "A Skylark," and she had originated the prima donna rôles in London in "The Girls of Göttenburg," "Havana," and "A Waltz Dream."

SOCIAL NOTES.

Payson McLane Merrill, whose marriage to Miss Dorothy Rand takes place on Wednesday, June 1, in St. John's Church, Far Rockaway, will give his bachelor dinner on Friday, May 20, at Delmonico's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander will open their Tuxedo villa at the end of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Low of 47 West Fifty-second Street will leave the end of May for Briarcliff, where they will spend a month before going to Cooperstown to be at the Otesaga.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kerr are expected the end of the week from Virginia Hot Spring.

HUGO REISINGER DECORATED.

New York Art Collector Honored by Prince Regent of Bavaria.

MUNICH, May 4.—The Prince Regent of Bavaria to-day decorated Hugo Reisinger of New York with the Star of the Commanders' Cross of the Order of St. Michael, in recognition of his successful work in promoting art exhibitions in Germany and the United States. Mr. Reisinger will sail for home May 10.

Hugo Reisinger is a native of Weisbaden, Germany, but has lived for many years in this country. He is in business as an importer and exporter of general merchandise, and is well known for the interest that he takes in art. He is a member of the Metropolitan Museum and the National Arts Club, and his private collection of paintings is supposed to be one of the best in the United States, especially of the German school. He was an Honorary Commissioner in Europe for the St. Louis World's Fair of 1904, and to him much of the credit for the fine collection shown in the Fine Arts Building at that exposition was due. He was decorated a few years ago with the Order of the Prussian Crown.

Wing-Burton Wedding Plans.

At the wedding of Miss Lucia Clark Burton and Morgan Wing, which takes place at noon on May 28, at St. George's Church, Newburg, N. Y., the bridesmaids will be the Misses Louise Freeman, Louise Vanderbilt, E. Rosalind Romeyn, Dorothy Ruxton, and Miss Florence Burton, a cousin of Miss Burton's. The ushers are to be Crawford Burton, another cousin; Frank V. Burton, Jr., and a cousin of Mr. Wing's, S. Bryce Wing; also Edward Rice of Boston, Gardner Cassatt of Philadelphia, and Dr. James S. Nagle of New York.

As previously stated, John D. Wing, 2nd, will be his brother's best man, and Miss Catharine Burton will be her sister's maid of honor. The Rev. Dr. Birckhead of St. George's Church, New York City, will officiate, assisted by the church rector, the Rev. Mr. Huske. There will be a small wedding breakfast following the ceremony at the country place of Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Burton.

Hull-Pierson Wedding on June 15.

The wedding of Miss Marguerite Pierson and George Huntington Hull, Jr., will take place at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 15, at the residence of Gen. Fred Pierson and Mrs. Pierson, the bride's parents, 20 West Fifty-second Street. The Rev. Philip Mercer Rhinelander of Cambridge, who officiated at the wedding of Miss Pierson's sister, will officiate. The other details have not been decided upon, but there will be a small reception following the ceremony.

Miss Porter to Wed G. H. Glover, Jr.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Harriet P. Porter, daughter of Mrs. Frank Brinley Porter of 3 Park Avenue, to George Horton Glover, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Horton Glover of this city. Miss Porter, who made her début a year or two ago, is a sister of Frank B. Porter, who married Miss Rachel Kennedy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Van Rensselaer Kennedy. Mr. Glover is a mining engineer and has spent considerable time in Mexico. His mother was Miss Isabel Tucker, a daughter of Wesley A. Tucker of Baltimore.

Miss Helen Van Nostrand to Wed.

The engagement is announced of Miss Helen Van Nostrand, daughter of John E. Van Nostrand, to George C. Meyer of Great Neck, L. I.

BUTTON—DEMAREST.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—John C. Button of New York and Miss Olive Demarest of this city were married this evening in Calvary Baptist Church in the presence of a large company. The Rev. Samuel H. Green officiated. Miss Helen Button, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Mortimer Easton of New York was best man. A reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Demarest, followed the ceremony.

Commodore E. C. Benedict Ill.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 4.—Commodore E. C. Benedict, the New York banker and former intimate friend of the late Grover Cleveland, is at his home here suffering painfully from an ailment which is the result of his advanced years, but his condition is not considered dangerous. He is under the care of Dr. A. W. Klein of this town and Drs. John F. E. Erdman and Saint Claire Smith, New York specialists. Mr. Benedict's daughters, Mrs. Ramsey Turnbull and Mrs. Frank S. Hastings, both of New York, spent yesterday at the mansion, but the Commodore's condition was so much improved that it was deemed safe for them to return to their homes. Mr. Benedict returned on Sunday from a ten days' cruise in his steam yacht Oneida and was apparently in the best of health. He was taken ill on Monday.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Hippodrome will close for the season on May 21. Early in September the big playhouse will reopen with a new production, the nature of which has not yet been revealed.

Alice Hegeman, who has been appearing with Anna Held in "Miss Innocence," has been engaged by F. Ziegfeld, Jr., for "The Follies of 1910."

Norma Mitchell, who has been with Mabel Taliaferro in "The Call of the Cricket," has been engaged by Wagenhals & Kemper for the part of Kit McNair in "Seven Days" company that is to open in Pittsburg soon.

Charles Dillingham has decided to close the Globe Theatre the last of May, and reopen it early in August with the same attraction, Montgomery and Stone in "The Old Town."

At the Actors' Fund Fair, next Wednesday night, the Twelfth Night Club will present, among other pieces, the one-act play "White Roses," that was originally produced by Daniel Frohman at the old Lyceum Theatre, with Georgia Cavan, Effie Shannon, and Mrs. Whiffen. Mrs. Whiffen will play her original rôle.

FIND MRS. DODGE WITH A COACHMAN

The Two Are Arrested in Brooklyn, Where They Were Living as Husband and Wife.

MISSING SINCE APRIL 19

Dodge Thinks His Wife Must Be Suffering from a Temporary Mental Derangement.

Mrs. Margaret Dodge, who disappeared from the fine country home of her husband, William C. Dodge, a stepson of John S. Huyler, the candy manufacturer, and a property holder of Rye, N. Y., on April 19, was traced by Mr. Dodge and private detectives yesterday afternoon to the home of Edward Sharp, a former coachman and handy man engaged on the Rye estate, at 5,207 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, where, according to the police, she had been living as Sharp's wife since she left her husband. Both she and Sharp were taken to the Fourth Avenue Police Station on charges of immorality.

Dodge, according to the police, had suspected his wife had come here as soon as she left his home. On the following day he consulted with Robert C. McLellan, head of a detective agency, asking him to find Sharp and his wife. Six detectives were assigned to the case, and presently found Sharp at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sharp, at the Brooklyn address.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Dodge, with a party of three friends, drove up in a touring car to the Fourth Avenue Police Station, in Brooklyn, and asked that his wife and Sharp be arrested at the Fifth Avenue address. Lieut. Cornelius Sullivan, who was at the desk, seemed unwilling to order the arrest without further evidence, and suggested that under the law, Dodge himself, as a private citizen, could make the arrest as well as any policeman.

Dodge returned to his automobile and was about to drive away in the direction of the Sharp home when two detectives of the private agency employed by him hove in sight down the street, convoying between them Mrs. Dodge and Sharp. Neither Sharp nor Mrs. Dodge gave any sign of recognition when they saw Dodge, but he, according to the police, seemed to relent when he saw Mrs. Dodge, and asked to have the man held, but the charge against the woman dropped. Both were allowed to stand, however.

Dodge, according to the police, said he knew of no reason why his wife had left him, as they had had no quarrel. They have been married fourteen years, but have no children. He said she had been ill for the last year, and that he could explain her going away and living with Sharp only on the theory of temporary mental derangement. He said he would try to have her placed in a sanitarium.

At Sharp's home Mrs. Sharp said that her son had been employed at the Dodge place for about seven months, and that he left the place—she did not know why—about a month ago. On the night of April 19, the day of Mrs. Dodge's disappearance, Mrs. Sharp said, her son received a telephone message from Mrs. Dodge asking him to meet her at the Grand Central Station in New York. He went, she said, and returned with Mrs. Dodge, whom, she says, he introduced to his parents as his wife. Mrs. Sharp says she doubted the truth of this representation at the time, but her son insisted on it, and she finally believed him.

Sharp is 22 years old. Mrs. Dodge is 28, but looks younger.

COURT ENJOINS NORA BAYES.

Holds Actress and Husband to Ziegfeld—Now in "Jolly Bachelors."

Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman granted a permanent injunction against Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth yesterday, restraining them from appearing on the stage under any other management than that of Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., until their contract with Ziegfeld expires.

Justice O'Gorman speaks of the contract as one which "has been a source of annoyance and pecuniary loss to all the persons concerned." He charges the litigation to "the defendants' failure to understand the obligations of a contract." He says "their conduct has been unreasonable and without legal justification, and in disregard of the letter and spirit of the agreement."

"No facts to sustain their contention that they were discharged were adduced," says the Justice.

Mr. Ziegfeld alleged that Miss Bayes and Mr. Norworth were guilty of breach of contract in leaving his "The Follies of 1909" and going with another company. The matter has been in litigation since last Summer, with decisions on both sides. Miss Bayes and her husband are members of "The Jolly Bachelors," at the Broadway Theatre, with Miss Bayes as the "featured" member of the cast. Lew Fields, producer of "The Jolly Bachelors," had nothing to say last night about the possible loss of two of his performers. He had received no notification of the court's decision. Both of the defendants played through to the close of the performance. What they would do to-night they were not ready to state.

At F. Ziegfeld's office it was said that the decision granting Mr. Ziegfeld a permanent injunction also required the defendants to pay all of the costs of the litigation, as well as the difference between their salaries and the salary paid Eva Tanguay, who took Miss Bayes's place in the Ziegfeld play, and all of the expenses of the extra advertising and printing necessitated by Miss Bayes's departure from the company. The contract with Ziegfeld has about four years more to run.

CHARLES H. FERRY of the class of 1872, Yale, is dead at Phoenix, Ariz. Mr. Ferry in the years 1873 and 1874, following the financial panic, raised by personal solicitation among the Yale graduates the sum of $16,500, by which the present Yale boat house was built. He was prize winning oarsman himself while in college, and his brother was a member of the university crew of 1867.

WALTER I. ROSS, who had practiced law in Stanhope, N. J., for the last forty years, died there yesterday at the age of 70 years. He is survived by two sons.

C. C. MINZESHEIMER DEAD.

Head of Banking House Dies After Operation for Appendicitis.

Clarence Charles Minzesheimer, head of the banking and brokerage house of Charles Minzesheimer & Co., died yesterday in his apartments at the St. Regis Hotel. Mr. Minzesheimer, who was 44 years old, succumbed to an attack of appendicitis, for which he had been operated upon on Saturday, April 23.

The operation was performed in Mr. Minzesheimer's apartments by Dr. Berg, chief visiting surgeon of Mount Sinai Hospital, assisted by Dr. Sternburger and Dr. Lipman. Mr. Minzesheimer rallied after the operation and for several days it was reported that his recovery was proceeding rapidly. He suffered a relapse, however, on Sunday last, but his improvement on Monday and Tuesday supported the hope that he would speedily convalesce.

But to the dismay of his family and friends, Mr. Minzesheimer suffered a second relapse early yesterday, and later in the day became delirious. Relatives and intimate friends were summoned to his bedside and were with him in his last moments. Mr. Minzesheimer leaves a widow, Blanche Steinberger Minzesheimer, and a son, Charles Minzesheimer, Jr., aged 12 years.

Mr. Minzesheimer was born in this city and educated in the public schools here. While still a young man he entered the banking and brokerage business of his father, Charles Minzesheimer, and soon became a master of the business. He became a member of the New York Stock Exchange on April 4, 1889. After his father's death Mr. Minzesheimer became the head of the banking and brokerage house, and on Dec. 31, 1904, formed a new partnership under the old name with Frank D. Maguire and Arthur W. Joseph. The original house was founded in 1860.

Under Mr. Minzesheimer's management the house enjoyed a period of expansion and prosperity. In addition to its offices at 24 Broad Street, branch offices were maintained at 500 Fifth Avenue and 795 Broadway. The clientele of these offices demonstrated the esteem and confidence of the investing world in the house of Minzesheimer & Co.

Mr. Minzesheimer was a member of several clubs and organizations, including the Criterion Club. He was known as a generous benefactor of many charities, including not only Hebrew charities, but charities in general. He was unostentatious in his giving, making his benefactions from a true spirit of philanthropy.

Mr. Minzesheimer was a man of large acquaintance and warm friendships. Messages of condolence to his widow poured into the St. Regis Hotel last night from all quarters of the city. Messages came alike from the leaders in the worlds of politics, business, finance, letters, and affairs and from the humble beneficiaries of Mr. Minzesheimer's generosity.

MOURN FOR CAPT. RAFFERTY.

Body of Veteran of Civil and Spanish Wars Lies in State.

The body of Capt. Peter F. Rafferty, who served in the Sixty-ninth Regiment during the civil war and who later, during the Spanish-American War, organized and commanded Company E of the 169th Regiment, New York Volunteers, lies in state in the Veterans' Room of the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street. He was the owner of a medal voted to him by Congress.

Capt. Rafferty died in Hot Wells, outside of San Antonio, whence he had gone for his health. At the time of his death Capt. Rafferty was personal attendant to Supreme Court Justice Ford, who granted him a leave of absence.

Capt. Rafferty's war record started when he enlisted in the Sixty-ninth Regiment on April 23, 1861. He served in both battles of Bull Run, Antietam, where he was wounded twice, and in the charge of St. Mary's Heights at Malvern Hill by the Irish Brigade under Meagher. In this fight he received four wounds. One bullet entered his right cheek, tearing away part of his tongue. He lay for twenty-four hours on the field before he was found by Confederates. He served six months in Libby Prison and then was released through exchange to the Union authorities.

In 1898 when the war with Spain began Capt. Rafferty organized Company E of the 169th Regiment and commanded that company through the war.

The body of Capt. Rafferty will be interred in Calvary Cemetery to-morrow after a solemn high mass is said over his body in St. Ann's Church on East Twelfth Street.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

MRS. R. A. McCURDY BURIED.

Physician Brings Husband to Church Where Funeral Services Are Held.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 4.—With his family physician, Dr. George S. Willis, Richard A. McCurdy was brought to St. Peter's Church to-day where funeral services for his wife were held. Owing to ill-health Mr. McCurdy was unable to accompany the funeral procession from the church to the street when the coffin was placed in the hearse. Mr. McCurdy left the church from a side entrance. There were no honorary pall bearers. A special car brought friends of the family here from New York. Chopin's funeral march was played.

The processional hymn was "Abide with Me"; the hymn during service, "Lead, Kindly Light"; the funeral anthem, "I Heard a Voice from Heaven," and the recessional hymn, "Hark, Hark, My Soul." These hymns were found marked in Mrs. McCurdy's Prayer Book.

The Rev. Philemon Sturges officiated and the interment was in Evergreens Cemetery.

EULOGIES OF JUDGE BARTLETT

Court of Appeals and Gov. Hughes Pay Tributes to Dead Jurist.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 4.—The body of Judge Edward T. Bartlett of the Court of Appeals was taken to Skaneateles today for burial at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. The court will convene Thursday for a short session and leave for Skaneateles in the evening to attend the funeral.

In his prayer opening the session of the Assembly to-day the Rev J. Addison Jones of Albany paid a tribute to the character of the dead jurist. The Assembly later adopted resolutions offered by Assemblyman Murray appreciative of Judge Bartlett's services to the State and adjourned out of respect to his memory. Flags on State buildings were half-masted.

When the Court of Appeals met this afternoon a memorial upon the death of Judge Bartlett was read by Judge Willard Bartlett and spread upon the minutes of the court.

Gov. Hughes has written a letter to Chief Judge Cullen extending his sympathy to the court and expressing his appreciation of loss which has been sustained in the death of Judge Bartlett.

244 TO 252 W. 54th ST

At this address we have just completed, from the plans of Mr. Percy Griffin, Architect (Mr. F. T. H. Bacon, Consulting Engineer), a twelve-story manufacturing building, in which space was rented from May 1st, 1910.

The first steel columns were not set till December 20th last, and it early developed that completion by contract time was almost impossible.

For months past, building construction in this city has been handicapped by almost insuperable difficulties.

Even the Owners despaired of our adhering to the contract date.

But our contract promises are not based on ideal conditions—they are unconditional.

Thursday last, April 28th, the first tenants moved in.

Already nearly half the space has been rented and occupied.

The building in all its details is designed to accommodate concerns in the automobile industry and can be used for manufacturing or show room purposes.

It is fireproof throughout and the insurance rates are as low if not lower than in any similar building in the city.

Rents are reasonable, the location is excellent, and wide-awake people will consult the Cross & Brown Company, 5th Avenue & 34th Street, for space.

The building was erected under our Cost Insurance contract, and is just one more concrete example of the advantages of this form of contract from the Owners' point of view.

GIANTS NEARLY TOSS GAME TO BROOKLYN

Errors by Devlin and Doyle in Ninth Inning Upset a Shut-out for New York.

Bases on balls—Off Bell, 2; off Wilhelm, 1; off Ames, 2. Struck out—By Bell, 2; by Ames, 4. Hits—Off Bell, 7 in eight innings. UmpiresMessrs. Rigler and Emslie. Time of game—One hour and fifty-five minutes.

If the Giants, through their own erratic playing, ever get into another hole like they did in the exciting ninth inning in Brooklyn yesterday, they'll have to take some one to a health garage and have his nerves patched up. You see it was this way: New York had the Dodgers beaten a dozen different ways, or in figures, shut-out 2 to 0, when a couple of feverish bungles by Devlin and a close decision by Umpire Klem crowded all three piers with Brooklyn players in the ninth inning. The Giants at this verse of the afternoon's song came within an inch of being beaten out. Brooklyn got a single run out of the melee, and the Giants were shot through the tube back to New York with another win. But you will notice in the baseball summary that Pittsburg won, too, so the Giants remain a close second.

The ninth inning, with the Dodgers taking their last turn at bat, is the picture now on the screen. Wheat bounced a bounder to Devlin, and Arthur reluctantly failed to fling it to Merkle at the customary distance above the ground the ball rolled to the stand, Wheat going on to second. Hummel pinged a liner plump into Devlin's hands. Daubert drove one along the carpet to Fletcher. Wheat started for third, and the Giant shortstop tossed the ball to Devlin, who plastered the ball onto Wheat as quick as he could. "Safe," yelled Umpire Emslie, who was field umpire. This is where McGraw's heart began to palpitate.

The New York manager ran out onto the field, his oratory keyed to concert pitch. He began to direct his remarks at Umpire Emslie. Several New York players gathered around him. There is no way of telling just what McGraw said, but this is what he did not say: "My dear Mr. Emslie, you're the best little umpire that ever broke into the business. Your eyesight is faultless, your judgment is that of a Solomon, and you are about the only human being that has never made a mistake."

McGraw pointed his finger within half an inch of the ump's eyes, and talked at a rate of seventy words a minute. He talked for a couple of minutes, so there's 140 words that Emslie got, anyway. McGraw was then informed that he could hot-foot it to the clubhouse. He appealed to Umpire Rigler, who was running the game, but Rigler stuck with his fellow-umpire in misery.

Wheat was safe at third and Daubert at first. Devlin erred again on Unhappy Smith's grounder, and the bases were full. Brooklyn then rose their feet, and honestly you'd think the grand stand was rising off the ground. The noise shot straight into the air and made a hole in the dark clouds which were assembled, and one could see the blue sky through the opening.

McElveen slammed the ball to Fletcher, who tossed it to Doyle, hoping, as hard as a man can hope, that Larry would relay it to first, make a double play, and save the day.

Say it softly. Larry muffed the ball, and Wheat scored.

Daubert also tried to squeeze home to tie the score, but Doyle threw the ball to Schlei, and the Admiral tagged him as he was riding in on his hip bone. Two down. Erwin grounded to Merkle, Ames covering the bag, and the nerve-shattering flutter was stilled.

Ames did some top-notch pitching, giving the Dodgers only a trio of hits. At times his support was so loose that it rattled. With perfect support, not a Dodger would have roamed beyond second base. On the other hand, as the man said when he tried to put the left glove on the right hand, the New Yorks would have had more runs than two if they had been wide awake on the bases. The only hits Brooklyn got was a single by Wheat in the sixth, Erwin's single in the eighth, and Daubert's doubtful scratch in the ninth. For five innings he held them hitless, and there was also a hit famine in the seventh and ninth.

The Giants' first run came in the second. Seymour singled and Tony Smith missed Fletcher's grounder. Seymour went to second, but was caught napping off third. Devlin singled, sending Fletcher to second. When Devlin was stealing second Erwin tossed the ball wild to that base, and Fletcher tallied. In the eighth New York should have made half a dozen runs, for there were four singles and a base on balls. They got only a run out of it, two runners being nipped at the plate.

The game teemed with hair-raising fielding features. In the third Burch lifted a high fly to the left-field bleachers and Devlin danced across and speared it with his bare hand. Devore also made a great catch of Lennox's fly in short left in the eighth. Tony Smith scooped Schlei's hot one off the grass with one hand in the eighth and tossed him out at first.

As the supreme court of baseball interprets the law, Umpire Rigler owes the league a $5 fine. In the ninth when Wilhelm relieved Bell, Rigler failed to turn about to the grand stand and shout out the news. The new rules say that he must "plank down" a "fiver" for this slight mistake.

Taft Leaves Poor Game Early.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—President Taft to-day witnessed the first two innings of one of the poorest games yet seen on a local diamond. St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 12 to 3. The visitors used three pitchers, who issued sixteen bases on balls. Eight bases on balls were given by Slagle and Coveleski in the third inning, and these, combined with a hit batsman and a single, netted St. Louis seven runs. The President lost interest after five runs had come in in the first inning, and his party departed in the second nining for the American League Park. Score:

De Witt Clinton, 7; Boys' High, 5.

In a fast and exciting baseball game the De Witt Clinton nine defeated the Boys' High School of Brooklyn on the Hawthorne Field, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon by the score of 7 to 5. In the eighth inning the Clinton nine rapped Alcott for three runs, and in the ninth they scored two more. The feature was the good work of Gilbert, the pitcher of the Clinton team, who pulled down six drives which looked good for hits had they passed him. He received excellent support in the field. Gillespie, Old Time Giant, Dead.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., May 4.—Patrick Gillespie, who played with the old New York Giants in the 80's and was one of the best-known ball players in the country, died to-day at his home in Carbondale, near here. He was known as Patsey Gillespie and was famous as a batsman. He said he was the first baseball player to secure a salary of $2,800 or over. When his days of usefulness in the big league were over he refused all offers to join minor league teams and retired. His brother, Jack Gillespie, one of the first pitchers to use a curve ball, was killed in Pittsburg several years ago.

Outfielder Hofman Injured.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Artie Hofman, centre fielder for the Chicago Nationals, has joined the hospital squad as a result of an accident at the West Side grounds on Sunday, when he fell as he was rounding third base in the game with Pittsburg. He returned yesterday from Pittsburg, Manager Chance deeming it advisable to send him home for treatment to the injured knee. He will be out of the game for a week or ten days.

The Washington players bid farewell to American League Park yesterday, and the Yankees, by way of giving them a good send-off, counted up a score of 4 to 2 against the Senators. It was a bit of revenge for the New Yorkers, who got a severe drubbing only the day before. The visitors left town with the short end of the series, and they were probably thankful that the disaster had been no greater.

One thing that the defeat by Washington did do for the Hilltoppers was to put more life in them, and in yesterday's battle there was evidence of a rejuvenation from the sluggish ways of the day before. The team handled itself well, and there was more evidence of speed and better base running. The Senators are, therefore, entitled to a vote of thanks. The fans did not sit through a long-drawn-out session of more than two hours, as in the two previous games, but there were not many rooters on hand to sit through anything, for the bleachers and grand stand both showed many vacant seats.

McAleer tried a shift in the line-up, sending Conroy to third in place of Kid Elberfeld, and Crooks took Unglaub's position on the initial sack. This, of course, was slated for an improvement, but it is doubtful if there was any other effect than to give a bit of variety for the spectators, who had become, perhaps, weary of trying to pronounce one of the names.

As for the men who send the benders over the plate, or not over the plate, as was the rule on several occasions, there was little to choose between Oberlin, for Washington, and Quinn, for the Yankees. Six hits were snatched from the latter, all singles, and Oberlin allowed six, with one a double by Quinn, who rapped out the two-bagger in the seventh, but accomplished nought, for there were two out, and Hemphill, the next up, could do no better than leave him stranded after sending a bounder to Oberlin, which was an easy out.

In the first inning Washington threatened to start the same sort of fun as on Tuesday, though there was not a hit recorded. Schaefer got as far as third as a result of a base on balls, an error by Roach, and a force play on Lelivelt at second on Conroy's tap to Chase. Sweeney caught him off the sack a minute later, however, and the chance went to the column of "might have beens." Schaefer was the last Senator to get near the home plate until the sixth inning, when the only two runs made by Washington were scored. In the seventh Oberlin reached third on Austin's error, but the danger point ended there.

In the sixth inning the Yankees pulled off a neat double play, in which Austin, Laporte, and Chase figured, and it was this which put the Indian sign on the run-getting of Washington. With Conroy and Gessler both having scored, and one down, Street hit to Austin, who threw to Laporte, catching McBride, and the latter whipped the sphere to Chase, and Street retired to the bench. The Senators also aroused enough ambition to pull off a double in the fourth inning. Quinn lined to Schaefer, and Sweeney was caught off first on a throw to Crooks.

Hemphill started the run-getting in the first inning for the Yankees, when Oberlin presented him with a pass, and Wolter's sacrifice gave him an additional sack. Then followed a single to centre by Capt. Chase, which brought him home. Milan handled Chase's drive poorly, and the latter scooted to second, and he went to the third pier on Cree's infield out. Oberlin fared poorly with Laporte's weak roller, and Chase crossed the plate.

Another count went on the score board in the third, again in part due to a base on balls. Wolter drew the gift, and Chase sacrificed him to second. An infield out by Cree, Schaefer to Crooks, was enough to give the third bag, and he scored on Laporte's drive through Conroy. The final count by New York was due to some clever work by Chase, and it started with another base on balls. He stole second, and then, with the hit-and-run play in full force, Chase dashed from second base to the plate on Cree's infield out, Schaefer to Crooks.

The Washington tallies came in the sixth, when three singles were taken from Quinn's delivery. Conroy hit to left and Gessler to centre, and then both advanced a base on Quinn's wild pitch. Crooks's single to right scored Conroy, and Gessler came over the plate when Crooks was forced out by McBride.

Triple Play Helps Detroit.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Detroit won from the Chicago Americans this afternoon 4 to 0 in a game featured by a triple play. In the second inning, with Chicago players on second and first and none out, Purtell lined to Simmons, who touched first before Cole could get back to that bag and then threw to Bush, getting Dougherty before he could get back to second. The Detroit club made its runs by bunching hits. Score:

TAFT PRAISES BASEBALL.

Says He Enjoys It—Is Clean and Straight Athletics.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 4.—President Taft to-day paid a tribute to baseball.

"The game of baseball," he said, "is a clean, straight game, and it summons to its presence everybody who enjoys clean, straight athletics. It furnishes amusement to thousands and thousands. I like to go for two reasons; first, because I enjoy myself and, second, because if by the presence of the Chief Magistrate such a healthy amusement can be encouraged, I want to encourage it."

COLLEGE BASEBALL.

Bunched Hits Give Columbia Victory Over New York University.

New York University was defeated by Columbia on Ohio Field yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 3. It was a hitting game largely, and Columbia was able to bunch her hits. Things looked bright for N. Y. U. in the beginning, Nixon scoring a run in the first inning after walking to first and being assisted around the bases on singles from Gorsch, Sadofsky, and Yule. In the third inning, however, Columbia woke up, and scored two runs. Lee went to first on Fisher's error, stole second, and went home on Saunders's drive through Fitzelle's hands. Fitzelle's error gave Saunders the second bag, and Osterhout's hit took him home.

Two more runs went to Columbia in the seventh, Shibley and Wardlaw going home on hits made by Courts and Lee. After that the game was rather easy for Columbia, although N. Y. U. made a run in the seventh and another in the ninth, Yule going home on Shibley's error and Brennan coming in on a passed ball after getting to third on a three-base hit. The score:

HILDRETH WINS HALF THE AQUEDUCT CARD

Owner and Trainer Turfman Takes Prizes with Fayette, Eddie Dugan, and Restigouche.

The racing at the Aqueduct course yesterday was just fair, but incidents developed in the running of the ordinary card that rescued the sport from the commonplace. A singular succession of triumphs for the colors of S. C. Hildreth easily took place as the distinguishing feature of the afternoon, for the Hildreth victories came in one, two, three order, and included the most important race of the day, the Paumonok Handicap. The weather was cold and gloomy, but the track remained so fast that when the chief of Hildreth's wins was achieved by Restigouche, the horse clipped two-fifths of a second off the track record by running six furlongs in 1:12.

Hildreth's other winners were Fayette, in the second, a mile handicap, and Eddie Dugan in the third, seven furlongs, selling. The Paumonok Handicap, in its time and result, however, easily dominated the card, for it was an odd race in all its details. Three horses bred by James R. Keene at his Castleton Stud made up just half the field of six runners for the Paumonok, though only one, Suffragist, carried the Keene colors. The others, cast off from the Keene Stable, where Restigouche, under Hildreth's colors, and Besom, running for P. S. P. Randolph. The race from start to finish was between the Keene castoffs, Besom starting favorite and Restigouche as second choice. The castoffs broke together, with Restigouche a shade in front at the start, and they ran abreast about all the way, Restigouche second into the last quarter, where he moved to the front and won ridden out, a head before Besom, with the added starter, King Cobalt, and Prince Gal neck and neck, close up third and fourth. Mr. Keene's own colors finished last. It was another odd feature of the result that the winner and second horse are of the same age and as two-year-olds were regarded as about the most promising of the Keene two-year-olds in 1907. That was the year when the Keene Stable won more than $400,000.

Fayette, rated as good or better than Sir Martin when they were two-year-olds and a complete failure in America as a three-year-old last season, while Sir Martin was rated with the best in England, won his race in impressive style, though there was the appearance of a struggle through the last quarter. Ardri made most of the pace, but Fayette wore him down at the end and won cleverly by a length and a half.

Eddie Dugan, the second Hildreth horse to win, won about all the way, finishing first in good style a length in front of Frank Purcell. The sweep made by the Hildreth horses was the most telling series of wins he ever achieved on a New York track, though he stated that on one occasion his horses won five races in a day at the Worth Course, Chicago.

Jockey Shilling, just restored to the privilege of riding after the charge made against him by R. L. Thomas had been dismissed in court, had his first winning mount in the East this season when he landed Restigouche first. Shilling yesterday entered into a contract whereby H. K. Knapp and F. R. Hitchcock, whose horses are trained by W. H. Karrick, will have second call on him. Hildreth has the first call. The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—Purse for two-year-olds, selling allowances; four and a half furlongs.

FRANK SMITH GIVES MARTO A BEATING

Young California Lightweight Proves a Good Two-Handed Fighter at Madison A. C.

Frank Smith of San Francisco arrived in this city last Sunday. Last night upon but two days' notice he faced Johnny Marto, the well-known Italian lightweight, at the Madison Athletic Club in place of Tommy Murphy, who is ill with malaria. There are but two things that Smith did not do to Marto. He did not knock the Italian down or out, but that Marto landed fewer than half a dozen clean blows in the ten rounds is sufficient indication of how badly Smith outclassed him.

The Californian all but knocked Marto out in the last round when he landed three terrific right uppercuts, one after the other, that so dazed Marto that he did not know where he was. As the gong sounded the finish of the bout it was a badly beaten and tired Italian who went to his corner, whereas Smith did not have a souvenir of the fight in any shape and was going better every minute.

Smith rocked Marto with a hard left to the jaw as the second round started, and Marto missed wild swings with both hands. Smith put left to the jaw, and Marto stopped a terrific right hook with his face. The Italian sent home a right uppercut to the stomach. The third round was a repetition of the second, except that Smith's speed increased and his tantalizing and stinging left jabs made Marto's face very red and sore.

The Californian stopped Marto's rush as the fourth round opened with a hard left to the stomach, and then they exchanged rights to the body. Smith shot a short left swing to the jaw and jabbed Marto's head with ceaseless and unreturned lefts. Just as the gong sounded Smith slipped to the floor and badly bruised his left knee.

They gave Referee Charley White all he could do to separate them in the fifth, Marto being the chief offender, using his head like a goat and putting all his weight on Smith in the frequent clinches forced by the Italian. Smith jarred Marto's head with a right hook that landed over the ear, and then jabbed away to the face until Marto's left eye was nearly closed.

The sixth round was like the fifth, the feature being a wicked right to the heart that stopped one of Marto's hard rushes. Marto landed a hard left to the jaw in the middle of the seventh that made Smith hang on for a moment, and then they exchanged lefts to body. Smith shot a left uppercut to the heart, but got a right hook to the jaw in return. Smith was tired at the bell and the round was easily Marto's, the only one in which he had any advantage at all.

Smith came back fresh as a daisy in the eighth and forced Marto all around the ring, outboxing and outfighting him at every stage of the game. Marto's left eye was almost closed as the gong signaled the end of the round. The ninth was like the eighth, with Smith getting faster and Marto going slower every minute.

The tenth was a whirlwind affair, in which Marto acted like a goat—butting and pounding away with his head until the referee told Marto's seconds he'd throw him out if he didn't stop it. Marto tried every way to land a damaging punch, but could not locate the elusive Californian, who was in and out like a flash with stinging jabs and hooks. Just before the bell Smith landed three right uppercuts to the jaw that almost knocked Marto out and the Italian was hanging on grimly at the gong.

The crowd, which had been all Marto's at the start, gave Smith one of the greatest ovations a boxer has received at the finish of his fight for some time.

"Battling" Chester and "Kid" Egan fought in the semi-final. It was stopped in the sixth because Egan badly fouled Chester, although it was plainly unintentional, but Chester was too badly injured to proceed.

FIGHTING ACTOR WINS.

Moran Has Better of Ghetto in Ten-Round Go at Sharkey A. C.

The star bout between Johnny Moran, "the fighting actor" of the Lambs' Club, and Kid Ghetto of the east side at the Sharkey Athletic Club last night was a disappointing affair throughout. Moran earned the verdict by his ability to hit his east side opponent at will, but in the end there was little to choose between the boys. Ghetto occasionally rallied, but not enough to do any damage.

The boys started off slowly and continued the work throughout, neither being floored during the ten sessions. When the bout was over neither showed any marks of punishment. The first round was very tame, as both boys were slow and unwilling to mix it. Moran got over a left jab on the jaw, which was the only blow to bring any response from the crowd. The second was a bit in favor of Ghetto, and he landed several hard blows on the kidneys which made Moran cover up. After the break Moran sent a stiff left to the stomach. At the start of the sixth session the east sider tore in with rage, pelting some hard body blows on the actor, after which they clinched, and in the breakaway Moran caught his opponent a hard right on the jaw. At the opening of the tenth both boys were weak, and their blows lacked steam. Moran opened with a left jab and Ghetto followed quickly, landing one punch on the kidneys, and in his anxiety to get in more work missed several swings. Moran stood off and was content to jab for the rest of the round.

New Cricket League Formed.

A new cricket league was organized at a meeting held at the Boys' Club, when sixteen delegates representing clubs with headquarters at Van Cortlandt Park were in attendance. The clubs forming the league, which will be known as the Van Cortlandt Park Cricket League, are the Camerons, Columbia Oval, Bronx United, Adults' School, Columbia Lodge of Yonkers and Vernon Lodge of Mount Vernon. It was announced that the Empire Lodge and Anglo-American teams would probably enter the league, and the schedule will be definitely framed when these teams are heard from. Officers were elected for 1910 as follows: President, Thomas C. Cliff, Columbia Oval; Vice President, R. B. Hobson, Adult School; Treasurer, S. Johnson, Vernon Lodge; Secretary, Edward Shaw, 146 West 168th Street, New York.

The Prospect Park Cricket Club has elected officers for the season as follows: President, W. P. Charles; Vice President, J. S. Bretz; Treasurer, H. I. Kennedy; Secretary, W. A. Huggins; Captain, G. W. Bliss.

Results of Billiard Matches.

George Moore, the champion three-cushion carrom billiard player of New York, last night defeated Henry B. Evans at McGraw's Billiard Academy, Thirty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue, by the score of 30 to 15, in forty innings. Moore's high run was 3 and Evans's was 4. This evening Moore will play Frank G. Airy of the Amateur Billiard Club of America, who was not satisfied with the results of Monday night's game and asked for a return match.

The three-cushion carrom billiard tournament was formally opened last night at Doyle's new billiard academy, Forty-second Street, between Sixth Avenue and Broadway, when Thomas Hueston defeated Albert Cutler of Chicago by the score of 40 to 39 in fifty-eight innings. Hueston's high run was 4, and Cutler's was 5. Both men will meet again to-night.

In the final game last night of the 750-point match tournament for a prize of $100, at the Washington Heights Billiard Academy, D. Weiner defeated Charles Garfinkle by the total score of 750 to 742.

Claro to Race Coast Marie Again.

The meeting of the Board of Directors of the Road Drivers' Association of New York, scheduled for last night, was postponed until next Wednesday. In order to determine the pacing championship of the Speedway, President Joseph F. Gibbons of the Road Drivers' Association has consented to drive Claro against Coast Marie. Last Sunday Claro decisively defeated Coast Marie, but the members of the association requested the owners to drive again Sunday. This will be Claro's last appearance on the Speedway this season, as he is entered in a number of important stake events in the Grand Circuit meetings.

Columbia Track Managers.

E. H. McKenzie, '11, was elected track manager of Columbia University yesterday for the coming year. For assistant manager A. H. Smith, '12, was chosen.

COLUMBIA CREW RUMOR.

New Yorkers Not to be Represented in English Henley Regatta.

In spite of the fact that Manager Mahon of the Columbia crew received an invitation from the Secretary of the American Universities Club, in London, England, stating that he was glad to hear that Columbia was going to compete in the English Henley regatta, and extending it the privileges of the club while there, he said that there was no truth in this "rumor," as he called it. A junior and a freshman eight will be entered in the Schuylkill Regatta at Philadelphia on May 21, he said, but there will be no entries made in the British regatta.

The 'Varsity crew leaves this morning for Annapolis to put in two days of practice on the Severn before it rows against the Middies on Saturday afternoon. The recent news of the fact that Loftin and Johnson are back in the Navy boat means a hard fight for the Columbia oarsmen and a close race is expected. Murphy hopes to make Rice's long, even stroke count over the shorter and choppier pull of Coach Glendon, relying on his experience at Poughkeepsie last year to sustain the pace at a fast, steady clip.

The shell was shipped last night, the "1908" boat being the one that will be used by the Morningside crew. This is the same shell that has been used by the 'Varsity eight for the past two years at Poughkeepsie.

WEST SIDE TENNIS.

Mrs. Schmitz and Miss Fischer Reach the Final Round.

Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, the women's National indoor champion, and Miss Laura Fischer won their places in the final round of the handicap singles tournament yesterday on the clay courts of the West Side Tennis Club, 238th Street and Review Place. Mrs. Schmitz caught a tartar in Miss Bertha Pagenstecher, for the latter forced her through three of the fastest sets of her career before the champion won her match. In the lower half Miss Fischer, a sister of Edwin P. Fischer, old metropolitan champion, disposed of Miss Elinor Betton and Miss May Ballin, both in straight sets. The summary:

Women's Handicap Singles.—Second Round—Miss Bertha Pagenstecher, plus half 30, defeated Mrs. E. T. Rice, plus 15, 8—6, 8—6; Miss Laura Fischer, scratch, defeated Miss Elinor Betton, plus half 15, 6—3, 6—4; Miss May Ballin, plus half 15, defeated Miss Alice L. Demarest, plus 30, 9—7, 3—6, 6—0.

Semi-Final Round.—Miss Laura Fischer, scratch, defeated Miss May Ballin, plus half 15, 6—3, 6—2; Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, minus 30, defeated Miss Bertha Pagenstecher, plus half 30, 2—6, 6—2, 6—3.

Golf Courses for Women's Play.

Twenty-one clubs in the metropolitan district have offered the privileges of their courses to the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association throughout the present season. These privileges consist in extending the freedom of the links to the women on some one day in each month, and the schedule sent out by Mrs. E. F. Sanford, Secretary of the association, is as follows:

First Monday in Each Month.—Hackensack Golf Club and Shinnecock Hills Golf Club.

Second Monday in Each Month.—Garden City Golf Club.

Third Monday in Each Month.—Brooklawn Country Club and Fox Hills Golf Club.

Fourth Monday in Each Month.—Montclair Golf Club.

Second Tuesday in Each Month.—Wee Burn Golf Club and Siwanoy Country Club.

Third Tuesday in Each Month.—Morris County Golf Club.

Basket Ball Rules Revision.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Announcement was made to-day that the annual meeting of the Collegiate Basket Ball Rules Committee will be held in New York on June 4. Delegates from all sections of the country will be present to discuss possible changes in the rules for next Winter.

Burnham Is Rear Commodore.

Following the election of Frederick K. Burnham, owner of Dixie II., and Intruder, to membership to the Motor Boat Club of America at a dinner given in his honor by Commodore Melville of the New York Yacht Club Monday night, he has been chosen Rear Commodore of the organization, vice Henry R. Sutphen, resigned.

Bleistein on Yale Track Team.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—George Bleistein of Buffalo, who was regarded as lost to the Yale track team, has been reinstated by the faculty. He will compete in the dual meets against Princeton and Harvard and in the intercollegiates. His addition to the track team offsets the loss suffered by the injury to Seymour, who hurt a tendon in practice yesterday.

170-Mile Run for Glidden Car.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Kan., May 4.—The largest day's run of the Glidden tour pathfinder car was made to-day, between Wichita and this city, 170 miles. The car came by way of Newton and Emporia, and found excellent running all the distance. It was under escort from Wichita to Emporia, where it was met by a delegation from the Kansas City Automobile Club, which will escort it into the city to-morrow morning.

SPORTING NEWS IN BRIEF.

On Saturday, at 3 o'clock, there will be held on the Brooklyn Speedway, Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn, a free-for-all driving race for women, the winners in turn to participate in the following prizes: The "Quayle" Trophy, a handsome silver-mounted whip, and a blanket.

Fighting Dick Nelson and Young Otto were secured last night by Manager McMahon, matchmaker of the Olympic Athletic Club, to meet in the main go of ten rounds at the club's next stag, on Monday night. As Otto has promised to take a wallop without running away, the bout should be a good one.

The opening session of the last series of lectures in the Automobile School of the Bedford Branch Young Men's Christian Association, Brooklyn, will be held to-morrow night at 8 o'clock. Orrel A. Parker of the Automobile Club of America will lecture on "Types of Automobile Engines," and will illustrate the same with specially made mechanical stereopticon slides that show the principle of mechanism of various engines. Mr. Parker is also expected to say something on tire economy, and if there is time promises to show some interesting pictures of the New York to Paris race.

Young 'Leary will have to step very fast to-morrow night to get the verdict over Monte Attell at the National Sporting Club. This much is indicated after a look at Attell in training. The latter is in fine condition, as is proved when he spars with his brother Abe, the featherweight champion. Abe put Monte through four fast rounds yesterday afternoon at Johnson's Road House, and there was little to choose between the two.

Billy Gibson is making no mistake in selecting Willie Beecher and Boyo Driscoll as his stars for the Fairmont Athletic Club show next Tuesday night. Beecher's two wins over "Knockout" Brown is the best proof that he is one of the fastest little men in the ring. Willie Herrman, another fighting machine, will be seen in the semi-final. The management is looking for a boy that can keep pace with Herrman.

With Sheppard, Kiviat, Gissing, Riley, Egan, and Bromilow measuring strides in the special scratch mile, and "Tex" Ramsdell, Bobby Cloughen, Jim Rosenberger, Jim Archer, Roy Dorland, Billy Keating, and Harry Heiland breaking from the barrier in the special 110-yard dash, the monster meet of the Monument Club, which will be held at Celtic Park on Sunday, promises to produce two of the greatest races in the annals of sport. The fleetest fliers in the country will battle for the honors in the dash, and the world's greatest mid-distancers will strive for the laurels in the mile.

The annual athletic games of the United Athletic Association will be held on Sunday afternoon, May 15, at Hasenflug's Dexter Park, Jamaica and Drew Avenues, Union Course, L. I. The programme consists of ten athletic events, which are as follows: Half-mile run, novice; two-mile run, novice; five-mile run, handicap; one-mile run, handicap; 100-yard dash, handicap; 440-yard run, handicap; running broad jump, handicap; running high jump, handicap; sixteen-pound shot put, handicap, and medley relay race, in which most of the large clubs of the metropolitan district have entered teams. Entries close May 10 with Dieges & Clust, 23 John Street.

FIGHTERS CANNOT AGREE ON REFEREE

Jeffries's Manager Rejects Welsh and Graney, Suggested by Jack Johnson.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The meeting to-day of Jeffries and Johnson for the selection of a referee for their fight resulted in a deadlock. Postponement was agreed upon until May 16. If the fighters cannot agree upon a referee by that date Promoters Rickard and Gleason will name the third man in the ring. Unless some change of feeling occurs Jack Welsh and Eddie Graney appear to be eliminated as candidates, and an Eastern man will be chosen.

Johnson named two men, Jack Welsh and Eddie Graney, and when Sam Berger, who was conducting negotiations for Jeffries, refused to accept either, Johnson stated one of the two must be named or there would be no fight.

Berger proposed five names, including Eddie Smith of Oakland, Charlie Eyton of Los Angeles, Johnny Hergert of San Francisco, Billy Roche, and Phil Wand. When Johnson declined to accept any of these men and gave his reasons for so doing, Berger replied that Johnson could name any reputable sporting man capable of accepting the position outside of Welsh and Graney.

Johnson's threat that there would be no fight unless the man of his choice was selected was regarded as absurd, as the articles of agreement give the promoters the right to name the referee.

Rickard is anxious, however, not to exercise this right, as he thinks the two fighters should agree. Johnson asked for ten days' delay, and this was granted.

Special to The New York Times.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 4.—Whatever interest Jeffries may have taken in the choice of a referee for the big fight he put it aside and started on the 7:30 A. M. train from Oakland with his wife. They arrived here at noon, and Mrs. Jeffries bore the fatigue of the journey well, considering that she had not fully regained her health.

Jeffries loafed this afternoon, and in the early evening took an auto ride to Santa Cruz, where he had a hot salt water bath, which he thinks limbers his muscles.

Frank Gotch telegraphed to-day he would be here about Tuesday to help Jeffries, especially in rough work on the mat, for which Farmer Burns isn't big and strong enough. It is also said Jeffries will box with Papke and Choynski in a few days, and will also get some other youngsters to exchange wallops with him in the ring.

Governor Will Not Prevent Fight.

OMAHA, Neb., May 4.—Gov. James N. Gillett of California, who passed through here last night, en route to Washington, said he would not interfere with the Jeffries-Johnson fight, scheduled to take place July 4 at Emeryville, Cal.

Tommy Burns Coming Home.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 4.—Mrs. Norah Brusso, wife of "Tommy Burns," and Manager Keating arrived from Australia yesterday. Burns is to follow by another steamer, leaving Sydney next Monday. Keating left for San Francisco last night to complete arrangements for the Burns-Langford fight.

Harry Lewis Scores a Knockout.

PARIS, May 4.—Harry Lewis, the American pugilist, to-night knocked out the Englishman, Peter Brown, in the third round of a twenty-round contest. The purse was $1,000.

POLO PLANS AT LONDON.

Hurlingham Club to Pick Strong Team to Visit the United States.

The success of the coming polo season at London, England, hinges upon the contingent that such another experience as last year may be avoided. The best possible organization, the most alluring of programmes, and the brightest of outlooks may be shattered by persistent rainy weather. As late as July last year grounds were flooded, tournaments were abandoned, and it was only after several postponements that the second of the important international test matches could be brought off.

Just now the organization of the England challenging team for America is entering largely into the Hurlingham season. That club is equipping the expedition, and the details of selection must be settled so that the chosen players will naturally be found playing there together and gaining experience of each other and of their ponies. Some indication of this is afforded by the apportionment of four dates on which the likely English team under Hardress Lloyd's captaincy, will play against strong sides. One of the latter will be Ireland on June 18, in the annual match for the Patriotic Cup. England's first preliminary contest, however, will be on May 11, the opposing team being known as the Rest of England. It is probable that these games have been arranged in order to provide data as to the form of the players and their adaptability to playing without the offside rule in operation. There will be other England or Rest of England matches at Hurlingham on May 21 and June 30, while there are to be two others at Roehampton on May 18 and June 15.

It is proposed at present that at least eight players will be brought to the United States, four of whom will constitute the team. Capt. Lloyd will be the back. Noel Edwardes of the Ninth Lancers, who is now with his regiment in South Africa, will almost surely be another selection if he receives the necessary permission. Capt. Wilson, who is never without good ponies, is expected to be another one of the eight, while the names of Capt. B. Mathew-Lannowe, R. N. Grenfell, and Capt. C. C. de Crespigny have been mentioned. It is the present belief that at least three of the important players will have to be mounted out of the fund now being raised to buy ponies and share other expenses of the team that will be sent to America.

Cameron Wins Ten-Mile Race.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 4.—Fred Cameron of Amherst, N. S., winner of the recent Boston Athletic Association Marathon race, proved to-day that he is a better runner at ten miles than James J. Corkery of Toronto, the Canadian champion at that distance. Corkery finished third in the Boston Marathon. Cameron's time to-day in the match race with Corkery was 54 minutes 13 seconds. Corkery finished ten seconds behind.

The Metamora Fishing Association of South Brooklyn turned out eighteen members for its first fishing trip of the season on Sunday. Off Ulmer Park a raid was made on the flounders and tomcods that have been plentiful at that point for some time, President Jamison landing ten nice-sized flounders. The party wound up its trip at Coney Island at night, getting a few codfish and ling. The Metamoras' second trip will be on next Sunday.

City Islanders saw more anglers there on Sunday than at any other time since the Spring season opened. Conditions were favorable for good catches and the majority of fishermen were not disappointed. Blackfish and flounders ran freely and the blackfish were unusually large. James Francis of the Harlem Fishing Club carried off the individual honors of the day by catching eight blackfish and seven flounders, one of the "blackies" weighing two and one-half pounds. Abe Harris of Yonkers, close to the bridge, got six blackfish and four flounders, while others in the same vicinity secured good messes. According to J. T. Jordan, the City Island expert, fishing never was so good in Pelham Bay at this season of the year as at present.

Brooklyn fishermen made the Raunt one of the liveliest places in Jamaica Bay on Sunday, and few went home without a mess of some kind. Flounders have been taking the bait eagerly at this place for a month or so past, but on Sunday they were unusually numerous. Six members of the Thomas Davis Fishing Association left William Groiz's headquarters in three boats about 10 o'clock in the morning, and when they came back about noon had corraled thirty-six flounders, not one of which weighed less than one pound and a half.

Henry Martin and Charles Reynolds of the Harlem Fishing Club had an unusual day's sport at New Rochelle on Friday. They rowed out from Huntington's headquarters and with clams for bait caught fourteen flounders and nine tomcods. The flounders were of fine size, ranging in weight from one pound and a half to more than two pounds

SETTLING THE DIFFERENTIAL.

Whole Dispute Between Railroads Goes to Commerce Commission.

A further conference of trunk-line officials and representatives of commercial bodies of Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Boston was held yesterday to effect a settlement of the differential rate dispute. It is understood that the Inter-State Commerce Commission will be asked to arbitrate the points at issue.

Owing to the rival interests of the several North Atlantic ports in competition with New York, principally the three cities which, with New York, are direct parties to the present rate disagreement, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, the railways have so far been unable to agree among themselves upon any method of settling the differential rates.

The resort to the good offices of the Inter-State Commerce Commission will probably lead to an adjustment. The contention has lasted now for much more than a year, and while hostilities among the several roads concerned have been suspended, much impatience, particularly on the part of the lines serving Philadelphia, has been shown.

That port was put in a position of disadvantage by reason of the rate reductions last made by the Boston lines, and Philadelphia has been insisting on a settlement.

SAVINGS IN NATIONAL BANKS.

Plan to Part Them from Other Funds Opposed by Bankers' Council.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 4.—The Executive Council of the American Bankers' Association in session here refused to take definite action to-day on the proposal to segregate savings funds in National banks and trust companies and place such accounts under the same restrictions as are now thrown around deposits in savings banks.

Opponents of the measure said that such action would tie up millions of dollars that could be used only for specific purposes and take the money out of the regular channels of trade. The measure was tabled, but it is expected to come up at the American Bankers' convention at Los Angeles in October.

The Executive Council went on record as in favor of a big exposition to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal in 1915.

Protecting Susquehanna Bond Holders.

A committee has been formed for the protection of the 4 per cent. bond holders of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad Company, which has just gone into the hands of a receiver. The committee is composed of Alvin W. Krech, Chairman; John L. Billard, John S. Kuhn, Robert Windsor, and Asa S. Wing. Deposit of the 4 per cent. bonds is invited. The Equitable Trust Company has been designated a depository.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday business was quiet, copper was unchanged, but tin and spelter were a shade easier.

On the Metal Exchange in London yesterday, copper, for both spot and future deliveries, closed at an advance of 5s from the initial prices of the day, but a decline of like amount from the final figures of Tuesday for both. The market finished firm, closing quotations ruling at: Spot, £55 7s 6d; futures, £56 7s 6d.

Pig tin ended steady, but spot and future deliveries each showed a loss of 15s, to £148 12s 6d to £150 respectively. Spelter was steady and unchanged at £22. Spanish pig lead was easier at a recession of 1s 3d, to £12 7s 6d. Cleveland warrants were quoted at 49s 6d.

The closing bid and asked prices for copper and other metals for spot delivery on the New York Metal Exchange yesterday compare as follows with those of Tuesday:

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Grains Less Active on Reactions—Provisions Firm—Cotton Steady—Freight Engagements Large.

The wheat market was much quieter, with fluctuations smaller. There was some further advance during the morning, but the volume of fresh buying was restricted and later the market reacted. The cables, while somewhat higher, early reacted. The foreign news, however, still had no influence of importance. Weather conditions were somewhat more satisfactory. The temperatures are more moderate and the predictions were for showers in some sections and generally warmer. The weather conditions have certainly improved, and with the improvement there are fewer reports of drought and crop killing but more numerous advices of damage by insects. The position of the May delivery West shows a great deal of congestion, and holdings of the large interests in the new crop deliveries seem to be sufficient to dominate the market. The trading by the bull party seems to have been in excess of the market. The Northwestern advices are favorable, although more rain would be beneficial in the Spring wheat States. The movement of wheat is light and cash wheat is somewhat steadier, but the demand for flour is very slow and does not seem to improve with the recent advances in wheat values. Cash wheat quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.15, nominal, cost, insurance, and freight; No. 2 red spot, nominal, $1.16¾, free on board, afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.18¼, nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, nominal; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.09.

Corn was heavy most of the day. The selling seemed to be due to a lessened interest in the cash market and the covering movement in evidence for two or three days appeared over. The demand for cash corn was reported quieter and the large stocks were again brought forward as a factor against values. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, 69c, nominal, elevator, domestic basis, and steamer, 65c, nominal, elevator, export basis.

The oats market was quiet and somewhat lower. The weather conditions were reported favorable and influence of the favorable crop reports and rather liberal movement of oats West is having some influence on the market. Cash oats quoted: Natural white, 45½@48c; white clipped, 46½@52c.

Trade in hog products was quite active and prices were high. The movement of hogs is so very small that with the light stocks of product the market is very sensitive and easily influenced by any buying orders of volume.

COTTON.

Trading in the future market was again narrow, but the market was nervous and is being watched carefully by both bulls and bears. The developments in the May position showed that the bull party was preparing to ship cotton out rapidly. Freight brokers reported large engagements during the last twenty-four hours, about 30,000 to 35,000 bales of cotton, mainly for Liverpool, which, with the engagements earlier in the week, made engagements for the week 45,000 to 50,000 bales, largely for Liverpool. These engagements show that the cotton brought back from Liverpool is to be moved abroad at once. There were reports of further sales of cotton to Southern mills. The stock of certificated cotton showed another small increase. It is expected, however, that the stocks will soon begin to decrease rapidly in view of the preparations being made by the bulls to ship cotton out. The report of a leading commission house on the acreage pointed to a gain of 2.3 per cent., with the total area of 32,651,000 acres. The other reports showed a gain of 2.9 and 3.2 per cent. Weather conditions were of more moderate temperatures and more favorable; rain would be a very advantageous condition.

There were no deliveries or sales reported in the spot market, but those in close touch with bull interests are confident believers that the bulk of all the spot cotton here will be moved either to American mills or for export within the next few weeks. Already important contracts have been made, it is understood, and the selling of cotton bills is claimed to have been a factor in the foreign exchange markets.

Southern spot markets unchanged to ⅛c advance.

COFFEE.

Coffee was fairly active, with sales of 18,250 bags, and prices were steady, closing at a net advance of 4@6 points. Havre was unchanged to ¼f advance, and Hamburg showed an increase of ¼ pfennig. The world's visible supply of coffee showed a decrease during April of 389,444 bags, which brought the total to 14,570,248 bags, against 13,314,523 bags last year, when the decrease in April was 618,382 bags.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 4.—Local sentiment showed some improvement this morning, and prices on the local market advanced from a fraction to two points. Amalgamated sold up to 66¼, Lake to 52⅜, and North Butte to 31¼. The undertone continued steady, with but one or two slight setbacks, and the close was strong, at very nearly highest prices of the day.

MASTER'S SALES.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Complainant, against METROPOLITAN STREET RAILWAY COMPANY AND OTHERS, Defendants.—In Equity.—Pursuant to the decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, made and filed in the above-entitled cause April 6, 1910, upon the mandate of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, the undersigned, Special Master appointed by the said decree for the purpose of selling the property therein directed to be sold, will sell, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, the said property, in one parcel, as an entirety, in accordance with the terms and provisions of said decree, at the north main entrance of the County Court House of the County of New York, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, or in such room therein as he may in pursuance of said decree obtain, on the 12th day of May, 1910, at two o'clock P. M. Unless the Court shall otherwise direct, for just cause shown upon the petition of any person desiring to bid at such sale, no bids will be received from any bidder who shall not first deposit with the undersigned Special Master the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, ($100,000,) either in cash or in a check certified by a National or State bank or trust company, situate in the City of New York. No bid which is less than ten million dollars in cash will be provisionally accepted by the Special Master. For a further statement of the terms and conditions of sale and for a more particular description of the property to be sold reference is made to the said decree and to the inventory and statements to be prepared thereunder. The following is a brief description of the property to be sold:

All the railways, properties, and franchises formerly of the following-named companies, with any and all additions thereto and extensions thereof, which were constructed and in operation on the 14th day of June, 1897, and all real and personal property formerly of said companies, namely: The Houston, West Street and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company, The Chambers Street and Grand Street Ferry Railroad Company, The Broadway Railway Company, The South Ferry Railroad Company, The Metropolitan Crosstown Railway Company, The Lexington Avenue and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company, The Columbus and Ninth Avenue Railroad Company. Together with the line of railway known as the Fort Lee Ferry Extension, described in said mortgage, and all the rights which the Metropolitan Street Railway Company had on the 14th day of June, 1897, for the operation of its cars upon the tracks or routes of other street railway companies, or of other persons or corporations in connection with the railways, routes, and franchises above specifically mentioned, particularly including its rights under the trackage agreement dated the 21st day of December, 1896, between the Thirty-fourth Street Crosstown Railway Company, the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, and others, together with all claims, demands, and rights of action whatsoever of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its Receivers against the above-named Thirty-fourth Street Crosstown Railway Company, arising out of or connected with the subject matter of the aforesaid trackage agreement. For a more detailed description of said railways, rights, and franchises, with the additions thereto and the extensions thereof, and the trackage rights and operating agreements above referred to, reference is hereby made to the list to be prepared pursuant to said decree, and filed with the undersigned, Special Master, prior to the sale, which list will be open to the inspection of persons desiring to bid at the sale, the said list being advisory only and in no wise constituting a warranty. The purchaser of the railways, properties, and franchises of the Houston, West Street and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company will be entitled to receive as an additional muniment of title, without merger, the first mortgage bonds of said Company to the amount of $500,000 of principal now held by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York as Trustee.

All the right, title, and interest of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company in and to the railroads, railroad tracks, railroad routes and franchises, equipment, real estate, tracks and trackage rights, and other property of every nature and description whatsoever, described and included in the following described instruments of lease, namely: The lease made by the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company to the Houston, West Street and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company, dated May 13, 1890; the lease made by the Eighth Avenue Railroad Company to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, dated November 23, 1895, excepting therefrom the premises known as No. 315 West 50th Street; the lease made by the Sixth Avenue Railroad Company to the Houston, West Street and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company, dated February 1st, 1892, excepting therefrom those certain lots of land lying on the easterly side of Lenox Avenue between One Hundred and Fortieth and One Hundred and Forty-first Streets, particularly described and excepted by the terms of the aforesaid mortgage; the lease made by the Ninth Avenue Railroad Company to the Houston, West Street and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company, dated March 12, 1892, excepting therefrom those two certain lots of land on the westerly side of Amsterdam Avenue, between One Hundred and Twenty-fifth and One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Streets, particularly described and excepted by the terms of the aforesaid mortgage; the lease made by the New York and Harlem Railroad Company to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, dated June 11, 1896; the lease made between the Forty-second and Grand Street Ferry Railroad Company, the Metropolitan Crosstown Railway Company, and the Houston, West Street and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company, dated April 6, 1893; and the lease made by the Twenty-third Street Railway Company to the Houston, West Street and Pavonia Ferry Railroad Company, dated April 25, 1893, including the right, title, and interest passed by said lease in and to the properties described in the lease made by the Bleecker Street and Fulton Ferry Railroad Company to the Twenty-third Street Railway Company, dated January 10, 1876. Together with all claims, demands, and rights of action whatsoever, of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its receivers, against any of the above-named lessors arising out of or connected with the subject-matter of said respective leases.

All of that block, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situate, lying and being in the Twelfth Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, bounded and described as follows: Northerly by the middle line of Ninety-sixth Street; southerly by the middle line of Ninety-fifth Street; westerly by the middle line of First Avenue, and easterly by the East or Harlem River. And also all land under water and all pre-emptive rights in, upon and under the East or Harlem River, lying in front of the above-described block. The purchaser of said block, piece, or parcel of land will also be entitled to receive, as an additional muniment of title, without merger, the bond and mortgage for the payment of the principal sum of $125,000 secured by a lien upon said property, and now held by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, as trustee.

All those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situate, lying and being in the Eleventh Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, and which taken together are bounded and described as follows:

Beginning on the northerly line or side of Eleventh Street distant one hundred and eighty-three feet easterly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of Eleventh Street with the easterly side of Avenue C, as the same is now laid out and widened, which said widening was not noted or allowed for on the map hereinafter mentioned, and running thence northerly and parallel with Avenue C one hundred and three feet three inches to the centre line of the block between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets; thence easterly along said centre line of the block and parallel with Eleventh Street fifty feet; thence southerly and parallel with Avenue C one hundred and three feet three inches to the northerly side or line of Eleventh Street, and thence westerly along the same fifty feet to the point or place of beginning.

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Eleventh Ward in the City of New York, and bounded and described as follows: To locate the point of beginning run east on the northerly side of Tenth Street two hundred and thirty-three (233) feet from the northeasterly corner of Tenth Street and Avenue C, and thence northerly and parallel with Avenue C eighty (80) feet to the point or place of beginning; from which point, to bound said interior lot, run northerly and parallel with Avenue C fourteen (14) feet and nine inches; thence easterly and parallel with Tenth Street twenty-five (25) feet; thence southerly and again parallel with Avenue C fourteen feet and nine inches; thence westerly and again parallel with Tenth Street twenty-five (25) feet, to the point or place of beginning.

All that certain piece of land, with the buildings thereon, situate, lying, and being in the Eleventh Ward of the City of New York on the northerly side of Tenth Street and beginning at a point distant two hundred and eight feet easterly from the northeasterly corner of said Tenth Street and Avenue C, and running thence easterly along the northerly side of Tenth Street twenty-five feet; thence northerly, on a line parallel with Avenue C, ninety-four feet and nine inches and one-half an inch to the centre line of the block between Tenth and Eleventh Streets; thence westerly on a line parallel with Tenth Street twenty-five feet; thence southerly on a line parallel with Avenue C ninety-four feet nine and one-half inches to Tenth Street aforesaid, the place of beginning.

Also six other certain lots, pieces, and parcels of ground and premises, with the buildings thereon, situate, lying, and being in the Eleventh Ward of the said City of New York, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the southerly side of Eleventh Street, distant one hundred and eight feet easterly from the southeasterly corner of Avenue C and Eleventh Street; and running thence easterly and along the southerly side of Eleventh Street aforesaid seventy-five feet; thence southerly, and parallel with said Avenue C, one hundred and eighty-nine feet and seven inches, more or less, to the northerly side of Tenth Street; thence westerly, and along the northerly side of Tenth Street aforesaid, seventy-five feet; and thence northerly and parallel with said Avenue C one hundred and eighty-nine feet and seven inches, more or less, to the place of beginning.

All those two certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, with the buildings thereon, situate, lying, and being on the northerly side of Eleventh Street, in the Eleventh Ward of the City of New York, and known and distinguished on a certain map filed by Frederick de Peyster, Master in Chancery, in the office of the Register of the City and County of New York, entitled map of two hundred and forty lots of land situate at Burnt Mill Point in the Eleventh Ward of the City of New York, by the numbers eighty-five, (85,) eighty-six, (86,) and are more fully bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Eleventh Street in said city, distant two hundred and thirty-three feet easterly from the northeasterly corner of Avenue C and Eleventh Street, running thence northerly and parallel with Avenue C, one hundred and three feet three inches; thence easterly and parallel with Eleventh Street, fifty feet; thence southerly, and parallel with Avenue C, one hundred and three feet three inches to Eleventh Street aforesaid, and thence westerly along the same fifty feet to the place of beginning. Also all those four certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, situate, lying, and being in the Eleventh Ward of the City of New York, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the southerly side of Eleventh Street, distant one hundred and eighty-three feet easterly from the easterly line of Avenue C, running thence southerly and parallel with Avenue C, ninety-four (94) feet nine (9) inches to the centre line of the block, running thence easterly along said centre line one hundred feet; thence northerly and parallel with Avenue C, ninety-four feet nine inches to the southerly line or side of Eleventh Street, thence westerly along the southerly line of Eleventh Street, one hundred feet to the place of beginning.

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of ground, with the building thereon erected, which on a certain map filed by Frederick De Peyster, Master in Chancery, (with his certificate indorsed thereon, dated February 1st, 1837,) in the office of the Register for the City and County of New York, entitled "Map of 240 lots of land situate at Burnt Mill Point, in Eleventh Ward of the City of New York," consisting of one lot of land thereon designated by the number "144," (one hundred and forty-four,) bounded as follows, viz.:

"Commencing at the point on the northerly side of Tenth Street, distant one hundred and ninety-three feet southeasterly from the northeasterly corner of Avenue C and Tenth Street; running thence northwesterly along Lot 145 on said map ninety-four feet nine inches to the centre of the block; thence southeasterly along the centre of the block twenty-five feet to a Lot 143 on said map; thence southwesterly along said Lot 143 ninety-four feet nine inches to Tenth Street, and thence northwesterly along Tenth Street twenty-five feet to the point of beginning."

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situated in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, bounded and described as follows:

"Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Fourth Avenue and Ninety-ninth Street, running thence northwardly along the easterly line of Fourth Avenue two hundred and one feet ten inches to the southerly line of One Hundredth Street; thence eastwardly along the southerly line of One Hundredth Street four hundred and five feet; thence southwardly and parallel with Fourth Avenue two hundred and one feet ten inches to the northerly line of Ninety-ninth Street, and thence westwardly along the northerly line of Ninety-ninth Street four hundred and five feet to the point or place of beginning."

All those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, with the building or buildings thereon, situated, lying, and being in the Eighteenth Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, and bounded and described as follows:

"Commencing on the northerly side of Twenty-fifth Street, at a point distant one hundred and seven feet and six inches (107.6) westerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly line of Twenty-fifth Street with the westerly line of Third Avenue, and running thence westerly along the northerly line of Twenty-fifth Street, one hundred and eighty-seven feet and six inches (187.6) or thereabouts, and thence running northerly and parallel, or nearly so, with the Third Avenue, one hundred and ninety-seven feet and five inches (197.5) to the southerly side of Twenty-sixth Street, and thence running easterly along the southerly side of Twenty-sixth Street one hundred and eighty-six feet, or thereabouts, and thence running southerly and parallel with the Third Avenue ninety-eight feet and nine inches (98.9) to the centre line of the block between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets and thence running easterly along the said centre line of the block six inches, (.6;) thence running southerly and parallel with the Third Avenue ninety-eight feet and nine inches (98.9) to the northerly line of Twenty-fifth Street."

All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, together with the buildings and improvements thereon, lying and being in the Twenty-second Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, situate on the north side of West Fifty-third Street, between the Tenth and Eleventh Avenues, and known as lot number 768 on a certain map of John Hopper's Estate, filed in the Register's Office of the City of New York on the 31st day of December, 1864, as Map No. 660, and being bounded and described as follows:

"Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Fifty-third Street, distant four hundred and seventy-five (475) feet westwardly from the westerly side of Tenth Avenue, and running thence westwardly along said northerly side of Fifty-third Street, twenty-five (25) feet; thence northerly on a line parallel with Tenth Avenue forty-eight (48) feet, three and three-quarter (3¾) inches; thence southeasterly twenty-five (25) feet or thereabouts to a point in a line distant forty-four (44) feet ten (10) inches northerly from the northerly side of Fifty-third Street, and thence southerly on a line parallel with Tenth Avenue forty-four (44) feet ten (10) inches to the northerly side of Fifty-third Street to the point or place of beginning."

Also all those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, together with the buildings and improvements erected thereon, situate, lying, and being in the Twenty-second Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point three hundred feet easterly from the southeasterly corner of the Eleventh Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street; thence easterly along the line of Fifty-fourth Street twenty-five feet; thence southerly parallel with the Eleventh Avenue through the centre of the block to the line of property now or formerly owned by Garrit H. Striker, one hundred and fifty-six (156) feet; thence northwesterly along the line of said property, twenty-five (25) feet three and one-quarter (3¼) inches; thence northerly parallel to the Eleventh Avenue one hundred and fifty-two (152) feet six and one-quarter (6¼) inches, to the point or place of beginning, be the said several dimensions more or less.

All the leasehold rights of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its Receivers in and to all that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situate, lying, and being in the Seventh Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, and bounded and described as follows:

"Beginning at the corner formed by the intersection of the southerly line of Cherry Street with the westerly line of East Street, and running thence southerly along the westerly line of East Street one hundred feet and three inches; thence westerly on a line parallel (or nearly so) with the southerly line of Cherry Street two hundred and forty-five feet six inches; thence northerly on a line parallel (or nearly so) with the westerly line of East Street twenty-six feet one inch; thence easterly parallel (or nearly so) with said line of Cherry Street nineteen feet eleven inches; thence northerly parallel (or nearly so) with the said line of East Street seventy-five feet to said line of Cherry Street; thence easterly along said land last-mentioned line two hundred and twenty-five feet to the place of beginning, and known by the Street Number 505 Cherry Street."

Also all the leasehold rights of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its Receivers in and to all that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situate, lying, and being on Cherry Street, in said Borough and City, immediately adjoining the above-described premises, on the westerly side thereof, which said lot is about twenty feet in width in front and rear, and seventy-five feet in depth on each side.

All the leasehold rights of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its Receivers in and to all those ten certain lots of ground situate, lying, and being in the Sixteenth Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, distinguished on a map of certain lands of Clement C. Moore, situate at Greenwich, in the City of New York, recorded in the office of the Register in and for the City and County of New York, in Liber 634 of Conveyances, page 411, by the numbers 905 (nine hundred and five) to 908 (nine hundered and eight) and 936 (nine hundred and thirty-six) to 941 (nine hundred and forty-one), all inclusive; and bounded together as follows, viz.: Southeastwardly in front by the Eleventh Avenue, southwestwardly by the half distance line between Twenty-third Street and Twenty-fourth Street, northwestwardly by lot numbered on the said map 935, (nine hundred and thirty-five,) and northeastwardly by the said Twenty-fourth Street.

Containing together in width along the said Eleventh Avenue and on the northwestwardly side thereof ninety-eight feet and eight inches, and on the northeastwardly and southwestwardly sides thereof two hundred and twenty-five feet, be the said several measurements more or less.

Fourteen thousand shares of the capital stock of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company of the par value of one hundred dollars each; four thousand shares of the capital stock of the Forty-second Street and Grand Street Ferry Railroad Company, of the par value of one hundred dollars each; three thousand shares of the capital stock of the Central Park, North and East River Railroad Company, of the par value of one hundred dollars each; and nine thousand nine hundred shares of the capital stock of the Thirty-fourth Street Crosstown Railway Company, of the par value of one hundred dollars each.

All the horses, cars, carriages, tools, chattels, machinery, motors, engines, and equipment of every description which at the date of said decree were located upon the lands and premises above described or upon any other lands and premises belonging to or in the possession of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its Receivers, or generally kept or used in connection therewith, and which at the time of sale may continue to be in the possession of or under the control of the Receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, including all fixtures installed generally for the purposes of the street railway system of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, including also the right, title, and interest of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its Receivers in or to any and all cables and their appurtenances for the transmission of direct current or alternating current to or from the power station or sub-stations on said property, or any part or parcel thereof, together with all property of every nature and description whatsoever belonging to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its Receivers, and located upon the premises of any of the lessor companies above named, and all the right, title, and interest of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company in and to any unexpended balance of the proceeds of insurance upon cars, rolling stock, or other personal property in the hands of any depositary or trustee at the time of sale, and generally all other personal property of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or its Receivers not hereinbefore particularly described or referred to which at the time of sale shall remain in the possession or under the control of said Receivers, except cash in hand, choses in action, and books of record, vouchers, and other documents necessary to enable said Receivers to prepare their accounts or to perform their other duties as Receivers.

All and singular the property and franchises of every nature and description whatsoever which on the 14th day of June, 1897, belonged to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or in or to which it then had any estate, right, title, interest, property, possession, claim, or demand whatsoever, not expressly excepted from the lien of said mortgage to the complainant or subsequently released therefrom, together with all the horses, cars, carriages, tools, chattels, machinery, motors, engines, and equipment of every description which since said 14th day of June, 1897, have at any time been owned by the Metropolitan Street Railway Company or used or employed or acquired for use upon or in connection with the lines and routes of railway, including leased lines, subject to the lien of the said mortgage to the complainant and not subsequently released from the lien of said mortgage.

The following special work is not to be sold: Fifteenth Street and Eleventh Avenue yard; Second Avenue and Forty-second Street, crossing with yokes; Second Avenue, north of Stuyvesant Street, righ-hand crossover; Third Avenue, Fifth Street car house, old turnout, 141st Street and Lenox Avenue yard; Third Avenue, 129th Street car house, turnout and yokes; Broadway and Manhattan Street, crossing and turnout. 152d Street and Eighth Avenue yard; 125th Street, west of Eighth Avenue, left-hand crossover; Amsterdam Avenue and 161st Street, crossover; Amsterdam Avenue and 162d Street, branch-off; Second Avenue and 125th Street, crossing with yokes; Second Avenue and 110th Street, old crossing. Fourth Street and East River yard; Avenue A and Ninety-second Street, right-hand crossover; Post Office loop, old switches and mates.

Any purchaser or purchasers of the said property will be allowed one year from the date of confirmation of the sale within which to elect to adopt and continue in force or to refuse to adopt any lease, traffic or trackage or operating agreement or other executory contract which may be included in the property sold or may constitute an incident or appurtenance thereof, such election to be made in the manner and with the effect provided in said decree.

BOND SALES ABROAD FACTOR

Placement of $75,000,000 of Our Securities with Europe Cheers Sentiment—Violent Break in Exchange Market.

The turn for the better in the stock market for which Wall Street has been looking for several days came with the opening of the Stock Exchange yesterday morning, finding its first expression in the placement here of heavy buying orders by London following a higher level of quotations for all American securities in the English capital before our own opening. The underlying cause for the advances of from 1 to 3 points in the early dealings and the retention and in some cases augmentation of the advances was, of course, the knowledge that our bankers had succeeded in placing abroad, particularly in Paris, millions of dollars of American securities. Just what the sales have amounted to has not yet been definitely calculated, but preliminary estimates from various sources involved in the transaction point to an ultimate total very little if at all under $75,000,000. The bulk of this amount comprises bonds of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and it is an interesting and at the same time noteworthy fact that the banking house which has placed the great block of bonds of this road with French bankers is a house which has on at least two other occasions performed a similar and equally valuable service to American finance at somewhat critical junctures. The stock market yesterday very correctly interpreted these bond transactions; they are significant for three reasons. In the first place their total may be regarded as the equivalent of exports from this country so far as the immediate foreign trade position is concerned, and in this fashion there has been rectified the inequality which has distinguished our foreign trade for a long time past. Again, some of the recent depression in securities markets has been due to the imminence of the very financing which it now appears is to be so largely transferred to the shoulders of Europe, and, finally, it is fair to regard the willingness of the great foreign investment institutions to take on such quantities of our bonds at this time as a vote of confidence in a business and financial situation which to Wall Street at least has for several weeks seemed anything but cheerful. Certainly, it must everywhere be admitted that for the time being at least our foreign trade relations have been distinctly bettered by the sales of the securities to Europe, but recognition of this fact should not be permitted to obscure the importance, greater than ever, of full harvests this year and of a favorable issue to the present political complications. All other developments of the day were, of course, overshadowed by this news of the sales of our bonds abroad, but they were not altogether unimportant, including as they did the April figures of pig iron production, showing a decrease of 6,000 tons per day as compared with the March output, and the success of the Republicans in St. Paul, where the Democrats had so long controlled affairs.

Responding to the wholesale placement of our securities in Europe the foreign exchange market opened in a state of semi-demoralization yesterday, demand sterling falling abruptly some 40 points. Obviously, talk of further gold exports is out of place, so much so that it is quite possible that we may see this Fall a gold import movement. However, the matter of present moment is that the outflow is definitely included. Call money rates were appreciably lower than on Tuesday, and some shading in quotations in time money was reported.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Lehigh Valley again occupied the centre of the local speculative stage to-day with another jump, this time to 117. The manipulation was almost entirely from New York, and a well-defined report was afloat that the much-discussed "deal" was about to be announced. This was correct in regard to the early publication. It may be stated on high authority that some important railroad will be disclosed with Lehigh Valley before the end of the Summer.

The local traction stocks were quiet and steady, Rapid Transit recovering to 17. This price was not maintained. The definite statement was made that Union Traction will not be called upon to participate in any form in the pending financing of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

Recoveries General in Coppers from the Declines of Recent Markets.

RAY CENTRAL SELLS DOWN

While the General Market Moves Upward This Issue Drops from 2⅛ to 1 15-16—Fractional Gains Common.

Recoveries were general in the curb market yesterday, although trading was in somewhat smaller volume on the rise. The closing prices were in many instances below the high levels of the day, and a number of issues which had made gains closed even with the opening prices. Ohio Copper had another day of activity, reporting transactions of 33,800 between 1¾ and 1 15-16. The close was even with the opening at 1⅞. Ray Central was also very active, but was weak, selling down from 2⅛ to 1 15-16, the close being at 2. Transactions reported were 27,000. Butte Coalition gained ⅝ on the day's trading, rising from 17½ to 18¼. Many of the other important coppers made fractional gains.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

London's Stock Purchases.

Opinion was divided on the floor of the Stock Exchange yesterday as to fore knowledge on the part of London regarding the sales of securities to Europe, the news of which turned the stock market here about so abruptly. London sent over a higher range of quotations and followed this up by very heavy purchases of stocks, the amount of these purchases being placed at more than 50,000 shares, but it is quite possible that the buying orders really originated on this side, as they often do under similar circumstances. The fact that no one of yesterday's reports of bond sales mentioned English capital as involved was looked upon on the floor as rather trustworthy evidence that London's information came from New York and not from Paris.

⁂

Southern Pacific's Rise.

Having been only moderately influenced on Tuesday by the report that Southern Pacific stockholders were soon to come into a windfall in the shape of Associated Oil Company shares, or money representing sales of these shares by the Southern Pacific treasury, Southern Pacific stock made up for its oversight by a maximum rise of some 4 points yesterday. Of course, nothing more definite regarding this reported distribution was known yesterday than on the previous day, but the lack of information on this point was compensated for by a further report that the road had participated in the great sales of securities to European investment institutions, although this, too, went unconfirmed up to the close of business.

⁂

Lehigh and Wabash.

In spite of its excitment over the day's news of sales of securities abroad in almost unprecedented volume, some of the traders found time to read and comment on a story from St. Louis telling of the entrance into that city over the Wabash of a special train carrying President Delano of the Wabash, D. G. Reid, F. S. E. Pearson, and Henry I. Miller, former President of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois. The significance of all this was plain. It meant simply that the Rock Island people, having obtained control of the Lehigh Valley, intended to take in the Wabash to connect the Lehigh with the Rock Island, and were making this trip over the Wabash preparatory to finishing up the deal. One or two cautious traders whose stock market's apprenticeship dates back to the Gould-Fisk days, pointed out the danger of drawing hard and fast conclusions from the trips of financiers over lines which they were supposed to covet, referring particularly to the journey made by Jay Gould over the Nickel Plate, a manoeuvre which persuaded Vanderbilt that Gould was after the road and led him to snap it up at a high price, to the great profti of the Gould party.

Expect Lower English Bank Rate.

The decided change which has taken place in the last fortnight in the position of the London money market has led already to the suggestion that the Bank of England may soon reduce its official discount rate from the present figure of 4 per cent. This change is not looked for this week, but New York bankers in close touch with the London money market say they would not be surprised if the English bank rate was shortly lowered. Discounts in London yesterday were down to 3¼ per cent., or three-quarters under the bank rate, and the promise, bankers here said, was for still lower London discounts before the end of the week. With the market rate thus receding from the rate fixed by the bank it is thought only a matter of a short time before the bank gives official recognition to the improved position of the London money market by lowering its own official rate.

⁂

Our Bond Sales Abroad.

It is regarded as most interesting that negotiations should now be proceeding, already with a large measure of success, for the sale abroad of large amounts of our bonds right on the heels of the export of more than $30,000,000 gold from New York. The shipment of this gold, nearly all of which went to London, was the most important single factor in bringing about improvement in the reserve position of the Bank of England and in the general condition of the London money market. The ease at that centre benefited the other markets of Europe, and now the latter are taking large amounts of our bonds. The amount already placed abroad exceeds the sum of the recent gold exports, and the promise is that the present purchases of American securities by European investors will amount to several times the $30,000,000 gold, which we recently exported. The effect of these foreign purchases of our bonds will much more than offset any disadvantage we suffered by reason of having had to send out all this gold.

⁂

Imports Falling.

As far as the foreign trade situation can be judged by returns at this port, which is the principal place of entry of foreign merchandise, the balance of trade for April will be more favorable than has been the case in recent months. Appraiser George Wanmaker said yesterday that the total appraised value of merchandise brought into New York in April was $81,215,723, which is $22,000,000 less than the March figures, which made a record for the month in the history of the Appraiser's stores. The April figures, however, are larger than in previous years, showing an increase of almost $2,500,000 over April, 1909, and a gain of more than $26,000,000 as compared with the same month in 1908.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

A large short interest on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was forced into a more or less hurried retreat by the advance in prices, but late in the day quotations ruled generally smartly under those on the New York Stock Exchange. Reading failed to sell above 157, Southern Pacific above 122¾, and Union Pacific above 179½, all ¼ of a point under the high figures reached on the other board. Transactions were heavy, totaling 154,602 shares, distributed among sixty different stocks.

RAILROADS ELECT DIRECTORS.

Lake Shore and Nickel Plate Fill Vacancies on Boards.

CLEVELAND, May 4.—The annual meetings of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and the Nickel Plate Railroad were held to-day. Each road elected three Directors to fill vacancies caused by death or resignation.

On the Lake Shore Board, James Stillman succeeds D. O. Mills for a one-year term; L. Cass Ledyard succeeds Hamilton McK. Twombly for a two-year term, and Marvin Hughitt is confirmed as successor to E. H. Harriman.

Among the three-year-term Directors, all of whom were re-elected, are F. W. Vanderbilt, W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Chauncey M. Depew, William H. Newman, and W. C. Brown.

In the case of the Nickel Plate, Messrs. Newman, Ledyard, and Hughitt succeed J. S. Kennedy, Ralph W. Hickox, and Mr. Twombly.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 4.—Money was in quiet demand to-day. Discounts were easy on expectations of a lower bank rate tomorrow owing to the gold influx, but conservative persons believe the rate will remain unchanged in view of the foreign gold demand, the collection of the income tax, and preparation for the Autumn gold outflow.

The stock Exchange opened more cheerful in anticipation of an early reduction of the Bank rate and the advance of 7-16 in consols strengthened other British securities, despite the Canadian Pacific loan of £5,000,000 and preparations for the conversion of the Japanese loan. A sharp recovery in rubber shares ocurred on repurchases at the lower level, while the advance in American securities helped the market in general. The closing tone was steady, at a fraction under the best.

The market for American securities opened firm on professional covering, with Pacific stocks, United States Steel, and Amalgamated Copper leading. The improvement progressed during the afternoon, and, with New York buying, the strength was maintained, with the final tone strong and prices near the best.

Bar silver steady, 24⅞d per ounce.

Money, 2½@3 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3¼@3⅜ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 3¼@3⅜ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: At Madrid, 6.70; at Lisbon, 10.75.

India Council bills were allotted to-day at 1s 4d.

PARIS, May 4.—Prices on the Bourse opened heavy, but later were firmer. The Bourse will be closed to-morrow, Ascension Day.

Three per cent. rentes, 98 francs 72½ centimes for the account.

Exchange on London, 25 francs 24 centimes for checks.

BERLIN, May 4.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were moderately higher.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 49½ pfennigs for checks.

Money, 4 per cent.

Private discount rate, 3⅛ per cent.

First Refunding Four Per Cent. Gold Mortgage Bonds.

To the holders of bonds of the above issue:

In view of the appointment of a Receiver of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railway Company, the lessee of the property of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad Company, and at the written request of a large number of bondholders, the undersigned have organized as a Committee to protect the interests of the First Refunding Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad Company, dated April 1, 1901.

Bondholders are invited to deposit their bonds promptly with the Committee's Depositary, THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, 15 Nassau Street, New York City, which, on behalf of the Committee, will issue transferable Certificates of Deposit therefor. The deposit agreement is designed primarily to conserve and maintain the rights of the bondholders, and in case the Committee shall find it necessary to adopt or recommend a plan of reorganization, any holder of certificates of deposit who may be dissatisfied with such plan will be entitled to withdraw his bonds within twenty days from the commencement of the publication of notice that such plan has been adopted or recommended, upon payment of a proportionate part of the expenses of the Committee, but without compensation to the Committee for its services.

NEW RAILROAD BONDS PLACED IN EUROPE

Money from Abroad Offsets Our Loss in Trade Balance and Stops Gold Exports.

BANKERS TURN THE TIDE

Negotiations Directed from This Side and Changed Conditions Benefit the Whole Country.

European investors are coming into the market for American bonds to such an extent that an entirely different aspect is given the New York money market in relation to the money markets of Europe. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have practically concluded negotiations for the placing of $50,000,000 of Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul bonds in Paris, and negotiations for the sale abroad of less important blocks of bonds have already been concluded by these and other banks.

The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis has arranged the sale of $8,000,000 bonds in France, and Paris banking institutions have also taken within the last week about $10,000,000 of New York City revenue warrants. Still other sales of bonds abroad have been under negotiation, including a block of Missouri, Kansas & Texas and a block of Southern Railway, and report had it also that a portion of the recently authorized issue of New York Central Lines equipment trust bonds would be placed with European investors.

One influence of these bond sales abroad which is regarded as particularly opportune is that they offset to a very large extent the balance against this country, which was responsible for the recent heavy gold exports. On our routine commercial and financial transactions with Europe, owing to our heavy imports and our diminished exports, we have been heavily indebted to Europe, and it has all along been recognized that practically the only thing which could speedily correct this situation was the sale of a large amount of American securities on the other side of the Atlantic. The bankers who have successfully carried on these negotiations are regarded in the financial district as having performed a distinct service for the general good of this country.

The importance attached to these transactions was shown yesterday in a decline in sterling exchange to 4.86¾, nearly half a cent under Tuesday's closing rate and 140 points under the highest rate of the past fortnight, when gold was still flowing out in large amount. The decline yesterday put the market at a level at which gold exports need no longer be regarded as an immediate possibility. In addition to this, the attitude which foreign investors are now showing toward our bonds holds out the hope that Europe will take enough of our securities to offset the present unfavorable trade balance of this country, and that this Fall the United States may be able to draw gold from abroad should occasion arise to meet the requirements of the crop-moving season.

No formal announcement was made yesterday of the impending St. Paul bond issue, but it was learned on undisputed authority that the sale of the bonds in Paris has been settled in principal, although the details of the transaction are still the subject of negotiation. Recently the St. Paul management discussed with bankers the advisability of putting out an issue of convertible bonds, but the bonds which are to be placed in Paris to the amount of $50,000,000 will not be convertible bonds but straight bonds of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul itself. The proceeds of this issue, it is expected, will provide for the needs of the system for a long time.

The issue which the Big Four has arranged to place in Paris, presumably through J. P. Morgan & Co., although that firm would neither confirm nor deny that it was concerned, amounts to $8,000,000. The amount which the Southern Railway was said to be placing was $10,000,000. Reports that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were about to place issues of bonds were said in authoritative quarters to be unfounded.

The New York City revenue warrants which have gone to Paris are understood to be two blocks of $5,000,000 each, one of which was placed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the other a few days ago by Goldman, Sachs & Co.

The day's favorable developments were reflected in the stock market by an active and advancing market, in which gains of from 1 to nearly 4 points were made in a number of the active stocks.

ENNIS & STOPPANI SETTLE.

Court Approves Offer of 15 Cents Cash and 85 Cents Notes on the Dollar.

The composition made by the failed Consolidated Exchange house of Ennis & Stoppani with its creditors was confirmed yesterday by Judge Hough of the United States District Court. Under its terms the creditors receive 15 cents in cash on the dollar and 85 cents in notes, payable at six, twelve, eighteen, and twenty-four months respectively. Lindsay Russell, the Trustee, is directed to deposit $150,000 with the Trust Company of America to carry out the terms and to turn over all property in his possession, except the cash to the bankrupts.

The Trustee will receive, however, sufficient funds to pay the claims of 263 creditors, the amounts of which either are undetermined or unliquidated.

Mechanics' Bank Pays a Dividend.

The Mechanics' National Bank declared its first dividend yesterday in a quarterly disbursement of 3 per cent., which is payable May 10 to stockholders of record on May 6. The bank is a coalition of the Mechanics' National and the National Copper Bank.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Boxes and Wrappings Are Held Free of Duty Under the New Tariff.

The Board of United States General Appraisers made an important ruling yesterday regarding the classification of so-called "coverings" under the tariff act of 1909. The decision handed down yesterday stands in the name of Jules Matagrin, and is the first case of the kind to be decided under the tariff enacted last year. During the life of the Dingley law, passed in 1897, conflicts between importers and the Government were continuous. The outlook for prolonged litigation under the new tariff is said to be good also.

In the latest test case it appears that paper boxes and paper wrappings of imported merchandise subject to specific duty were assessed by Collector Loeb at the rate at which they would have been properly assessable if imported separately. They are the usual coverings of the goods, and the Collector cites as his warrant for his assessment the last provision of Paragraph 195 of the new law. Matagrin, the importer, sets up the contention before the board that the boxes and wrappings, being the usual coverings of the merchandise which they contain, are free of duty. The importer's claim is sustained by Judge Hay, who writes an elaborate opinion in which his colleagues concur.

General Appraiser Hay goes into a technical discussion of the law governing coverings, the construction to be given, the rule to follow in construing doubtful or ambiguous language, together with the interpretation to be put on the proviso relating to coverings. The decision says that it is a general rule of statutory construction that a provision in a law shall be construed with reference to the subject matter of the paragraph of which it forms part. The conclusion is reached that the claim of the importer is well taken and must be sustained.

Judge Hay says that a revenue law should not be so construed as to extend its operation by implication beyond the clear import of the language used, nor a negative provision be given the force and effect of positive enactment when, by such construction, a duty not otherwise provided for would be the result. The general appraiser holds that in construing a revenue law, in instances where the language is ambiguous or doubtful in meaning, the construction should be in favor of the importer, as duties are never imposed on the citizen upon vague or doubtful interpretation.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

JENNIE CARUSO.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Jennie Caruso, millinery and plumes, 110 East Houston Street, show liabilities of $5,014 and assets of $2,319, consisting of stock, $500, and accounts, $1,819. Among the creditors are S. I. Hyman & Brother, $1,641; Charles E. Heymann, $1,441, and Giuseppe Ferruggia, $1,000.

DAVID FRAITAG.—Judge Holt has granted an application to amend the petition in bankruptcy filed on March 25 against David Fraitag, cloak manufacturer of 29 West Twenty-first Street, so as to include Max Bernfeld, who became a silent partner in August last, and the petition is now against both individually and as copartners trading under the name of David Fraitag.

GILLEN PRINTING COMPANY.—Judge Holt has appointed Timothy J. Hayes receiver in bankruptcy for the Gillen Printing Company of 608 to 614 West Forty-third Street, with a bond of $25,000, and authorized him to continue business for twenty days. The assets are estimated at $50,000, consisting of a printing and lithographing plant, materials, cash in bank, $364; accounts, $11,718, and orders, $4,594.

LINCOLN TOOL AND SUPPLY COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Lincoln Tool and Supply Company, dealer in tools and hardware at 145 Chambers Street, by these creditors: John J. Versfeldt, $389; Thomas D. McElroy, $73, and the Central Stamping Company, $37. Judge Holt appointed Colin W. McLennan receiver and Nathaniel A. Prentiss was designated special master. The liabilities are $8,000 and the assets $4,000. The company was incorporated in March, 1909, with a capital stock of $5,000.

MOSES GENSER.—Moses Genser, a salesman, of 162 West Ninety-eighth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $52,804 and no assets. The debts were contracted in Montreal in 1907. Among the creditors are the Auburn Woolen Mills, Peterboro, $796; Universal Knitting Company, Toronto, $756; Joseph Simpson & Sons, Toronto, $3,607; Bohan Brothers, Toronto, $1,593; Slingsby Manufacturing Company, Brantford, Ontario, $1,961; J. B. Perry Knitting Company, Hamilton, Ontario, $855; Penman's Line, Paris, Ontario, $3,446, and G. R. Portway & Co., Leeds, England, $1,926.

JOHN LEONARD.—John Leonard of 797 Greenwich Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $27,220 and assets consisting of cash, $5; seventy-four shares of stock of the Hudson Baking Company, and forty-one shares of stock of the Hamann & Leonard Company, manufacturers of sugar wafers, put in at no value. John Leonard was Secretary of the Hamann & Leonard Company. Most of the liabilities were incurred in building a flat house at 1,892 Bathgate Avenue, the Bronx, and $19,800 is secured by mortgages on that property. Among the creditors are Grace C. Marvin, $15,000, secured; Fannie E. Brooker, $4,800, secured; Stephen H. Welch, $900; Twelfth Ward Bank, $754, and John Bell Company, $721.

JAYSEE CORSET COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Jaysee Corset Company, manufacturer of corsets at 323 Grand Street, with seven retail stores, by Cass & Apfel, attorneys for these creditors: David Schachter, $400; Samuel Greenbaum, $500, and Joseph Blauhut, $1,940, which was secured by a chattel mortgage of $2,000 on machinery, worth now about $1,000, thus making his unsecured claim $940. The business was started in 1906 by Joseph Cohen, and was incorporated on May 3, 1909, with a capital stock of $30,000, and Mr. Cohen became President and Treasurer. Judge Holt appointed Robert L. Harrison receiver, with a bond of $7,500, and authorized him to continue business for twenty days. William Allen was designated special master.

MORRIS SIMON COMPANY.—Creditors of the Morris Simon Company, manufacturer of neckwear at 752 Broadway, are trying to effect a settlement at 60 cents on the dollar, payable 25 cents cash, 20 cents in note at three months, and 15 cents note at six months, and are trying to keep the matter out of the bankruptcy court. The liabilities are about $37,000 and the assets $33,000. Morris Simon established the business in 1872, and it was incorporated in 1900 with a capital stock of $50,000. He was President up to April 9 of this year, when he resigned, and it is said received $15,000 for his interest in the business. The creditors' committee has ascertained that the company between April 2 and 27 paid out $40,000 to confidential creditors, friends, and relatives.

SNYDER & RIDGEWAY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against George Snyder and Lewis Ridgeway, who compose the firm of Snyder & Ridgeway, dealers in furniture and decorators at 152 and 154 West Thirty-fourth Street, by these creditors: Charles H. Harris, $329; Morris S. Lipps, $555, and David Van Bierkom, $154. It was alleged that they were insolvent, made preferential payments of $3,000, and transferred merchandise and accounts of $3,000. Judge Holt appointed Sutherland D. Smith receiver on application of Myers & Goldsmith, who stated that liabilities are $25,000 and the assets $12,500, consisting of stock, $10,000, and accounts, $2,500. The receiver was authorized to continue business for twenty days. Peter B. Olney was designated special master.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Denver Investor Pays $1,200,000 for Cathedral Parkway Apartments--Big Acreage Deal in Westchester County—Sale of Catholic Protectory Lots Adjourned.

One of the largest apartment house sales of the year, involving $1,200,000, which in itself is one of the biggest realty deals of the season, was announced yesterday by Earle & Calhoun, who have sold to a Western investor, Robert Smith of Denver, Col., the two new twelve-story apartment houses, St. Albans and Dartmouth, at 509 and 515 Cathedral Parkway, (110th Street,) between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue. Each house occupies a plot 108.4 by 100.

These apartment houses were erected by the Carlyle Realty Company on land acquired from John D. Crimmins in November, 1908, and they were the first apartment houses erected on the block. They were completed last October at a cost of about $800,000, and are almost fully rented. The Carlyle Realty Company, which has sold the property, is composed of L. S. and A. M. Bing and Edgar A. Levy. The new owner now controls a frontage on Cathedral Parkway of 216 feet, and he has purchased the houses for a permanent investment, this being his first purchase of Manhattan property.

The development of Cathedral Parkway has been rapid within the last two years. Its location is peculiarly well adapted to high-class residential dwellings, Morningside Park and Cathedral Heights being to the immediate east and north, while Riverside Park is close at hand to the west. Only a few weeks ago the desirability of this section for investment purposes was shown in the purchase by Charles E. Otis of Yonkers of the new twelve-story Brittania apartment at 527 Cathedral Parkway, 108.4 by 100, from the Gracehill Realty Company.

Big Acreage Deal in Westchester.

It was reported yesterday at White Plains that John W. Sterling, counsel for the Consolidated Gas Company of New York, had bought land in Greenwich, Conn., and in the town of North Castle, Westchester County, consisting of about 1,200 acres at a price said to be about $250,000. The properties reported sold are the 500-acre farm of Silas Meade at Greenwich and two farms of 720 acres owned by Allen and George W. Brundage at North Castle.

The three farms are adjoining and lie along the route of the proposed Westchester & Northern Railroad, which is an extension of the New York, Westchester & Boston, controlled by William Rockefeller, J. P. Morgan, and others.

It is said that Mr. Sterling expects to improve the land and erect a large mansion on it, and that he will also have his own electric plant. He will construct many driveways, and in addition to a private golf course he will also have an artificial lake on his estate. Mr. Sterling owns about 1,500 acres in the towns of Harrison and Rye.

Buys Bowery Hotel.

The estate of Norman Cook has sold to Michael and Bernard Flyn the four-story hotel and stores, 100 Bowery, on lot 25 by 100, near Hester Street. The property was to have been sold at auction to-day.

Buying Dwelling for Occupancy.

Pease & Elliman have sold for Alfred Feldheim 112 East Sixty-first Street, a three-story high-stoop brownstone dwelling, on lot 18.6 by 100.5, to a client for occupancy.

John H. Lawrence has resold premises 144 West Ninety-second Street, a three-story and basement private house, for Mr. Armstrong to a client for occupancy.

Broadway Apartment Sold.

A. Offenberg & Son have sold for A. & G. Cohen 3,149 Broadway, a six-story apartment house, with stores, on plot 42 by 100, to a client. Negotiations are pending for a resale of the property. This is the fourth house of a row of six sold by the above brokers.

Harlem Property in Demand.

Max J. Klein has bought from the Citizens' Holding Company the two six-story tenements 29 to 33 West 135th Street. Mr. Klein now controls a plot 125 by 100, having recently purchased the adjoining tenement, 25 West 135th Street. Morris Moore negotiated both sales.

Joshua L. Evans & Co. have sold for George N. Reinhardt the storage and stable building at 50 West 133d Street, on lot 25 by 99.11.

William C. Flanagan & Co. have sold for Henry W. Harwood the private house 245 West 138th Street to H. W. Walker.

Bronx Sales.

Joshua L. Evans & Co. have sold for Sidney A. Harris the five-story triple flat, with stores, on lot 25 by 100, at the southeast corner of Brook Avenue and 150th Street.

Walker & Burger and Alfred A. Kruger have sold for Jeremiah A. McCarthy and George M. Sallinger three lots on the south side of 167th Street, between Simpson Street and Southern Boulevard, to a builder for improvement.

Clement H. Smith has sold for a client the two-family brick house 1,768 Topping Avenue, Mount Hope.

Brooklyn Sales.

Charles A. Wessell has sold for W. H. Snedeker to a client for investment 1,524 Pacific Street, near Albany Avenue, a four-story double brick and limestone apartment house, 27 by 85 by 107.

Burrill Brothers have sold the three-story single brick and stone flat, 22 feet 6 inches wide and 100 feet deep, 384 Twelfth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, for J. G. Hagin to the Ponce Realty Company of New York.

$1,775 for Long Island Acreage.

Stuard Hirschman purchased at auction yesterday a tract of about 100 acres located between Jamaica and Flushing. The property has frontages on both sides of the Newtown and North Hempstead Turnpike. On it are a farmhouse and several buildings. The price paid by Mr. Hirschman was $1,775 an acre, or a total of $176,826. Joseph P. Day conducted the sale under the direction of James W. Tredwell, as referee in partition proceedings.

Staten Island Sales

John Bright Stevens has purchased, through Cornelius G. Kolff, a plot 25 by 135, adjoining his residence on the southerly side of Henderson Avenue, near Bard Avenue, Livingston.

Recent Buyers.

George B. Radford is the buyer of 360 West 116th Street. He also owns 358, and now controls a plot 37.6 by 100.

William L. Levy is the purchaser of the property 105 and 107 East Twenty-ninth Street, 40 by 98.9, reported sold Tuesday.

J. C. Starr is the buyer of 124 West Ninety-seventh Street, sold by Ernest J. Gaben of Berlin, Germany, through Frederick Zittel & Sons.

No Bids for Wolfe Building.

The Wolfe building property at 80 and 82 William Street was again offered at auction yesterday by Parish, Fisher & Co. As no bid of over $30,000 over the prior liens, aggregating about $243,000, could be obtained, the sale was adjourned to May 18.

Protectory Lot Sale Adjourned.

A portion of the large holdings of the New York Catholic Protectory, comprising 389 Bronx lots, were offered at auction in the Vesey Street Salesroom yesterday by Bryan L. Kennelly.

The sale was adjourned after thirty lots had been sold for a total of $23,775, an average of about $800 a lot. The property will be offered in June. The attendance was good, but the prices received were below what the owners considered good value. A plot 76 by 108, on Unionport Road, near Guerlain Place, went to Michael Fay for $1,750. Other plots on Unionport Road, near Guerlain Place, brought from $800 to $825 each, and on Storrow Place $725 each.

The southeast corner of Walker Avenue and Hoguet Avenue, 25 by 104, went to Thomas F. Dougherty for $1,825. On Odell Street, Protectory Avenue, and Olmstead Avenue prices ranged from $375 to $750. A triangular plot at Hoguet Avenue, Protectory Avenue, and Unionport Road, containing about five lots, went to R. H. Green for $5,400.

$250,000 Factory at Hubert and West Streets.

LITTLE FARMS IN NEW YORK CITY

Little Farms at Annadale, Staten Island

Our Little Farms are the biggest thing in New York real estate this Spring—big in the talk they have excited—big in the attention they have drawn—big in the possibilities of the present, for they mean a care-free country home for the Summer, health and happiness for the children, the comforts of a country club, the pleasures of the seashore.

Big, too, with the possibilities for the future. Use your Little Farm—enjoy it—confident in the fact that it is part of New York City—that you buy now by the quarter acre—some day you will sell by the lot. New York has never stopped growing; it never will. How long will it be before each lot in your Little Farm will be worth $500 or $1,000?

A Quarter Acre for a Quarter a Day

48 Minutes from Broadway

Not bare land, nor useless, but with streets opened and graded, sidewalks laid and each Little Farm planted with shade trees and flowers, fruits and shrubs, ready to put up your bungalow and enjoy life while the values pile up.

PELHAMWOOD

Between Pelham and New Rochelle

The Place Really to Live

Pelhamwood is 30 minutes out, the second stop from the Grand Central Station. There are three lines of transportation to the city, 75 trains per day, and two Railroad Stations on the property.

Come in, or write for free tickets to Pelhamwood and the Book of Views.

Go out to Pelhamwood to-day, or whenever it is convenient. Look over this beautiful suburb with its charming homes, city improvements and comfortable, shady grounds. Then have our automobiles take you through the magnificent surrounding estates, Pelham Manor and New Rochelle.

You'll want to live at Pelhamwood then.

To own property at Pelhamwood on our plan of selling is as easy as paying rent, or depositing money in the savings bank. You will be surprised to learn that you can afford to own property, build and live in a home planned after your own ideas, located in this delightful neighborhood, where you are closer to business than are people living in Brooklyn, Jersey or the Bronx.

Tickets, full information, maps and interesting data at our office.

FLORIDA—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

FLORIDA LAND.

The most desirable and fertile land adjoins the fast growing city of Tampa; fine, hard roads surround the property, and the trolley is near at hand. A short ride brings the market gardener to the great market centre, where he can always dispose of his produce. There is no equal location for a farm and a pleasant home; a good income can be made in a few months, which should increase in time. This exceptionally fertile and favorably situated land is now sold at the low price of $50 per acre; $1 per acre cash, and $1 per acre per month until paid for; no interest or taxes during that period. Price will soon be advanced, as the property is selling rapidly. Location and fertility considered, this is by far the cheapest land in Flordia. L. O. HENDERSON, representative Tampa Bay Land Co., Room 605, 115 Broadway.

Furnished Rooms in Desirable Locations.

The New York Times offers the best way to rent Furnished Rooms. The following letters are from satisfied advertisers:

The New York Times:
I am very much pleased with advertising in the Furnished Room column of The New York Times. I tried The Times last week and gave you an advertisement for seven times, and after the very first time my advertisement appeared I rented the room.
Mrs. E. S. Goodrich,
622 West 137th St.

The New York Times:
The most remarkable thing in my experience of advertising in newspapers happened yesterday. On that day appeared my ad. under the Furnished Room column in The New York Times, and last night I had several calls and rented my room to a satisfactory tenant.
Max Weinstein,
327 Church St.

The New York Times:
It gives me great pleasure to state that the results of my advertisement in The New York Times under the Furnished Room and Boarders Wanted classifications were more than gratifying.
Mrs. Anna Bradly,
58 West 45th St.

TAXICAB BUSINESS FOR SALE.
EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY.

A well-established Taxicab Company in business for nearly two years, in one of the best localities in New York for Taxicab work, would like to sell its entire business, good will, equipment, fixtures, lease, &c., at a big sacrifice.

Equipment is composed of about fifteen cars in very good condition, recently painted and overhauled. Elegant garage on very prominent thoroughfare.

Company in very good standing; has large following of customers on account of good service rendered.

Reasons for wanting to sell due to those interested not being able to give sufficient attention, owing to other business interests.

To right party this will be an exceptional opportunity.

THREE CENTRES HERE FOR TRADE IN GIRLS

Levinson Tells Mr. Whitman the Addresses of "Clearing Houses" in the Traffic.

WARRANTS TO COME NEXT

Rockefeller Grand Jury Issues an Appeal for Proof—Not Much Evidence Yet of Organization.

Harry Levinson, the burly young product of the east side, who sold two girls to agents of the District Attorney's office, wast closeted the greater part of yesterday afternoon with Mr. Whitman, to whom he unfolded a story of the traffic in women as he has seen it. He will continue his story to-day, and it is understood that several warrants then will be issued for the arrest of persons he has named.

First of all, Levinson's is not a story of organized traffic. He furnished the names of three apartments in this city which, he says, act as exchanges, and whose keepers, both men and women, live on the profits, which are not inconsiderable. These places keep always on hand from five to ten girls, whom keepers of resorts outside the city may purchase at any time for $50 or more. The "steerer" who delivers the girl at her destination receives 10 per cent. of her earnings at the end of the first week.

Levinson described in detail how a girl might be drawn into such a place. She might wander down from some Connecticut town, perhaps at first with the idea of staying only a few days. She would meet an elaborately dressed woman at some theatre, who would scrape an acquaintance, invite her to supper, and paint an immoral life in such alluring colors that the girl would decide to stay.

After the interview, Levinson's lawyer, Edward Carpel, told the reporters the story of the negotiations which finally landed his client in the Tombs. At the "Barrel," on Thirtieth Street, Levinson says, he first met "Dick" Miller and a woman who posed as his wife and the keeper of a resort in Seattle.

"She talked the lingo of the joints, and I fell for it," Levinson now explains somewhat ruefully.

After eating and drinking together they wandered to a Second Avenue bakery, where the two girls who were finally sold were pointed out, pronounced satisfactory, and the next place of meeting fixed as the Hotel Albany, where the money, $40, was paid. "Mrs. Miller" was to take both the girls immediately to Atlantic City, but one of them missed the train, and in response to a telegram Levinson himself took her there, where he was welcomed at a cottage on North Carolina Avenue. The girls were to be taken West, he was told, when a large number was obtained.

"One thing I did think was queer," he told his lawyer. "They drank nothing but wine, and I was used only to beer."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., yesterday made this statement:

> The additional Grand Jury, sworn in in January by Judge O'Sullivan of the Court of General Sessions, was charged with the investigation of the truth or falsity of certain statements which had been publicly made during the past few months to the effect that "the City of New York is a centre or clearing house for an organized traffic in women for immoral purposes, or what has come to be known as the 'white slave traffic.'"
>
> Pursuant to this charge the Grand Jury has been seeking legal evidence on this subject from all available sources. The information which many citizens have volunteered has proved in most cases to be general rather than specific.
>
> Before closing its investigation the Grand Jury desires to announce publicly that it will be glad to receive definite, specific information as to the existence in this county of any traffic in women for immoral purposes from any citizen, official, or other individual who has such information.
>
> Those who are willing to assist the Grand Jury in its investigation are asked to call at the office of James B. Reynolds, Assistant District Attorney, Criminal Courts Building, within the next week. It will save the time of many individuals and of Mr. Reynolds if only those appear who are willing and able to present the facts regarding the specific matter above stated.
>
> On behalf of the additional Grand Jury,
>
> JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr.,
> Foreman.

It is understood that this statement is given out to guard the investigators against the stigma of untouched available evidence which is expected to be heard as soon as its findings are made public. Mr. Reynolds has been swamped with stories and complaints of the most remote character.

"People seem to have the idea that anything from unlawful marriage to affinity is white slavery," he declared.

District Attorney Whitman was reluctant to comment on the situation, lest he seem to rob the Grand Jury of its fire. It is understood, however, that such traffic as there is is not organized, as people have been led to believe.

"I do believe that there has been a marked decrease in the traffic this Winter," Mr. Whitman said last night, "and I think that we can do much more to suppress it and to keep it suppressed."

The search for the eleven-year-old girl whom the Miller agent reported he had seen in the Belle Moore flat, and who vanished before his next visit to the flat, has been unavailing thus far, though Mr. Whitman's detectives, Central Office men, and others searched all Tuesday night and yesterday. The quest has not been abandoned.

Counsel for the Moore woman declared their client, now in the Tombs, never saw such a girl, and her neighbors bear her out. The District Attorney has only the word of his agent.

POLICEMAN SUES A GIRL.

Says Miss Hartshorn's Horse Threw and Hurt Him in a Park Collision.

John F. McKenna, a former mounted policeman, has brought suit in the Supreme Court for $25,000 damages for personal injuries against Eleanor Hartshorn, the seventeen-year-old daughter of James N. Hartshorn of 40 East Sixty-fifth Street. Mr. Hartshorn applied yesterday to Supreme Court Justice McCall for an order modifying a previous court order for his examination before trial.

McKenna alleges in his complaint that he was thrown from his horse in the performance of duty on Jan. 31, 1909, by Miss Hartshorn colliding with him on the West Drive, Central Park, near Eighth Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street. The accident has incapacitated him for duty, he alleges, and has cost him large sums for medical treatment.

Justice McCall reserved decision on the motion.

Tom Hadaway Weds Miss Bryant.

Tom Hadaway, who played the rôle of the newspaper proprietor's son in "The Fourth Estate" at Wallack's Theatre a month or so ago, and Miss Theresa Bryant, who has been a member of Blanche Ring's company in "The Yankee Girl," were married yesterday at St. Paul's Church, Columbus Avenue and Sixtieth Street. Mrs. Hadaway is a daughter of the late Dan Bryant, a pioneer minstrel.

ASYLUM ALUMNI DINE.

Graduates of the Hebrew Institution Gather at the Lexington Opera House.

A newly formed Alumni Association of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, an institution which recently celebrated its fiftieth anniversary, met at a dinner last night at the Lexington Opera House. There were nearly 400 present, most of whom received their early training in the orphan asylum.

The celebration of the fiftieth anniversary occurred on April 10, and it was at that time that the present society was organized. Hermann Zadick was elected Chairman of a committee which included Herman Stark, Harry Simons, Michael Wolfe, Benjamin Shane, and Aaron Schiff. The banquet last night was the first result of the organization, but it is hoped that more permanent results will follow.

The first speaker, Dr. Samuel Langer, said he hoped that every member of the organization would feel pride in his Alma Mater.

"Some of you," he said, "are graduates of the City College, as I am. Others of you have gone to other colleges, some for professional training. But what do four years in college, or two years in some training school, compare with the years in which your character was formed when you were living in the Hebrew Orphan Asylum? That institution is your Alma Mater and you owe it to that institution to help it in every way you can. The City College owes its present position largely to the work of its alumni. Let us do as much for the Hebrew Orphan Asylum."

Michael Wolfe, President of the Seligman Solomon Society, an organization composed exclusively of alumni of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, said he had received a note from a young woman graduate which said, "Please take my name off your list."

"That young lady," he said, "was ashamed to receive mail with Hebrew Orphan Asylum headings. She was ashamed to say that she was a graduate of that institution. She should have been proud of it."

These sentiments were vigorously applauded by those present. Another speaker was Justice Newburger, who was one of the invited guests. Herman Zadick presided.

Pays a Nickel and Sits Through an Exhibition to Criticise Views.

Thomas A. Edison, who made the modern moving pictures possible, appeared in Orange, N. J., Tuesday night with a man from his factory and quietly entered a hall, paying his nickel at the door like all the common folks. He stayed out the show, and went home with a fund of material for a talk with "Jim" White, the best known moving picture man in the business.

When Edison goes out to inspect the picture shows he slips in quietly, trying to avoid recognition. He gets real pleasure out of the shows despite his critical eye.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 4.—The largest verdict ever given by a jury in the United States Circuit Court here was returned to-day to the Goodwin Manufacturing Company of St. Louis, to which was awarded $95,424 damages for failure on the part of the Edison Phonograph Company of East Orange to comply with the terms of a contract whereby the latter was to take two carloads of steric acid every ten days for two years prior to 1907.

The Goodwin Company sued for $213,000, the full amount of its claim had it made all of the acid and the product not been received by the Edison Company. The evidence showed that the Edison Company did not take much of the product, and the Goodwin Company contended that it had been put to the expense of making over its plant to produce such a large quantity of steric acid.

The product was to be used in the making of wax cylinders for phonographs.

NOVEL IN A LAWSUIT.

May Be Used to Show Love Led Wife to Waive Rights.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 4.—"Shibboleth," a novel written just before her marriage, may prove an important factor in a suit by Mrs. Susanne Ella Wood Dean to recover dower rights in the $1,400,000 estate of her late husband, John E. Dean.

According to testimony brought out thus far the couple signed at the time of the nuptials an agreement settling upon the wife only $25,000 in the event of her husband's death. Her attorneys maintain that as a young unsophisticated person her love for Dean was such that it overshadowed any consciousness of her rights as his wife, and that she signed the agreement without understanding what it meant.

Attorneys for the defense—they represent the eDan sisters, who are now in possession of the estate of their father—maintain that she was in possession of every faculty and knew exactly what she was doing. This they seek to establish by means of letters and a diary which may be introduced later. Passages in these letters protest against "that dreadful agreement which is hanging over me."

To offset such letters Mrs. Dean's lawyears may introduce as evidence a complete copy of their client's novel of love and intrigue, hoping to prove from it that her's was a love match and that she had no thought of financial interest at the time of the marriage.

DROP IN OUTPUT OF PIG IRON.

Decrease in Product for April Reaches 130,000 Tons.

The low price of pig iron, already has had a marked effect on the total output. The Iron Age statistics for April show that twenty-four furnaces were blown out, or banked, and that production was 82,792 tons a day against 84,459 tons in March. The total output for April was 2,483,763 gross tons, against 2,617,949 tons in March.

The Iron Age estimates that the furnaces which are about to go out of blast represent a reduction of 900,000 tons a year, and says: "By another ten days it is fair to assume that the rate of pig iron production will be 10 per cent. less than on April 1." The Iron Age says:

> The finished material markets are affected by the continued decline in pig iron to the extent of showing some hesitation in contracting. The possibility of later concessions from present levels has influenced some consumers to hold back.
>
> The most important construction now under consideration is that for the proposed subways in New York, on which some action is expected within sixty days. The tri-borough scheme would require about 50,000 tons of deformed bars and 100,000 tons of structural shapes.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> Statistics for the past month give the news, which will be generally welcome in the trade and will probably have a steadying effect, that the curtailment has started in earnest. But the actual figures do not show a very large reduction, as a number of stacks were not blown out until the last week in April.
>
> The pig iron market shows little life. In finished materials some improvement is to be noted in the increase of tonnage booked in structural, wire, and tubular goods, and in the broader inquiry current. The railroads continue to place some orders for freight cars and motive power, and there are indications that an unusually large order for cars will be placed soon by one of the leading systems.

FOR THE TABLE.

Pretty and economical napkins for the woman who uses blue china, particularly blue Canton, are made from a Japanese blue cotton print. This comes by the piece in a long strip about twelve yards in the piece, which will cost 80 cents. The strip is the width of a small napkin with selvage edges on both ends. The napkins are cut off and hemstitched on the two ends, the edges left as they are. The patterns in blue on the white vary in design. To make the napkins a little larger they may be cut longer than they are wide. For luncheons or teas, and particularly for use in the Summer home, these napkins are exceedingly pretty and there is no question about the cost. They make good picnic napkins. The cotton is coarse and hemstitching is little work.

Napkins in the finest linen are now coming, many of them, in a size a little longer than the width, like a towel. It is a more convenient shape for use.

Fine large strawberries in the more expensive shops are as low as 28 cents and they are considerably less in other places.

California cherries are 40 cents a pound.

New carrots are 5 cents a bunch.

Cucumbers are 5 cents a piece.

A glass of sherry added to the white sauce in which cold chicken is heated for a luncheon dish, Sunday tea, or the chafing dish, is a great improvement. The cold chicken is cut as for salad, the white sauce is made with a tablespoonful of butter and two of flour rubbed together, and a pint of milk, seasoned with salt and a little black or red pepper or paprika at will, and the sherry is added. Two hard-boiled eggs are an improvement, cut into dice and stirred in, with a few thin slices for the top. The whole is served very hot.

LITHOGRAPHERS GET 8-HOUR DAY, UNASKED

Employers' Association Also Adopts a Free Insurance Plan for Its Men.

AFFECTS 30,000 EMPLOYES

Measure Adopted Unanimously at Convention of the Organization After Beating the Union.

The National Association of Employing Lithographers, which several years ago fought the labor unions and defeated them and which ever since have been able to maintain an "open shop," decided yesterday at their annual convention in this city to grant an eight-hour day to their employes.

This step was taken, it was explained, not because the association feared that pressure would be brought to bear for a shorter workday, but because the members thought it wise to make conditions so satisfactory for their men that they would not have to turn to the labor unions.

In addition to giving an eight-hour day beginning Jan. 1 next, instead of the nine-hour day which at present prevails in lithograph shops throughout the country, the association adopted a plan which provides its employes with health, accident, and life insurance without cost.

This plan will be operated through an insurance company and has been decided in order to take the place of the insurance plan in the labor union with which the lithographic workers were affiliated before the employers declared for an open shop.

The granting of an eight-hour day and the decision to provide their employes insurance against sickness, accident, and death is expected to prevent, for a long time, any labor trouble in the lithograph trade. It is looked upon as a step which probably will be followed in many other trades which have found it difficult to deal with labor organizations.

The decision to grant an eight-hour day was not made without a fight in the ranks of the National Association of Employing Lithographers. Two years ago the proposition was broached. But then it was not looked upon kindly by a majority of the association membership. A campaign of education has been going on in the association for many months, however, and dozens of the employers who formerly looked with disfavor on an eight-hour day were won over.

The subject came up for discussion on Monday, when the convention began in the Hotel Astor. Yesterday it came to a vote. The measure was carried by a small majority, and was afterward made unanimous.

The granting of the eight-hour day will affect between 20,000 and 30,000 employes it is said.

About 200 members, some from as far west as San Francisco, attended the convention. Last night the lithographers dined at the Hotel Astor. Walter Clothier of Philadelphia, Vice President of the association, was toastmaster, and the speakers were Thomas A. Daly, editor of The Catholic Standard and Times; Rabbi Krass of Brooklyn, and William H. McElroy, who responded to the toast, "Silence is Golden."

MRS. MACKAY RESIGNS.

Retires from the Roslyn School Board and Suggests Her Successor.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSLYN, L. I., May 4.—Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay has resigned from the Roslyn Board of Education. In a letter to the board to-night she explains that inability to attend all the meetings of the board induced her decision to leave it. Here is her letter:

> To the Board of Education, Roslyn:
>
> Gentlemen—After mature consideration I have decided to resign from the Board of Education of Roslyn, as I feel it is not fair for me to hold this office when my absences from Harbor Hill compel me to miss meetings which, as School Trustee, I should always attend.
>
> I should like to suggest Mrs. Thomas Clapham or Mr. Franklin Noble as my successor, and I beg to offer their names to the voters of the district.
>
> I mean to continue my interest in the Roslyn schools, and hope to be present at the closing exercises and to give the prizes I have offered.
>
> I should like my resignation to become effective immediately.
>
> With sincere appreciation to each member of the board for friendly co-operation during my terms of office, sincerely yours,
>
> KATHERINE MACKAY.

Mrs. Mackay has been an active worker for the advancement of educational methods and facilities here since she became a member of the board and has devoted much time to the work.

JUDGMENT FOR J. E. MADDEN.

Jury Now Will Fix Damages in His Suit Against ex-Wife's Husband.

John E. Madden, the horseman, won a victory in the Supreme Court yesterday against Louis V. Bell, who married Madden's divorced wife. Justice Ford gave Madden judgment on the pleadings, and the case will go to a jury for the assessment of damages unless Bell succeeds in obtaining permission to amend his answer.

Madden sued for $50,000, alleging abuse of the privileges of the courts. He charged that Bell had instigated Mrs. Madden's suit for divorce and thereby injured his (Madden's) reputation. Bell submitted four defenses originally, but withdrew three of them. Justice Ford held that the remaining defense was without validity.

Lawyers said yesterday that there has been no action in this country in recent years on the ground of abuse of the privileges of the courts.

TOBACCO DIVIDEND MORE.

Increase of 2½ Per Cent. in Extra Allowance of This Period.

The extra dividend usually paid at this season on the common stock of the American Tobacco Company was made at the rate of 7½ per cent. yesterday, which is an increase of 2½ per cent. over the extra disbursement made at this time last year.

In addition the usual quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent. was declared, making the total dividend to be paid to stockholders on June 1, 10 per cent. During the last fiscal year in addition to the 10 per cent. regular dividend paid on the common stock there was 25 per cent. in extra disbursements.

Viola Allen Sails for London To-day.

Viola Allen, after a long season in F. Marion Crawford's play, "The White Sister," will sail for London this morning on the George Washington. She will spend a part of the Spring in London and will then go to Paris and later to Oberammergau to witness the Passion Play. Early in August she will return to America to start on a tour to the Pacific Coast in "The White Sister."

Notable Increase in Automobile Advertising

In April The New York Times printed 40,290 lines of Automobile advertising. During the same month last year The Times printed 25,681 lines, an increase for 1910 of 14,609 lines.

This gain exceeds the combined gains of two other morning newspapers circulating among a similar class of readers.

The New York Times is purchased by more people with the means and inclination to purchase motor cars than any other advertising medium in New York City.
